HISTORY OF SUPREME AND SUPERIOR COURTS

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania was organized under an Act passed by the Provincial Assembly, called the Judiciary Act of May 22, 1722. This statute provided that the court shall consist of one Chief Justice and two Associate Justices. It was to hold sessions twice a year in Philadelphia and to go on circuit for the trial of cases.

In 1767, the number of Justices was increased to four in all. But, in 1809, the number was again reduced from four to three. However, in 1826, this number was increased to five. Thereafter, until 1876, the Court consisted of five Justices in all.

By the Constitution of 1776, the Justices were to be appointed by the President of the Provincial Council for a term of seven years only, and, though eligible for reappointment, they might be removed by the General Assembly for misbehavior. The Constitution was changed in 1790 and included therein was a provision for the life tenure of office for the Justices.

Under the Act of April 14, 1834, the State was divided into four districts, viz.: The Eastern at Philadelphia; Northern at Sunbury (which was subsequently discontinued); Middle at Harrisburg; and Western at Pittsburgh. Thus it took exactly one hundred and fifty years from the time of the founding of the first provincial appellate tribunal to develop the method of judicial administration followed by this Court today.

In 1838, the term of office of the Justices was fixed at fifteen years.

In 1850, by constitutional amendment, the judiciary were made elective, and this system has prevailed ever since.

When the Constitutional Convention of 1873 assembled, the Supreme Court consisted of five Justices; but in 1876, under the new Constitution, the number was increased to seven and the term of office was fixed at twenty-one years, with the provisions that they are not eligible for reelection.

In 1895, the work of the Supreme Court had increased to such an extent that an act was passed by the General Assembly (P. L. 212) creating the Superior Court of Pennsylvania, which consists of a President Judge and six Judges.

The Superior Court meets in Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Scranton and Pittsburgh, and its terms in those cities are of varying duration.

The Supreme Court is a part of the constitutional framework of our Government, whereas the Superior Court was established by Act of the General Assembly.

The jurisdiction of the two Courts differs in these respects, viz.: The Supreme Court is the Court of last resort in the Commonwealth, and the civil cases appealable thereto are those in which the amount in controversy exceeds the sum of $2,500, and cases of felonious homicide. The Superior Court disposes of civil cases on appeal in which the amount in controversy does not exceed the sum of $2,500, also Public Utility Commission cases, workmen's compensation cases, divorce cases, Milk Control Board cases, Unemployment Compensation Board of Review cases and all criminal cases, except felonious homicide. Cases involving constitutional points and recognized as such by the Supreme Court, may be appealed from the Superior Court to the Supreme Court as a matter of right, but all other appeals from the Superior Court to the Supreme Court must be specially allowed.

The fifty-eighth district, of the county of Mifflin, and shall have one judge learned in the law.

The fifty-ninth district, of the counties of Cameron and Elk, and shall have one judge learned in the law.

And in all cases where a county is or shall be attached to a contiguous district, the qualified voters of said county shall be entitled to vote for the judge or judges.

SECTION 2. The nomination of judges which the qualified electors of any county are entitled to elect of themselves, unconnected with any other county or district, shall be made, held and conducted, and the returns of votes cast at primary elections for the nomination of such judges shall be made, computed, canvassed and certified, as now or may be hereafter provided by law.

SECTION 3. In all judicial districts, at the municipal election next preceding the expiration of the term of any judge now or hereafter commissioned, the qualified electors of any county or counties composing such district shall elect a successor to such judge, to serve as provided by law.

SECTION 4. In all districts in which, by the provisions of this act, two or more judges are provided, one of said judges shall be the president judge of said district, and the other or others shall be additional law judge or judges thereof. The judge of said districts whose commission shall first expire shall be the president judge thereof, except when the president judge has been or shall be reelected, in which case he shall continue to be president judge. The said additional law judge or judges shall possess the same qualifications which are required by the Constitution and laws for the president judge of said district, and shall hold his or their office for a like term and by the same tenure, and shall have the same powers, authority and jurisdiction, and shall be subject to the same duties, restrictions and penalties, as the president judge of said district.

SECTION 5. In all cases where, by the provisions of this act, a district heretofore consisting of more than one county is divided into two or more districts, and in all cases in which counties are transferred from one district to another, the judge now in office shall continue to serve, until the expiration of his term of office, as judge of the district which, by this act, is given the same number as that of the district in which the said judge has heretofore served. At the municipal election next preceding the expiration of the term of office of any such judge, the electors of the county or counties composing such district shall elect a judge to serve as provided by law.

SECTION 6. In all districts in which the office of president judge, additional law judge or the office of orphans' court judge is created by the provisions of this act, the Governor shall appoint a person, learned in the law and otherwise legally qualified, and commission him as president judge, additional law judge or orphans' court judge of such district, as the case may be, to serve until the first Monday of January, one thousand nine hundred fifty-four. At the municipal election to be held in the year one thousand nine hundred fifty-three, successors to the judges so appointed shall be elected by the proper counties for terms of ten years, and shall take office on the first Monday of January, one thousand nine hundred fifty-four. Where any office of judge has been created at the session of the General Assembly of one thousand nine hundred fifty-one, otherwise than by this act, such office shall be in addition to those provided for by this act.

SECTION 7. The following acts and parts of acts and all amendments thereof are hereby repealed:

(1) The act, approved the twenty-first day of May, one thousand nine hundred thirty-one (Pamphlet Laws 167), entitled "An act to designate the several judicial districts of the Commonwealth as required by the Constitution, and to provide for the election and commissioning of judges, learned in the law, for the said districts."

Section 201. The Secretary of the Commonwealth shall exercise in the manner provided by this act all power granted to him by this act and shall perform all the duties imposed upon him by this act, which shall include the following:

(a) To determine, in accordance with the provisions of this act, the forms of nomination petitions and papers, expense accounts and all other forms and records, the form of which he is required to determine under the provisions of this act.

(b) To examine and reexamine voting machines, and to approve or disapprove them for use in this State, in accordance with the provisions of this act.

(c) To certify to county boards of elections for primaries and elections the names of the candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States presidential electors, United States senators, representatives in Congress and all State offices, including senators, representatives, and judges of all courts of record, and delegates and alternate delegates to National Conventions, and members of State committees, and the form and wording of constitutional amendments or other questions to be submitted to the electors of the State at large.

(d) To receive and determine, as hereinafter provided, the sufficiency of nomination petitions, certificates and papers of candidates for President of the United States, presidential electors, United States senators, representatives in Congress and all State offices, including senators, representatives and judges of all courts of record, and delegates and alternate delegates to National Conventions and members of State committees.

(e) To receive such reports from county boards of elections as are required by this act, and to demand such additional reports on special matters as he may deem necessary.

(f) To receive from county boards of elections the returns of primaries and elections, to canvass and compute the votes cast for candidates and upon questions as required by the provisions of this act; to proclaim the results of such primaries and elections, and to issue certificates of election to the successful candidates at such elections, except in cases where that duty is imposed by law on another officer or board.

(g) To perform such other duties as may be prescribed by law.

REGISTRATION

Permanent registration is established by law throughout the Commonwealth. All electors, except members of the armed forces, and bedridden or hospitalized veterans unavoidably absent from the county of residence, must be personally registered to be eligible to vote.

After registration, unless he changes his residence, an elector is not required to register again so long as he votes at least once during the two immediately preceding calendar years.

Voting on age and voting on affidavit have been abolished.

No elector will be permitted to receive assistance in voting unless his registration card bears the notation setting forth his reason which makes assistance necessary.

Qualifications of Voters

The Constitution of the United States and the Constitution and laws of Pennsylvania prescribe that the following requirements be complied with by prospective voters:

They must be twenty-one (21) years of age;

They must have been citizens of the United States at least one month;

They shall have resided in the State one year (or if having previously been a qualified elector or native born citizen of the State who moved therefrom and returned; then six months), immediately preceding the election;

They shall have resided in the election district, precinct or division where they offer to vote, at least two months immediately preceding the election. (Note: By a Constitutional Amendment approved by the electorate on November 3, 1959, a qualified voter who moves his residence from one district to another in Pennsylvania within sixty (60) days of an election may vote in the district from which he moved at that election);

They shall have registered under the permanent registration law, except persons in military service or bedridden or hospitalized veterans unavoidably absent from the county of residence.

A voter becomes of age on the day before his twenty-first birthday.

The registration commission or the county boards of election may register any person whose birthday falls on the day after any election or prior thereto for the purpose of voting at the Primary, Special or November election, as the case may be, during the regular registration period provided the elector is otherwise qualified.

Qualifications of Voters at Primary

The qualifications of an elector entitled to vote at a primary shall be the same as the qualifications of an elector entitled to vote at elections, except that he must be registered and enrolled in a political party.

Residence of Electors

For the purpose of registration and voting, no person shall be deemed to have gained a residence by reason of his presence, or lost it by reason of his absence, while employed in the service, either civil or military, of this State or of the United States, nor while engaged in the navigation of the waters of the State or of the United States, or on the high seas, nor while a student of any institution of learning, nor while kept in any poorhouse or other asylum at public expense, nor while confined in public prison, except that any veteran who resides in a home for disabled and indigent soldiers and sailors operated and maintained by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and who possesses all the qualifications for voting may gain a residence for registration and voting at the home. (This is not to be construed to affect the voting rights of bedridden or hospitalized veterans who choose to vote as absentee electors.)

Rules for Determining Residence

In determining the residence of a person desiring to register or vote, the following rules shall be followed so far as they may be applicable:

(a) That place shall be considered the residence of a person in which his habitation is fixed, and to which, whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning.

(b) A person shall not be considered to have lost his residence who leaves his home and goes into another state or another election district of this State for temporary purposes only, with the intention of returning.

(c) A person shall not be considered to have gained a residence in any election district of this State into which he comes for temporary purposes only, without the intention of making such election district his permanent place of abode.

(d) The place where the family of a married man or woman resides shall be considered and held to be his or her place of residence, except where the husband and wife have actually separated and live apart, in which case the place where he or she has resided for two months or more shall be considered and held to be his or her place of residence.

(e) If a person removes to another state with the intention of making such state his permanent residence, he shall be considered to have lost his residence in this State.

(f) If a person removes to another state with the intention of remaining there an indefinite time and making such state his place of residence, he shall be considered to have lost his residence in this State, notwithstanding he may entertain an intention to return at some indefinite future period.

(g) If a person removes to the District of Columbia or other Federal territory or foreign country to engage in the government service, he shall not be considered to have lost his residence in this State during the period of such service, and the place where the person resided at the time of his removal shall be considered and held to be his place of residence.

(h) If a person goes into another state and while there exercises the right of a citizen by voting, he shall be considered to have lost his residence in this State.

Residence and Right to Vote of State Employees and Federal Employees

Any person employed in the service of this Commonwealth or in the service of the Federal government, and required thereby to be absent from any district wherein he resided when entering such employment, his wife, or her husband, shall be registered as of the district wherein he or she shall have resided immediately prior to entering such service, and be enrolled as a member of the political party he or she designates without declaring a residence by street and number. All persons employed by this Commonwealth who register in this manner, shall produce a certificate from the head of the department, board, or commission or office, under the seal of his office setting forth that said person, or the husband or wife of said person, is actually employed in the service of this Commonwealth, and also setting forth the nature of such employment and the time when such person first entered such employment.

All persons employed by the Federal government who register in this manner shall produce a certificate from the head of the proper department or chief of the proper division or bureau, under the seal of his office, setting forth that said person, or the husband or wife of said person, is actually employed in the service of the United States, and also setting forth the nature of such employment and the time where such person first entered such employment.

The commission shall retain such certificates and shall cause to be noted on the registration card of each person so registered the fact that such person is an employee of this Commonwealth or of the Federal government as the case may be.

At least once every two years the commission shall verify the employment of all persons thus registered, at either the office of the proper department, board, commission or office of the State government, or at the office of the department, division or bureau of the Federal government in whose employ such person is alleged to be. If any such person is found to be no longer an employee of this Commonwealth or of the Federal government, his registration card shall be removed from the district register until such times as said person appears at the office of the commission and declares the street or road and number, if any, of his residence in the borough, town or township.

POLITICAL PARTIES*Qualified Parties

The Political Parties which shall nominate their State-wide candidates at the primary election, and the order in which party names must appear on the ballot in 1960 are as follows:

DEMOCRATIC*REPUBLICAN

(In order to qualify under the law to have a party name on the primary ballots and to nominate candidates at a primary election, the following requirements must be met by other political parties or political bodies:

State-wide: At the general election preceding the primary, one candidate must have polled at least two per cent of the largest entire vote cast for any elected candidate in EACH of at least TEN counties, and a total vote in the State of at least two per cent of the largest entire vote cast in the State for any elected candidate. A party or political body meeting these requirements is entitled to nominate candidates at the primary for any office to be voted on throughout the State and to enjoy all other privileges of a political party provided by law.

County-wide: At either the general or municipal election preceding the primary, one candidate must have polled at least five per cent of the largest entire vote cast for any elected officer in the county. A party or political body meeting these requirements is entitled to nominate candidates at the primary for any office in the county, in all political districts within the county, and in all political districts of which the county is a part.

State Committee

At the primary election in 1960, each political party is entitled to elect two members of the State Committee in each Senatorial District, one of whom shall be a man and the other a woman, except in districts composed of more than one county, in which case each county shall elect one member, who may be of either sex.

In each county such members and officers of County Committees as are provided by party rules also shall be elected.

DELEGATES TO NATIONAL CONVENTIONS

District Delegates and Alternate Delegates to the National Conventions of the qualified political parties will be elected at the primary election from each Congressional District in a number to be determined by the respective State Committees.

Delegates at Large and Alternate Delegates at Large are to be elected by the respective State Committees.

NOMINATIONS—POLITICAL PARTIES

Nominations at Primary—1960

At the primary election in 1960 candidates shall be nominated by each political party for the following offices, in which terms are due to expire:

Auditor General
State Treasurer
Judge of the Superior Court
30 Representatives in Congress
25 Senators in the General Assembly in odd-numbered Senatorial Districts
210 Representatives in the General Assembly

(NOTE: In addition, candidates may be entered and voted on in the preferential Presidential primary.)

Nominations at Primary—1961

At the primary election in 1961 candidates shall be nominated by each political party for the following offices, in which terms are about to expire, or vacancies have otherwise occurred:

Judges of the District Courts
Associate Judges
County, city, borough, township, ward, school district and election officers.

(NOTE: Any unexpected vacancy occurring in either the Supreme or Superior Courts more than three months prior to the November election of 1960 or 1961 must be filled in the same year.)

Loyalty Oath Required of Candidates

The "Pennsylvania Loyalty Act" of 1951 requires every candidate for election to any State, district, county or local public office to take the oath or affirmation prescribed therein.

(NOTE: The Loyalty Oath need not be taken by candidates for any Federal or political office.)

(a) Such oath or affirmation must be filed with the nomination petition, nomination paper or nomination certificate of each candidate; and no nomination petition, nomination paper or nomination certificate shall be accepted for filing by any county board of elections or by the Secretary of the Commonwealth without the oath or affirmation attached.

(b) Each person nominated by write-in or sticker votes must also file a loyalty oath or affirmation with the proper county board of elections or with the Secretary of the Commonwealth, as the office for which he has been nominated may require, before such candidate's name may appear on the ballot at the succeeding municipal or general election.

(c) The name of NO person who has failed or refused to make the required oath or affirmation shall be printed on any ballot or ballot label to be used at any primary, municipal, general or special election.

(NOTE: The Secretary of the Commonwealth has undertaken to furnish to any candidate who files in the Secretary's office under (a) or (b) above a proper oath form.)

Petitions for Nomination by Political Parties

The names of candidates for nomination shall be printed upon the official ballot of each designated party if nomination petitions are filed in their behalf, signed by the prescribed number of qualified electors of the Commonwealth or of the political district, as the case may be, within which the nomination is to be made or election is to be held, verified by affidavits of the candidates as provided by law.

Petitions—Qualifications of Signers

Each signer of a nomination petition shall sign but one such petition for each office to be filled, and shall declare therein that he is a registered and enrolled member of the party designated in such petitions: Provided, however, That where there are two or more persons to be elected to the same office, each signer may sign petitions for as many candidates for such office as he could vote for at the November Election. He shall also declare therein that he is a qualified elector of the county therein named, and of the political district or division in which nomination is to be made. He shall add his occupation and residence, giving city, borough or township, with street and number, if any, and shall also add the date of signing. NO NOMINATION PETITION SHALL BE CIRCULATED PRIOR TO TWENTY DAYS BEFORE THE LAST DAY ON WHICH SUCH PETITION MAY BE FILED. No signature shall be counted unless it bears date within twenty days of the last day for filing.

A nomination petition may be on one or more sheets, and different sheets must be used for signers resident in different counties. Each sheet shall have appended thereto the affidavit of some persons, not necessarily a signer and not necessarily the same person on each sheet, setting forth that the affiant is a qualified voter of the State and of the political district referred to in said petition; his residence, giving city, borough or township, with street and number, if any; that the signers signed with full knowledge of the contents of the petition; that their respective residences are correctly stated therein; that they all reside in the county named in the affidavit; that each signed on the date set opposite his name; and that to the best of affiant's knowledge and belief, the signers are qualified electors, and registered and enrolled members of the designated party of the State or of the political district, as the case may be.

Blank Forms of Petitions for Nomination

The Secretary of the Commonwealth, although not required by law to do so, will furnish a reasonable supply of blank petitions free of charge to candidates for those offices which require filing of petitions with the Secretary, solely for the purpose of uniformity and to insure compliance with all the provisions of the law relating to the filing of petitions, and to assure that the statements, affidavits, etc., are in proper form.

Number of Signatures Required

For the office of President of the United States or of United States Senator, petitions must be signed by at least one hundred (100) registered and enrolled members of the proper party in each of at least ten (10) counties.

For a State office to be filled by the electors of the State at large, petitions must be signed by at least one hundred (100) registered and enrolled members of the proper party in each of at least five (5) counties.

For the office of Representative in Congress, Senator in the General Assembly, District Delegates and Alternate District Delegates, or Judge of a Court of Record, petitions must be signed by at least two hundred registered and enrolled members of the proper party in the district.

For the office of Representative in the General Assembly, petitions must be signed by at least one hundred registered and enrolled members of the proper party in the legislative district.

For the office of member of the State Committee, petitions must be signed by at least one hundred registered and enrolled members of the proper party from the senatorial district, except where a senatorial district is composed of one or more counties and part of other counties, in which event the petitions must be signed by at least one hundred such electors residing in that portion of the senatorial district which is elected a member.

For Associate Judges unlearned in the law, petitions must be signed by at least one hundred registered and enrolled members of the proper party in the county.

For an office to be voted for by the electors of an entire county or city, or for district councilman in a city of the first class, petitions must be signed by at least one hundred registered and enrolled members of the proper party, except for the office of magistrate in cities of the first class, in which case they must be signed by at least three thousand registered and enrolled members of the proper party.

For the office of inspector of election, petitions must be signed by at least five registered and enrolled members of the proper party.

For all other offices and all other party offices, petitions must be signed by at least ten registered and enrolled members of the proper party.

Notice to Candidates with Reference to Filing Petitions for Nomination

All nomination petitions must be filed at least sixty-four (64) days prior to the primary election in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth or the county board of elections, as the case may be.

The law provides a period of twenty (20) days in which to secure signatures and file petitions for nomination. (See Election Calendar.)

Under the law, nomination petitions filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, at Harrisburg, must be received not later than five o'clock P. M., on the last day for filing.

Petitions filed with County Boards of Election must be filed not later than the ordinary closing hours for such offices on the last day for filing.

None may be filed after that hour.

For their own protection, candidates are urged to file their petitions as early in the twenty-day period as possible and then, if the petitions need amendment, there will be ample time for correction.

Where to File Nomination Petitions

Petitions for the offices of President of the United States, U. S. Senators and Representatives in Congress, ALL State-wide offices, Judges, Senators and Representatives in the General Assembly are filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

ALL OTHERS are filed with the proper County Board of Elections.

Fees for Filing Nomination Petitions for All Offices

All filing fees MUST accompany the nomination petitions and must be in the form of CERTIFIED CHECK or MONEY ORDER ONLY, made payable to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania when filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and in the form of certified check, money order or cash, payable to the county board when filed with the county board of elections.

The filing fees cannot be refunded in the event of the withdrawal of any candidate named in any petition, or for any other cause whatsoever.

For the office of President of the United States, or for any public office to be filled by the electors of the State at large, the filing fee is fifty dollars ($50.00).

For the office of Representative in Congress, or Judge of a Court of Record, the filing fee is thirty-five dollars ($35.00).

For the office of Senator or Representative in the General Assembly, the filing fee is twenty-five dollars ($25.00).

For any other office to be filled by the electors of an entire county, the filing fee is twenty-five dollars ($25.00), with the following exceptions: jury commissioner or associate judge, ten dollars ($10.00); prison inspector, two dollars ($2.00); county auditor in eighth class counties, five dollars ($5.00).

For the office of district councilman in a city of the first class, the filing fee is twenty-five dollars ($25.00).

For any office to be filled by the electors of an entire city, the following sums: a city of the first or second class, twenty-five dollars ($25.00); a city of the second class A, fifteen dollars ($15.00); a city of the third class, ten dollars ($10.00).

For the office of District Alternate or Alternate District Delegate, or member of State Committee, the filing fee is ten dollars ($10.00).

For the office of alderman, justice of the peace or constable, the filing fee is two dollars ($2.00).

For any borough, town, township of the first class, school district or poor district office, not otherwise provided for, the filing fee is two dollars ($2.00).

For the office of township auditor or road supervisor, the filing fee is one dollar ($1.00).

There is no filing fee for a nomination petition for any public office for which no compensation is provided by law, nor for any nomination petition for any public officer in any township of the second class.

Time and Manner of Withdrawal of Candidates Before Primary

A candidate for nomination or election at any primary may withdraw his name as a candidate by a request in writing, signed by him and acknowledged before an officer empowered to administer oaths, and filed in the office in which his nomination petition was filed. When required to be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, such withdrawal to be effective must be received in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, at Harrisburg, not later than five o'clock P. M., on the seventh day next succeeding the last day for filing nomination petitions in that office, and at the regular closing hour in the office of the county boards.

No candidate may withdraw any withdrawal notice after it has been received and filed, and thereby reinstate his nomination petition.

Manner of Filing Vacancy Caused by Death of Person Named in Nomination Petition

If the candidate named in a nomination petition dies after such petition has been duly filed for any primary and before the day of the primary election, the original signers of said petition, or the majority of them, may sign another petition proposing a new candidate for said office at any time prior to the printing of the ballots or ballot labels. Such petition shall have the same force and effect as the original petition, and the name of the candidate so nominated shall be substituted for that of the deceased candidate.

Withdrawal of Candidates Nominated at Primary

Any person who has been nominated by any political party may withdraw his name from nomination by request in writing, signed by him and acknowledged before an officer qualified to take acknowledgment of deeds, and filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, or of the county board as the case may be.

Such written withdrawals must be filed at least sixty-five (65) days previous to the day of the General or Municipal Election and must be received in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth not later than five o'clock P. M. on the last day for filing the same, or by the regular closing hour in the county board offices.

No candidate may withdraw from any withdrawal notice after it has been received and filed, and thereby reinstate his nomination.

Vacancy in Party Nomination by Failure to Pay Filing Fee

Every person nominated at the primary election as the candidate of any political party for any office, other than a borough, town, township or school district office, or the office of alderman, justice of the peace, or constable, who has not paid the required fee for filing a nomination petition for such office, shall pay the amount of such fee to the Secretary of the Commonwealth, or to the county board of elections, as the case may be, at least sixty-five (65) days previous to the day of the general or municipal election at which such candidate's name would appear on the ballot. Failure to do so will result in a vacancy in such party nomination, which shall be filled in the manner provided in the case of death or withdrawal of any nominee.

Filling Vacancies Caused by Death or Withdrawal of Candidates Nominated at the Primary

Any vacancy happening or existing after the date of the primary in any party nomination, by reason of the death or withdrawal of any candidate after nomination, or by reason of the death before or on the day of the primary election of a candidate for nomination who had received a plurality of votes of his party for the office for which he sought nomination, may be filled by a substituted nomination made by such committee as is authorized by the rules of the party to make nominations in the event of vacancies on the party ticket: Provided, however, That no substitute nomination certificate shall nominate any person who has already been nominated by any political party or by any other political body for the same office.

When such substituted nomination is made in accordance with the party rules, it is the duty of the chairman and secretary or secretaries of the party committee making the nominations to file with the Secretary of the Commonwealth or with the proper county board of elections a nomination certificate which must be signed by the chairman and secretary or secretaries of the party committee, and must set forth the following: (a) The office and district, if any, for which it is filed; (b) the cause of the vacancy; (c) the rule or rules of the political party applicable to a substituted nomination; (d) that a quorum of the committee, caucus or convention, as provided by the party rules, duly convened, and the names of those present at said meeting, or their proxies; that said persons are the duly appointed or elected members of said committee, caucus or convention; (e) the name, residence and occupation of the candidate duly nominated at said meeting. Every such certificate of nomination must be sworn to or affirmed by the chairman and secretary or secretaries before an officer qualified to administer oaths.

Such substituted nomination certificate to fill a vacancy caused by the withdrawal of a candidate nominated at the primary must be filed at least fifty-five (55) days before the day of the general or municipal election.

Substituted nomination certificates to fill vacancies caused by the death of candidates nominated at primaries may be filled at any time prior to the day on which the printing of the ballots is started, or while it is still possible to correct ballots by Court order.

Casting of Lots for Position of Name on Primary Ballot

Immediately after the last day fixed for filing nomination petitions with them, the Secretary of the Commonwealth or the county board of elections, as the case may be, must fix a day for the casting of lots for the position and names upon the primary ballot, and must give notice to the candidates to appear for that purpose. The candidates may appear in person, or by agent duly authorized by letter of attorney, signed and acknowledged by an officer empowered to take acknowledgments. If a candidate is not present in person or by representative at the time of casting of lots, it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Commonwealth or of the county board of elections to appoint some person to represent such absentee. After lots are cast, the Secretary of the Commonwealth or the county board, must establish the order in which the names of said candidates are to appear upon the primary ballot and certify the same for placing upon the official ballot.

NOMINATIONS—POLITICAL PARTIES

Nomination of Independent Candidates by Nomination Papers

(NOTE: Nominations of this kind should not be confused with political party nominations made at primaries as a result of filing nomination PETITIONS.)

Restriction on Names

All nomination papers must specify the name of the political body which the candidates represent. The name can consist of NOT MORE THAN THREE WORDS. No word may be used which is identical, or similar to, any words used in the name of any existing political party, or of any political body which has already filed nomination papers for the same office or offices.

Committee to be Named

All nomination papers must contain the names and addresses of a Committee of not less than three (3) nor more than five (5) persons, authorized to fill vacancies if they occur.

Number of Signers Required

If the nomination is for an OFFICE TO BE FILLED BY THE VOTERS OF THE ENTIRE STATE, the minimum number of signatures required is equal to ONE-HALF OF ONE PER CENT of the largest entire vote cast for any candidate elected to a State-wide office in the last preceding election at which State-wide candidates were voted for. (For the current year, the minimum number of signatures for State-wide office is designated by the Secretary of the Commonwealth on request.)

In the case of all other nominations, the minimum number required is equal to TWO PER CENT of the largest entire vote cast for any officer EXCEPT A JUDGE OF A COURT OF RECORD elected at the last preceding election held in the same electoral district, but it shall in no case be less than the number required for nomination petitions for party candidates for the same office. (For the current year, consult the Secretary of the Commonwealth for those offices for which nominations are filed with him. For other offices, consult your County Board of Elections.)

(NOTE: More than one candidate, and candidates for more than one office, may be nominated by one set of nomination papers, provided that all offices for which such nominations are made are either State-wide or entirely within the same electoral district in which the signers are eligible to vote.)

Signers of Nomination Papers

All signers must be qualified electors of the State or district. They may sign only as many nomination papers as there are persons to be elected and offices to be filled. Each person must personally sign his name, his place of residence, his occupation and the date of signing.

(NOTE: The name of the Borough, City or Township MUST BE GIVEN, UNLESS THE ELECTORAL DISTRICT IS ENTIRELY WITHIN ONE MUNICIPALITY, as well as the street address, if any. The date of signing may be expressed in words or numbers, e. g.—March 1, 1960 or

3/1/60. Different sheets must always be used for residents in different counties; and whenever more than one sheet is used, they must be fastened together and numbered consecutively.)

Affidavits

Every sheet of the nomination papers MUST have the affidavit of the qualified elector who circulated it.

Each candidate named in the nomination papers need take the Candidate's affidavit on only one sheet and need have his LOYALTY OATH attached only to one sheet.

(NOTE: Candidates for Representative In Congress, United States Senator, President and Presidential Elector need not file Loyalty Oath.)

Circulation of Nomination Papers

Signatures can be secured ONLY during the period of twenty (20) days before the last day for filing; and the last day for filing is forty-four (44) days BEFORE THE PRIMARY ELECTION. (See election calendar for exact dates.)

Where to File

Nomination papers for all State-wide offices, as well as for Congress, State Senator, Representative in the General Assembly and Judges of the District Courts are filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth. For all other offices they are filed with the proper County Board of Elections. All must be RECEIVED in the proper office not later than the closing hour for that office on the last day for filing.

Filing Fee

The filing fee for each candidate on nomination papers is the same as the filing fee required with nomination petitions for each party candidate for the same office, but in no case less than $5.00.

Filing fees will be accepted ONLY when paid by CERTIFIED CHECK OR MONEY ORDER, made PAYABLE TO THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA or to the proper county, as the case may be. CASH OR PERSONAL CHECKS WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED.

Withdrawal of Candidates Nominated by Nomination Papers

Any person who has been nominated by any political party by nomination papers may withdraw his name from nomination by request in writing, signed by him and acknowledged before an officer qualified to take acknowledgment of deeds, and filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, or of the county board as the case may be.

Such written withdrawals must be filed at least sixty-five (65) days previous to the day of the General or Municipal Election and must be received in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth not later than five o'clock P. M. on the last day for filing the same, or by the regular closing hour in the county board offices.

No candidate may withdraw any withdrawal notice after it has been received and filed, and thereby reinstate his nomination.

Filling Vacancies Caused by Death or Withdrawal of Candidates Nominated by Nomination Papers

In case of the death or withdrawal of any candidate nominated by any political body by nomination papers, the committee named in the original nomination papers may nominate a substitute in his place by filing a substituted nomination certificate, which shall set forth the facts of the appointment and powers of the committee (naming all its members), of the death or withdrawal of the candidate and of the action of the committee thereon, giving the name, residence and occupation of the candidate substituted thereby. The truth of these facts shall be verified by affidavit annexed to the certificate of at least two members of the committee.

In case of a vacancy caused by the death of any candidate, the substituted nomination certificate must be accompanied by a death certificate, properly certified.

No substitute nomination certificate shall nominate any person who was a candidate for nomination by any political party for any office to be filled at the ensuing November election, whether or not nominated for such office by such political party, or who has already been nominated by any other political body for any office to be filled at the ensuing November or special election.

Substituted nomination certificates to fill vacancies caused by the withdrawal of candidates nominated by Nomination Papers must be filed at least fifty-five (55) days before the day of the General Election.

Substituted nomination certificates to fill vacancies caused by the death of candidates nominated by Nomination Papers must be filed prior to the day on which the printing of ballots is started, or while it is still possible to correct ballots by Court order.

NOMINATIONS—UNEXPECTED VACANCIES

Nominations to Fill Certain Vacancies by Nomination Certificates and Nomination Papers

Act No. 434 of the 1953 General Assembly, effective January 1, 1954, provides methods and procedure for filling certain vacancies not heretofore included in the Election Code.

If a vacancy occurs in an elective office, including that of judge of a court of record, at a time when such vacancy is required by the Constitution or laws of Pennsylvania to be filled at the ensuing election, BUT at a time when nominations cannot be made under any other provision of the Election Code, any nomination to fill such vacancy shall be made:

(a) by political parties in accordance with party rules for filling vacancies by nomination certificates, as provided by law;

(b) by political bodies by nomination papers, as provided by law.

No such nomination certificates or papers shall nominate any person already nominated by any political party or body for the same office or for any office to be filled at the ensuing November election, unless such person is a candidate for judge of a court of record.

Time and Place to File Nomination Certificates and Papers

Nomination certificates and papers, if for State offices and judges of courts of record, shall be filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth at least forty-five (45) days prior to a general or municipal election, as the case may be.

Nomination certificates and papers, if for offices in counties, cities, boroughs, towns, townships, wards, school districts, and for the offices of aldermen and justices of the peace, shall be filed with the proper county board of elections at least forty-five (45) days prior to a municipal election.

Form and Content of Nomination Certificates and Papers

The form and content of nomination certificates and papers to fill vacancies under this act shall be the same as those already required by law for filling vacancies caused by death or withdrawal of duly nominated candidates; and it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Commonwealth or the proper county board of elections, as the case may be, to examine such certificates or papers for legal sufficiency in the same manner as they would do in the case of substituted nominations as aforesaid, and to refuse to file them if they are manifestly defective. Such refusal may be reviewed by the Court of Common Pleas of the proper county upon an application for mandamus.

Objections to such nomination certificates and papers must be filed within three (3) days next succeeding the last day for filing them.

Withdrawals of candidates so nominated must be made in writing and acknowledged before an officer authorized to administer oaths, and filed in the appropriate office with which the nomination certificates or papers were filed within three (3) days next succeeding the last day for filing the said nomination certificates or papers.

Vacancies occurring by such withdrawal or by death may be filled by substituted nominations in the manner already provided by law. In cases of withdrawal, such substituted nominations must be filed not later than seven (7) days after the last day for filing the original certificates or papers. In case of death, such substituted nominations must be filed at any time prior to the day in which the printing of ballots is started.

Exceptions

The provisions of this act DO NOT apply to elective offices in any of the following situations:

(1) If a method is provided by law for holding special elections for the office;

(2) If the vacancy occurs in the office of presidential elector;

(3) If the provisions of any law require the vacancy to be filled at the next election APPROPRIATE to the office when the vacancy occurs within TWO calendar months immediately preceding a general or municipal election, as the case may be, or within THREE calendar months of such election in the case of a Judge of a Court of Record.

SPECIAL ELECTIONS

Special Elections for United States Senator

Whenever a vacancy occurs in the office of United States Senator, the Governor shall issue a writ of election naming the next general or municipal election, occurring at least forty (40) days after the happening of the vacancy, as the date for the special election. Candidates to fill the unexpired term are nominated by political parties in accordance with their party rules and by political bodies by means of nomination papers. The nomination certificates and nomination papers must be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth at least thirty (30) days prior to the date of the special election.

Special Elections for Representative in Congress

Whenever a vacancy occurs in the office of Representative in Congress, the Governor shall issue a writ of election within ten (10) days after the happening of said vacancy naming a date for the special election. This date may be the next ensuing primary or municipal election but shall not be less than thirty (30) days after the issuance of said writ. Candidates to fill the unexpired term are nominated by political parties in accordance with their party rules and by political bodies by means of nomination papers. Nomination certificates and nomination papers must be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth not later than ten (10) days after the issuance of the writ of election.

Special Elections for Senator and Representative in the General Assembly

Whenever a vacancy occurs in either House of the General Assembly, the presiding officer of such House shall issue the writ of election fixing the date for a special election, which date may be the next ensuing primary, municipal or general election but shall be not less than thirty (30) days after the issuance of the writ. Candidates to fill the unexpired term are nominated by political parties in accordance with their party rules and by political bodies by means of nomination papers. Nomination certificates and nomination papers must be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth not later than the twentieth day before the date of the special election.

Special Elections for Members of Councils or Legislative Bodies of Cities, Boroughs, Towns and Townships

In all cases where, under any law now or hereafter enacted, a special election is required to fill a vacancy in the office of Members of Council or Legislative body of any city, borough, town or township, a special election shall be held on the day fixed in the writ or provided by law, which day shall not be less than thirty (30) days after the issuance of the writ or the happening of the vacancy, as the case may be. Candidates to fill the unexpired term are nominated by political parties in accordance with their party rules and by political bodies by means of nomination papers. Nomination certificates and nomination papers must be filed in the office of the County Board of Elections not later than the twentieth day before the date of the special election.

Form of Nomination Certificate

Nomination certificates shall be in the form prescribed by the Secretary of the Commonwealth and shall set forth the following:

(1) The office and district, if any, for which it is filed;

(2) The cause of the vacancy;

(3) The rule or rules of the political party, setting forth the provisions applicable to the nomination of a candidate or candidates to fill said vacancy;

(4) That a quorum of the committee, caucus or convention as provided by the party rules, duly convened, and the names of those present at said meeting, or their proxies; that said persons are the duly appointed or elected members of said committee, caucus or convention;

(5) The name, residence and occupation of the candidate duly nominated at said meeting.

Every such certificate of nomination shall be signed by the presiding officer and the secretary or secretaries of the committee, caucus or convention, and shall be sworn or affirmed to by them before any officer qualified to administer oaths.

Examination of Nomination Certificates and Nomination Papers by the Secretary of the Commonwealth and County Boards of Elections

It is the duty of the Secretary of the Commonwealth or the proper county board of elections, as the case may be, to pass upon the legal sufficiency of all nomination certificates and nomination papers. If said nomination certificate or nomination paper is refused for filing, an application for mandamus to compel its filing may be presented to the court of common pleas of the proper county.

Objections to Nomination Certificates and Nomination Papers

All objections to nomination certificates or nomination papers must be filed within three (3) days after the last day for filing said certificates or papers. Upon filing objections, the court shall fix a day for the hearing which shall not be later than seven (7) days after the last day for filing nomination certificates or papers.

Withdrawals of Candidates Nominated for Special Election

Any person nominated by a political party or political body may withdraw his name by a request in writing signed by him and acknowledged before a properly qualified officer and filed with the office with which the nomination certificate or papers were filed. Such withdrawal must be filed within three (3) days after the last day for filing nomination certificates or papers.

Substituted Nomination Certificates

Where a candidate nominated for a special election has withdrawn, a substituted nomination certificate may be filed not later than seven (7) days after the last day for filing nomination certificates or papers.

Vacancies caused by the death of candidates nominated for a special election shall be filled by filing substituted nomination certificates at any time prior to the day on which the printing of ballots is started.

Conduct of Special Elections

All special elections shall be conducted in all respects in accordance with the provisions relating to November elections.

PRIMARY AND ELECTION EXPENSES

Lawful Primary and Election Expenses

No candidate or treasurer of any political committee shall pay, give or lend or agree to pay, give or lend, directly or indirectly, any money or other valuable thing or incur any liability on account of, or in respect to, any primary or election expenses whatever, except for the following purposes:

FIRST. For printing and traveling expenses, and personal expenses incident thereto, stationery, advertising, postage, expressage, freight, telegraph, telephone and public messenger service;

SECOND. For the rental of radio facilities and amplifier systems;

THIRD. For political meetings, demonstrations, and conventions, and for the pay and transportation of Speakers;

FOURTH. For the rent, maintenance and furnishing of offices;

FIFTH. For the payment of clerks, typewriters, stenographers, janitors, and messengers actually employed;

SIXTH. For the transportation of electors to and from the polls;

SEVENTH. For the employment of watchers at primaries and elections to the number and in the amount permitted by law;

EIGHTH. For expenses, legal counsel, incurred in good faith in connection with any primary or election;

NINTH. For contributions to other political committees.

Expense Accounts to Be Filed

Every candidate for nomination or election, and every treasurer of a political committee, or person acting as such treasurer, must, within thirty days after every primary and election at which such candidate was voted for or with which such political committee was concerned, if the amount received or expended or liabilities incurred exceeds the sum of one hundred fifty dollars, file a true and detailed account, subscribed and sworn to by him, setting forth each and every sum of money received, contributed or disbursed by him for primary or election expenses, the date of each receipt, contribution and disbursement, the name of the person from whom received or to whom paid, and the specific object or purpose for which the same was disbursed. Such account shall also set forth the unpaid debts and liabilities of any such candidate or committee for primary or election expenses, with the nature and amount of each, and to whom owing. In the case of the treasurer of a political committee, the account shall include any unexpended balance of contributions or other receipts appearing from the last previous account filed by him. In the case of a candidate for election who has previously filed an account of his primary expenses as a candidate for nomination, the account shall only include receipts, contributions and disbursements subsequent to the date of such prior account.

If the aggregate receipts or disbursements and liabilities of a candidate or a political committee in connection with any primary or election do not exceed one hundred fifty dollars, the candidate or treasurer of the committee, as the case may be, must, within thirty days after the primary or election, certify that fact under oath to the officer or board with whom expense accounts are required to be filed.

If a candidate or political committee does not receive any contributions or make any disbursements or incur any liabilities, he or it is not required to file any account or to make any affidavit, but such candidate or political committee shall be deemed for all purposes of this act to have filed an expense account showing no receipts, disbursements or liabilities for primary or election expenses.

Every expense account filed shall be accompanied by vouchers for all sums expended amounting to more than ten dollars. It is unlawful for any candidate, agent or treasurer to disburse any money received from any anonymous source.

With Whom Expense Accounts Shall Be Filed

Every account concerning primary or election expenses incurred by or in regard to candidates for offices to be voted for by the electors of the State at large must be filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and every account concerning expenses incurred by or in regard to candidates for other offices must be filed with the county board of election of the county wherein the candidate resides: Provided, however, That if any account concerns expenses in regard to candidates who do not all reside in the same county, a duplicate of such account shall be filed in the office of the county board of election of each county in which any such candidate (not being a candidate for an office to be voted for by the electors of the State at large) resides.

If any account of any political committee concerns the primary or election expense in regard to both a candidate or candidates for an office or offices to be voted for by the electors of the State at large and also candidates for other offices, such account shall be filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Contributions to Be Made to Candidates or Treasurers

A person who is neither a candidate nor a treasurer of any political committee may not pay, give or lend, nor agree to pay, give or lend any money or any other valuable thing to, nor incur any liability for, any primary or election expenses whatever in behalf of any person or persons, except a candidate or a political committee having a treasurer.

Corporation or Association Contributions Prohibited

A corporation, or unincorporated association, or an officer or agent thereof, whether incorporated under the laws of this or any other state or any foreign country, except those formed primarily for political purposes or a political committee, may not pay, give or lend, nor authorize to be paid, given or loaned, either directly or through any other person, or in reimbursement of any such payment, gift or loan by any other person, any money or other valuable thing belonging to such corporation or unincorporated association or in its custody or control, to any candidate or political committee for the payment of any primary or election expenses for any political purpose whatever.

"Candidate" Defined in Connection with Expense Accounts

"Candidate for nomination" shall mean a candidate at any primary for nomination to any public office to be voted for in this State, and shall not be limited to mean a person by or on behalf of whom a nomination petition has been filed in the manner provided by law, and whose name is printed on the ballots or ballot labels to be used at such primary, but shall include any person whose name is written in on the ballot by electors, or inserted by means of stamps or stickers.

"Candidate for election" shall mean a candidate for election to any public office to be voted for in this State, and shall not be limited to mean a person who has been nominated at a primary or by a nomination certificate or nomination paper, in accordance with the provisions of the law, and whose name is printed on the ballots or ballot labels to be used at such election, but shall include any person whose name is written on the ballot by electors, or inserted by means of stamps or stickers.

"Political Committee" Defined in Connection with Expense Accounts

"Political committee" shall include every two or more persons, who shall be elected, appointed or chosen, or who have associated themselves or cooperated for the purpose, wholly or in part, of raising, collecting or disbursing money, or of controlling or directly the raising, collection or disbursement of money for primary or election expenses.

Treasurer of Political Committee

Every political committee shall appoint and constantly maintain a treasurer to receive, keep and disburse all sums of money which may be collected or received by such committee or by any of its members for primary or election expenses; and unless such treasurer is first appointed and thereafter maintained, it is unlawful for a political committee or any of its members to collect, receive or disburse money or incur liability for any such purpose. All money collected or received by any political committee, or by any of its members for primary or election expenses, shall be paid over and made to pass through the hands of the treasurer of such committee and shall be disbursed by him; and it is unlawful for any political committee or any of its members, to disburse any money for primary or election expenses, unless such money has passed through the hands of the treasurer.

Authorization of Political Committee to Act for Candidates for Nomination and Election

A treasurer of any political committee may not receive or disburse any money or incur any liability for primary expenses in furtherance of the candidacy of any candidate for nomination, until such political committee has been authorized in writing by the candidate to receive and disburse money and incur liability for his primary expenses, and until a copy of such written authorization has been filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, in the case of State-wide committees, or in the office of the county board of election of the county in which such treasurer maintains his office, in the case of other committees.

A treasurer of any political committee may not receive or disburse any money or incur any liability for election expenses in furtherance of the candidacy of any candidate for election, until such political committee has been authorized in writing by the candidate to receive and disburse money and incur liability for his election expenses, and until a copy of such written authorization has been filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, in the case of State-wide committees, or in the office of the county board of election of the county in which such treasurer maintains his office, in the case of other committees. The treasurer of any State, county, city, borough, township, ward or other regularly constituted party committee of any political party or political body, is authorized to receive and disburse money and incur liability for the election expenses of the candidates of such political party or political body, without special written authorization from such candidates.

Oath of Office

It is unlawful to administer the oath of office to any candidate elected to any public office, until the accounts and affidavits required by law to be filed in respect of the primary expenses (if such candidate was nominated at a primary) and election expenses incurred by or in regard to such candidate have been filed by the candidate and by the treasurer of every political committee authorized, under the law, to receive and disburse money and incur liability for his primary or election expenses, or which, to his knowledge, has received or disbursed money or incurred liability for his primary or election expenses, whether authorized as aforesaid or not, and a person so elected shall not enter upon the duties of his office until the said accounts and affidavits have been filed, nor shall he receive any salary or other compensation appurtenant to the office for any period prior to the filing of such accounts and affidavits.

Inspection and Preservation of Accounts and Affidavits

All expense accounts and affidavits shall be open to public inspection in the office where they are filed, and shall be carefully preserved by the officer or board in charge thereof, and shall not be removed for a period of two years after filing, except upon the order of a competent court.

FEDERAL CORRUPT PRACTICES ACT OF 1925

The Federal Corrupt Practices Act requires all candidates for the offices of United States Senator and Representative in Congress to file, not less than 10 days nor more than 15 days before any general or special election, a full, correct and itemized statement of all moneys and things of value received by him or by anyone for him with his knowledge or consent, from any source, in aid or support of his candidacy, together with the names of all those who have furnished the same in whole or in part; and such statements must contain a true and itemized account of all moneys and things of value given, contributed and in his behalf with his knowledge and consent, expended, used, or promised by him or by his agent, representative, or other persons for him, together with the names of all those to whom and all such gifts, contributions, payments or promises were made for the purpose of procuring his election. With this statement the candidate must enclose a report based on the records of the Secretary of the Commonwealth stating the number of votes cast for all candidates for the office in which he seeks election at the last preceding general election.

Moneys expended by a candidate for filing fees, personal traveling and subsistence expenses, money for stationery, postage, writing, printing (other than for use on bill boards or in newspapers), distribution of letters, circulars, posters, or for telegraph or telephone services, are not considered part of the expenditure limitations.

A similar statement must also be filed within thirty days after the general or special election.

Any committee, association or organization accepting contributions or making expenditures for the purpose of influencing the election of candidates for United States Senator, Congressman or Presidential Electors in two or more States, or, in one State, if the committee, association or organization is a branch of a National Committee, association or organization must keep a detailed exact account of all contributions, showing the name and address of the persons to whom the expenditures are made and the dates thereof. All expenditures exceeding $10.00 must be verified by a receipted bill which must be kept for two years. Accounts must be filed with the Clerk of the House of Representatives of the United States between the first and tenth days of March, June and September of each year and also between the tenth and fifteenth days and on the fifth day next preceding the date of the general election at which candidates are to be elected in two or more States. Accounts must also be filed on the first day of January for the preceding calendar year showing the names and addresses of persons contributing $100.00 or more, the sum of all other contributions, and the total contributions for the year. The report must also show the names and addresses of persons to whom expenditures were made of $10.00 or more showing the amount, date and purpose, the total of all other smaller expenses, and the total expenditures.

Any person or persons making expenditures other than by contributions aggregating $50.00 or more in one calendar year for the purpose of influencing the election of a candidate in two or more States must file a report in the same manner as a treasurer of a political committee.

National banks, corporations organized by Congressional Law or labor organizations may not make contributions or expenditures in connection with any election to any political office, or in connection with any primary election or political convention or caucus held to select candidates for any political office, or in connection with any election at which Presidential electors or a United States Senator or Representative in Congress are to be voted for, or in connection with any primary election or political convention or caucus held to select candidates for any of the foregoing offices, or for any candidate, political committee, or other person to accept or receive any such prohibited contribution. Corporations or labor organizations violating these provisions shall be subject to a fine of not more than $5,000.00 and every officer or director consenting thereto shall be subject to a fine of not more than $1,000.00 or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both.

Every corporation or labor organization which makes any contribution or expenditure in violation of this section shall be fined not more than $5,000.00; and every officer or director of any corporation, or officer of any labor organization, who consents to any contribution or expenditure by the corporation or labor organization, as the case may be, and any person who accepts or receives any contributions, in violation of this section, shall be fined not more than $1,000.00 or imprisoned not more than one year, or both; and if the violation was willful, shall be fined not more than $10,000.00 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both.

For the purposes of this act "labor organization" shall mean any organization of any kind, or any agency or employe representation committee or plan, in which employes participate and which exists for the purpose, in whole or in part, of dealing with employers concerning grievances, labor disputes, wages, rates of pay, hours of employment, or conditions of work.

The statements filed by United States Senators and Congressmen must be filed with the Secretary of the United States Senate or the Clerk of the House of Representatives, Washington, D. C., as the case may be.

Blank forms of statements will be furnished upon application to the Secretary of the United States Senate or the Clerk of the House of Representatives at Washington, D. C.

(NOTE: The customary references and table of maximum lawful expenditures by candidates for the offices of United States Senator and Representative in Congress have been omitted from this edition upon learning that new proposed legislation has been introduced in Congress, with possibility of being made effective prior to the 1960 campaigns.

Candidates and campaign managers are referred to the Clerk of the House of Representatives, Washington, D. C., for authoritative provisions of Federal Law.)

HATCH ACT

The Federal Law, known as "The Hatch Act," among other restrictions on political activity, prohibits interference with free elections for Federal officers and for Presidential Electors. It prohibits any political activity by certain Federal employes and certain employes and officers of any state agency or local agency of an activity financed in whole or in part by Federal loans or grants. It prohibits solicitation of campaign funds from persons receiving Federal work relief or other relief. It prohibits the promise of Federal employment as a reward for political activity. It prohibits the purchase of advertising goods and commodities or articles of any kind, the proceeds of which are to be used for the benefit of any candidate for Federal office. It limits campaign contributions for candidates for Federal office. It prohibits persons contracting or negotiating to contract with the United States or its agencies for services, supplies, or sale of land or buildings, which contract is to be paid from Congressional appropriations, from being solicited to make or making contributions for political purposes; and it provides procedure for enforcement and penalties for violation of its provisions.

According to an opinion of the Attorney General, covering National Guard personnel when not in Federal service:

a. Members of the National Guard when not in active Federal service are not prohibited from engaging in political activities as individuals providing their connection with, or their position in, the Guard is not their sole occupation or principal means of employment.

b. Anyone whose connections with, or position in, the Guard is his sole occupation or principal means of employment is prohibited from engaging in political activity.

VOTING BY MILITARY BALLOT

Electors Entitled to Vote by Military Ballot

Any qualified elector of this Commonwealth who is or may be in the Military service or Naval service of the United States or any branch or unit thereof is entitled to vote by military ballot.

All residence qualifications include time in military service. An elector does not gain or lose legal residence by reason of absence in military service.

Registration Is Not Required—Methods of Receiving Military Ballots

Applications for absentee ballots may be made at any time before any election on Standard

Form 76, as supplied by the Federal Government or any other form supplied by the Federal Government or by any writing addressed to the Secretary of the Commonwealth or to the county board of election of the county in which the elector's voting residence is located. The application must contain the following information:

Residence at the time of entrance into actual military service, length of time a citizen, length of residence in Pennsylvania, date of birth, length of time a resident of voting district, voting district, party choice in case of primary, name, rank or grade, military address, branch of service and serial number.

A military elector in election district on election day may appear at the regular polling place and vote in the polling place by military ballot in the same manner he would have voted had he been absent.

A military elector may apply in person to the county board of election for ballot and is entitled to receive one as soon as the ballots are printed.

Method of Voting by Military Ballot

1. On or before the Primary, General, Municipal or Special Election Day, military elector must appear before any person of this or any other State or territory of the United States authorized to administer oaths by Federal, State or Military laws.

2. Display blank ballot.

3. Mark ballot in presence of above person but in such manner that the secrecy of the ballot is maintained.

4. Fold ballot, place in envelope marked "Official Military Ballot" and seal.

5. Place both in envelope containing affidavit and address of county board of election.

6. Fill out, subscribe and swear to the affidavit. (Note:—Jurat shall be subscribed and dated by person before whom affidavit is taken.)

7. Seal envelope and mail to proper county board of election or if in election district hand to the judge of election.

8. Mark ballot with (X) only. No other mark is acceptable.

9. Pencil, indelible pencil, crayon or ink may be used to mark military ballot.

10. In computing the length of residence in Pennsylvania and in election district as stated in "Military Elector's Affidavit" include the period of absence from home because of military service.

Validity of Military Ballot

1. No military ballot will be valid if jurat is dated later than the appropriate election day.

2. No ballot will be valid if received by the county board of election after 10 o'clock A. M. on the second Friday following the appropriate election day.

VOTING BY BEDRIDDEN OR HOSPITALIZED VETERANS

Electors Entitled to Vote by Veterans' Official Ballot

Any qualified elector who is bedridden or hospitalized due to illness or physical disability may vote in any election held in this Commonwealth, if he is thereby unavoidably absent from the State or county of his residence, whether or not he is registered or enrolled, or if he is in the county of residence and is registered or enrolled.

Method of Receiving Veterans' Official Ballot

Any qualified bedridden or hospitalized veteran may apply at any time before any election for a veterans' official ballot by any writing addressed to the Secretary of the Commonwealth or to the county board of election of the county in which his voting residence is located. Said application must contain the following information:

Residence at the time of becoming bedridden or hospitalized, length of time a citizen, length of residence in Pennsylvania, date of birth, length of time a resident in voting district, party choice in case of primary, name and address of present residence or hospital at which hospitalized.

Method of Voting by Veterans' Official Ballot

1. On or before the Primary, General or Municipal election day, the elector must appear before any person of this or any other State or territory of the United States authorized to administer oaths by Federal, State or Military laws.

2. Display blank ballot.

3. Mark ballot in presence of above person but in such manner that the secrecy of the ballot is maintained.

4. Fold ballot, place in envelope marked "Veterans' Official Ballot" and seal.

5. Place both in envelope containing affidavit and address of county board of election.

6. Fill out, subscribe and swear to the affidavit. (Note:—Jurat shall be subscribed and dated by person before whom affidavit is taken.)

7. Seal envelope and mail to proper county board of election.

8. Mark ballot with (X) only. No other mark is acceptable.

9. Pencil, indelible pencil, crayon or ink may be used to mark veterans' ballot.

10. In computing the length of residence in Pennsylvania and in election district as stated in "Veteran Elector's Affidavit" include the period of absence from home because of hospitalization.

Validity of Veterans' Ballot

1. No veteran's ballot will be valid if jurat is dated later than the appropriate election day.

2. No ballot will be valid if received by the county board of election after 10 o'clock A. M. on the second Friday following the appropriate election day.

CIVILIAN ABSENTEE VOTING

(NOTE: Limited absentee voting by civilians other than bedridden or hospitalized veterans has become lawful for the first time in Pennsylvania as a result of an amendment to Article VIII of the Constitution which was overwhelmingly approved by the electorate on November 5, 1957. The 1959 Session of the General Assembly passed enabling legislation which Governor David Lawrence approved on January 8, 1960, as Act No. 789.)

Civilian Electors Entitled to Vote by Absentee Ballot

Any qualified elector of this Commonwealth who is PROPERLY REGISTERED AND ENROLLED and who (1) on the occurrence of any election IS UNAVOIDABLY absent from the county of his voting residence by reason of his DUTIES, BUSINESS OR OCCUPATION or who (2) on the occurrence of any election is unable to attend at his proper polling place by reason of ILLNESS OR PHYSICALLY DISABILITY. (THIS DOES NOT include persons in actual military service or bed-ridden or hospitalized veterans, for whom other provisions are described elsewhere in this Guide. Nor does it include persons committed to and confined in a penal institution or a mental institution.)

Method of Applying for Absentee Ballot

1. Electors who are in the county of residence during the thirty (30) day period prior to any election, but who expect to be unavoidably absent on the day of election must apply IN PERSON to the chief clerk of the county board of elections and THEN AND THERE complete in duplicate Part 1 of the official Application, Certificate and Declaration Form.

(NOTE: No application received earlier than thirty (30) days before an election or later than seven (7) days before an election is valid.)

2. Electors who are or expect to be unavoidably absent during the thirty (30) days preceding an election may signify that desire to the chief clerk of the county board of elections in writing which they have personally signed.

The chief clerk will mail the proper forms to such electors and the application may be completed and delivered to the chief clerk by any means, provided only that any such application received earlier than the thirtieth day and later than the seventh day preceding the day of the election is void.

3. Electors who expect to be unable to attend their proper polling places on the day of an election because of illness or physical disability may signify that desire to the chief clerk of the county board of elections in writing personally signed by them and delivered by any means.

The chief clerk will mail the proper forms under the same conditions as described in paragraph No. 2 above.

(NOTE: The offices of the county boards of election are in the Court Houses at the County Seats of the several counties, with two exceptions—in Philadelphia, they are in City Hall; in Allegheny County, they are in the County Office Building Pittsburgh.)

Method of Receiving Absentee Ballot

After the chief clerk of the county board of elections has found the application complete, has compared the signature and voting residence with those of the applicant in the permanent registration records and is satisfied that applicant is entitled to vote, he will make the appropriate entries in the district register, he will sign the Certificate (Part 2 of the application form) in both the original and duplicate copies, and he will hand or mail an official absentee ballot to the applicant.

With the ballot there will be:

- (1) a gummed envelope with the words "Official Absentee Ballot" and nothing else printed on it (hereafter referred to as "the first envelope");
- (2) the original copy of the Form on which Parts 1 and 2 already have been completed;
- (3) a gummed envelope with the name and post office address of the county board of elections and in the upper left corner the words "Absentee Elector" printed on it (hereafter referred to as "the second envelope").

Method of Voting by Absentee Ballot

The elector who has received an absentee ballot may cast the ballot in the following manner AND NOT OTHERWISE:

- (a) he shall IN SECRET mark the ballot with pencil, crayon, indelible pencil or ink;
- (b) he shall place the ballot in the first envelope and seal the envelope;
- (c) he shall complete the Declaration (Part 3 of the Application Form) and have his signature and date thereof witnessed by a subscribing witness as provided on the form;
- (d) he shall place BOTH the Form and the sealed first envelope containing the marked ballot in the second envelope;
- (e) he shall seal the second envelope, affix the necessary postage and mail it in sufficient time that the DAY OF THE POSTMARK SHALL NOT BE LATER THAN THE DAY OF THE ELECTION in which the ballot is to be cast.

Validity of Absentee Ballots

1. No absentee ballot will be valid if it bears no postmark or bears a postmark later than the day of the election.
2. No absentee ballot will be valid if received by the county board of election later than 10 o'clock A. M. on the second Friday following the appropriate election day.
3. No absentee ballot will be valid if, upon opening of any envelope by the return board, it contains more or less than the contents prescribed above, or if the form is not complete and regular on its face, or if the signature of the applicant in Part 1 of the Form does not correspond with the signature of the elector in Part 3 thereof, or if the right of the elector to vote is successfully challenged by any person present.

CONDUCT OF ELECTIONS

When Elections Are Held

1. The "General Election" is the election which is held in all even-numbered years on the Tuesday next following the first Monday of November.
2. The "Municipal Election" is the election which is held in all odd-numbered years on the Tuesday next following the first Monday of November.
3. The Primary Election is the election held on the third Tuesday of May, in all years, except in presidential years, when it is held on the fourth Tuesday of April.

Voting Hours

At all primaries and elections the polls shall be opened at 7 o'clock A. M., Eastern Standard Time, and shall remain open continuously until 8 o'clock P. M., Eastern Standard Time.

Election Officers

The election board in every district consists of a judge of election and two (2) inspectors of election. They are elected at Municipal elections and serve for a term of four years, beginning the first Monday of January following their election. In paper ballot districts each inspector shall appoint one clerk to serve at the election. In voting-machine districts one clerk shall be appointed by the minority inspector to serve at the election. In addition thereto, in each district in which more than one voting machine is used, the county board of election shall appoint a voting machine inspector for each additional machine to be used in such district.

Each elector may vote for one inspector and the majority inspector in any district is the one who received the highest number of votes at the election. The minority inspector is the one who received the second highest number of votes at the election.

Preliminary Duties

All election officers are required to be at the polling place at least thirty (30) minutes before

7 o'clock A. M., Eastern Standard Time, so that the board may organize and take care of the preliminary details. The election officers shall thereupon in the presence of each other take and subscribe in duplicate to the respective oaths of office as required by law. The minority inspector or a magistrate, alderman or justice of the peace shall administer the oath of office to the judge of election, who then shall administer the oath to the inspectors, clerks and machine inspectors. The oaths must be signed in duplicate by the persons so sworn at the time the board is being organized and before the electors are permitted to vote and must be attested by the officer who administered the oath. Any election officer who shall act as such without first being duly sworn, or any judge or minority inspector who refuses or fails to administer an oath in the manner required, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to a fine and imprisonment.

Filling Vacancies on Election Boards

If a vacancy occurs on an election board prior to the date of any primary or election, it shall be filled by appointment by the Court of Quarter Sessions of the proper county. In the case of such an appointment by the Court the person so appointed shall serve for the unexpired term of the person so succeeded.

Vacancies on election boards occurring on election day shall be filled as follows:

1. If any judge of election shall not appear at the polling place by 7 o'clock A. M., the majority inspector shall appoint a judge who is qualified to act;
2. If any majority inspector shall not appear at said hour, the judge of election shall appoint as majority inspector a person who is qualified to act;
3. If any minority inspector shall not appear at said hour, the person who received the second highest vote for judge of election at the preceding municipal election shall serve as minority inspector, if available and if qualified. If such person is not available or not qualified, the electors of the district then present shall, under the supervision of the judge of election, elect one of their number who is qualified to fill the vacancy;
4. If any clerk shall not appear at said hour, the inspector who appointed the clerk shall appoint a qualified person to fill the vacancy;
5. If any machine inspector shall not appear at said time, the judge of election shall notify the county board of elections, who shall immediately appoint a qualified machine inspector to fill the vacancy.
6. If, for any reason any vacancy shall not have been filled by 7:30 A. M., the qualified electors of the district then present shall elect a qualified person or persons to fill such vacancies.

Any person elected or appointed at the polling place to fill a vacancy on the day of an election shall serve ONLY FOR THAT ELECTION. He does not serve for the unexpired term of the previously elected officer whose vacancy he is filling.

Qualifications of Election Officers

Election officers shall be qualified, registered electors of the district in which they are elected or appointed. No person shall be qualified to serve as an election officer who shall hold, or shall within two months have held, any office, appointment or employment in or under the Government of the United States or of this State, or of any city, county, borough, township, incorporated town, school district, poor district or of any municipal board, commission or trust in any city, save only justices of the peace and aldermen, notaries public and persons in the militia service of the State; nor shall any election officer be eligible to any civil office to be voted for at a primary or election at which he shall serve, except that of an election officer.

Organizing the Board

After the election board has been sworn, the ballot box which has been delivered to them shall be opened, and all ballots and other papers which may be found therein shall be destroyed. Then the ballot box shall be locked securely and not, under any circumstances, be opened again until after the polls are closed.

One card of instructions and one card of penalties shall be posted in each voting booth, and three or more cards of instructions and penalties and five or more specimen ballots shall be posted in the voting room outside the guard rail (at primaries at least five specimen ballots of each party shall be posted). Cards of instructions, penalties, and specimen ballots shall be distributed to any electors who request them, so long as the supply lasts.

The instructions and penalties should be read carefully by the election board, who also should see that each booth is properly curtained and supplied with a pencil or an indelible pencil.

The election officers shall publicly open the packages containing the ballots and supplies. If there is any shortage the county board of election should be notified immediately. Among other contents will be blank voters' certificates with the district registers containing the permanent registration cards.

THE VOTERS' CERTIFICATES ARE TO BE HANDLED BY ELECTION OFFICERS ONLY. NO OTHER PERSON SHOULD BE PERMITTED TO HANDLE OR DISTRIBUTE VOTERS' CERTIFICATES. THE ELECTION OFFICERS WILL BE HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR ALL VOTERS' CERTIFICATES WHICH HAVE BEEN DELIVERED TO THEM.

Without any exception, ALL certificates must be returned to the county election board with the district register.

Assignment of Duties of the Board

The judge of election shall assign the duties of the election board.

He shall designate one of the inspectors to take charge of the district register and to make the required entries therein. In paper ballot districts the other inspector shall have charge of the receipt and deposit of ballots in the ballot box, the judge or one of the clerks shall issue the ballots to electors after they are found entitled to vote, and the other clerk shall have charge of the voters' certificates and shall file them as they are received and approved.

In districts in which voting machines are used, the other inspector or clerk shall have charge of the voters' certificates, and the judge shall have special charge of the operation of the voting machine. However, the judge may make other arrangements for the division of the duties imposed on the election board, so long as each election officer and clerk is assigned some specific duty to perform. If more than one voting machine is used the judge shall assign one machine inspector to have charge of the operation of each machine. The judge shall assign two members of the election board or clerks to keep two numbered lists of voters during the progress of the voting.

Any election officer, clerk or machine inspector may be assigned by the judge of election to assist another officer, clerk or machine inspector in the performance of his duties, or to perform them for him during his temporary absence or disability.

IF AT ANY STAGE OF THE ELECTION THE OFFICERS ARE IN DOUBT AS TO ANY QUESTION OF LAW OR PROCEDURE, THEY SHOULD CALL THE COUNTY ELECTION BOARD AT ONCE.

Voting Regulations

Until the polls are closed, no person shall be allowed in the polling place outside of the enclosed space at any primary or election, except the watchers, voters (not exceeding ten at any one time) who are awaiting their turn to vote, and peace officers, when necessary for the preservation of the peace. No elector shall be allowed to occupy a voting compartment or voting machine booth already occupied by another, except when giving assistance as provided by law.

Not more than twice as many electors waiting to vote as there are voting compartments in use in the district shall be admitted within the enclosed space at any one time. Thus, if there are five voting booths, ten persons may be inside the enclosed space awaiting their turn to vote; if there are six booths, twelve persons, etc. Of course, no elector shall be permitted to enter inside the enclosed space until he shall be found to be entitled to vote.

An elector, except an election officer, clerk, machine inspector or overseer, shall not be allowed to re-enter the enclosed space after he has once left it, except to give assistance as provided by law.

A person, when within the polling place, may not electioneer or solicit votes for any political party, political body, or candidate. Written or printed matter may not be put up within the polling place, except as required by law.

All persons, except election officers, clerks, machine inspectors, overseers, watchers, persons in the course of voting, persons lawfully giving assistance to voters, and peace and police officers, when permitted by law, must remain at least ten (10) feet distant from the polling place during the progress of the voting.

When the hour for closing the polls arrives, all electors who have already qualified and are inside the enclosed space, shall be permitted to vote; and, in addition thereto, not more than ten (10) qualified electors who are in the polling place outside the enclosed space, waiting to vote, shall be permitted to vote, if found qualified, but no other person shall be permitted to vote.

It is the duty of the judge of election to secure the observance of these regulations, to keep order in the voting room, and to see that no more persons are admitted within the enclosed space than are permitted by law. The judge of election may call upon any constable, deputy constable, police officer, or other peace officer, to aid him in the performance of these duties.

Manner of Applying to Vote

Permanent registration is now State-wide. A person shall not be permitted to vote unless a registration card bearing his name appears in the district register, except by an order of the Court of Common Pleas, directing the board to admit a person to vote. Such order of Court must be obeyed.

An elector who desires to vote shall announce his name distinctly and audibly to the election board. He shall sign a voter's certificate, giving his residence, and hand the same to the election officer in charge of the district register. The officer locates the elector's registration card and compares the elector's signature on the certificate with his signature on the registration card. If the signature on the voter's certificate appears to be genuine, the elector is then permitted to vote. If the signature does not appear to be genuine, the elector should be challenged as to identity, and before being permitted to vote, he must produce evidence and make a supporting affidavit attesting his identity. After the elector is found qualified the officers having charge of the numbered lists of voters enter the name of the voter, and at primaries a letter or abbreviation designating the party in whose primary the elector votes, the officer having charge of the district register enters on the reverse side of the registration card of each voter, in the columns provided for the purpose, the date of the election or primary, the number of the stub of the ballot issued to him, and at primaries a letter or abbreviation designating the party in whose primary the elector votes, and the initials of the election officer having charge of the district register, in the column provided for that purpose.

A person who applies to vote shall not be permitted by any election officer to see the signature recorded as his in the district register until after he shall have signed his name to the voter's certificate.

The officer having charge of the voter's certificate must insert the information required on each certificate and sign his name or initials; and if the elector's signature on said certificate is not readily legible, the election officer must print the elector's name on the certificate over the signature. If, because of disability, the elector was unable to sign his registration card and is unable to sign a voter's certificate, he must establish his identity to the satisfaction of the board, and one of the election officers shall prepare a certificate for him, upon which the facts as to such disability shall be noted and attested by the signature of such election officer.

IT IS A CRIMINAL OFFENSE TO FAIL TO RECORD CORRECTLY THE VOTING INFORMATION GIVEN BY EACH VOTER ON THE VOTER'S CERTIFICATE AND ON THE REVERSE SIDE OF HIS REGISTRATION CARD. THIS INFORMATION MUST BE GIVEN IN DETAIL FOR EVERY VOTER.

Voting by Paper Ballot

After an elector has been found qualified, he shall be given a ballot and permitted to enter the voting booth. After marking his ballot, he shall refold it before leaving the booth and exhibit the number on his ballot to the judge or one of the inspectors. If it is the same number as was issued to him, he shall be authorized to remove the stub and deposit the ballot in the box.

BE CERTAIN THAT NO BALLOT IS DEPOSITED IN THE BALLOT BOX WITH THE NUMBERED STUB ATTACHED. SUCH BALLOT IS COMPLETELY VOID AND MUST NOT BE COUNTED.

Voting by Machine

Where voting machines are used, the election officers shall instruct each elector before he enters the machine booth in the operation of the machine, and shall give the elector opportunity personally to operate the model. If any elector, after entering the machine booth and before closing it, asks for further instructions, any election officer may give him such instructions, and shall then retire before the elector closes the booth or votes. The election officer may not suggest or request that the elector vote for any particular ticket or candidate, or for or against any particular question.

At primary elections, before an elector is admitted to the machine booth, the machine shall be adjusted by the election officer in charge of it, so that the elector will only be able to vote for the candidates of the party in which he is registered and enrolled.

At primaries, the elector votes for candidates individually, by operating the handle adjacent to which the name of such candidate is placed.

At Municipal or General Elections, the elector may similarly vote for candidates individually, or he may vote a straight political party ticket in one operation by operating the separate straight political party lever if the machine has such lever.

To vote for any person whose name does not appear upon the voting machine as a candidate, the elector should ask an election officer for instructions.

As soon as the elector has adjusted the voting machine so that it will record his vote for candidates and on the various questions submitted, he shall operate the recording mechanism and forthwith leave the booth.

AT PRIMARIES NO PERSON IS ENTITLED TO VOTE AS A MEMBER OF ANY PARTY UNLESS HE IS REGISTERED AND ENROLLED IN THE DIS-TRICT REGISTER AS A MEMBER OF SUCH PARTY. THIS ENROLLMENT IS CONCLUSIVE AS TO HIS PARTY MEMBERSHIP AND IS NOT SUBJECT TO CHALLENGE.

Challenge of Voters

A challenge is the test of a person's right to vote. A person is not entitled to vote at any primary or election unless his registration card appears in the district register. However, even though his registration card is in the district register, any person may be challenged by any qualified elector, election officer, overseer or watcher, as to his identity, as to his continued residence in the election district, as to any alleged violation of the law pertaining to the signing of the voter's certificate, or as to any alleged violation of the law prohibiting bribery at elections. If an elector is challenged as to identity or residence, he must produce at least one qualified elector of the election district as a witness who shall make affidavit of the elector's identity or continued residence in the election district. If challenged as to any violation of the law pertaining to the signing of a voter's certificate, or the law prohibiting bribery at elections, the elector shall not be permitted to vote until he shall have made a written affidavit, on the forms provided, that the matter of the challenge is untrue.

The inspectors of election shall investigate and pass upon the qualifications of all persons claiming the right to vote at any primary or election, and if the inspectors shall disagree upon the right of any person to vote, the judge of election shall decide the question. If the judge is unable to decide, then the overseers of election, if they be agreed, shall decide the question.

Overseers

On petition for cause of five or more duly registered electors of any election district, it is the duty of the Court of Common Pleas to appoint two electors of the said district each of a different political party, as overseers of election to supervise the proceedings and to make report of same to the Court.

Overseers shall be sworn or affirmed by the judge of elections to the faithful discharge of their duties, and they must sign the oath in duplicate. They shall have the right to be present inside the enclosed space during the entire proceedings, including the counting of votes and making out of returns. They may keep a list of voters, may challenge any voter and interrogate him and his witnesses under oath on his right to vote. Whenever the members of the election board differ in opinion and the overseers are agreed, the overseers decide the question.

Overseers are required to sign the election returns of the district, or to write thereon the reasons for refusal to sign, and should immediately report to the Court any fraud of which they have knowledge.

Any person interfering with the carrying out of the lawful performance of the duties of the overseers is subject to the penalties provided by law.

Watchers

Each candidate at any primary is entitled to appoint two watchers in each election district in which he is voted for. Each political party and each political body which has nominated candidates shall be entitled to appoint three watchers, at any general, municipal or special election in each election district in which its candidates are to be voted for.

All watchers must be qualified registered electors of the district in which they are authorized to act.

Only one watcher for each candidate at primaries, or for each party or political body at general, municipal or special elections, shall be allowed to remain in the polling place at any one time prior to the closing of the polls. All watchers must remain outside the enclosed space. After the closing of the polls, and while the ballots are being counted or voting machines canvassed, all watchers are permitted to be in the polling place outside the guard rail. Each watcher shall be provided with a certificate from the county board of elections, stating his name and the name of the candidate, party, or political body he represents and is required to show his certificate when requested to do so. Watchers are permitted to keep a list of voters and are entitled to challenge any person making application to vote.

It is a criminal offense for any person, by violence or intimidation, to threaten or drive away, or to prevent from doing his duty, any watcher who is legally permitted to be present at any polling place.

Police Officers

A police officer in commission, whether in uniform or in citizen's clothes is not permitted to be within one hundred (100) feet of any polling place during the conduct of any primary or election, except in the exercise of his privilege of voting, or for the purpose of serving warrants, or unless called upon by the election officer to preserve the peace.

Assistance in Voting

A voter shall not be permitted to receive any assistance in voting at any primary or election, unless there is recorded upon his registration card his declaration that, because of illiteracy, he is unable to read the names on the ballot or on the voting machine labels, or that he has a physical disability which renders him unable to see or to mark the ballot or to operate the voting machine, or to enter the voting compartment or voting machine booth without assistance. The exact nature of such disability must be recorded on his registration card, and the election officers must be satisfied that at the time of the election he still suffers from the same disability. Before he shall be permitted to receive assistance, such voter shall state distinctly and audibly under oath or affirmation, which shall be administered to him by the judge of election, the reason why he requires assistance.

Any elector who is entitled to receive assistance in voting shall be permitted by the judge of election to select a registered elector of the election district to enter the voting compartment or voting machine booth with him to assist him in voting, such assistance to be rendered inside the voting compartment or voting machine booth.

In every case of assistance, the judge of election shall forthwith enter in writing in a book to be furnished by the county board of elections, to be known as the "Record of Assisted Voters": (1) the voter's name; (2) a statement of the facts which entitle him to receive assistance; and (3) the name of the person furnishing the assistance. The Record of Assisted Voters shall be returned by the judge of election to the county board of elections with the other papers, as hereinafter specified.

An elector who unlawfully receives assistance, or any election officer who shall be guilty of permitting unlawful assistance in voting, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be subject to a fine not to exceed $1,000 or imprisonment of not more than one (1) year, or both.

Violation of Secrecy in Voting—Penalties

SECRECY IN VOTING MUST BE MAINTAINED AT ALL TIMES. It is a criminal offense for any person to unfold or pry into any other person's ballot before such ballot is deposited in the ballot box, for the purpose of discovering the manner in which said ballot has been marked. It is also a criminal offense for an elector to allow any other person to see his ballot or the face of the voting machine voted by him, or to cast or attempt to cast any other than the official ballot which has been given him by the election officer. It is also an offense for any elector to permit another person to accompany him into the voting compartment or voting machine booth or to mark his ballot or prepare the voting machine for him, unless he has complied with the requirements of the law as to assistance, and unless the disability which he declared at the time of registration still exists. It is also an offense for a person to state falsely that he is unable, because of illiteracy, to read the names on the ballot, or that he is unable to mark the ballot by reason of physical disability. It is also an offense for any person to be present in the voting booth while another person is voting, or to mark the ballot of another person, except in strict accordance with the provisions pertaining to assistance, or for any person giving assistance to attempt to influence the vote of the elector he is assisting, or to mark a ballot in any way other than that requested by the voter whom he is assisting, or to disclose to anyone the contents of any ballot which has been marked with his assistance, except when required to do so in a legal proceeding.

A PERSON OTHER THAN THE ELECTION OFFICERS SHALL NOT REMOVE ANY BALLOTS FROM ANY BOOK OF OFFICIAL BALLOTS. It is unlawful to remove more than one ballot from a ballot book at any one time. If a voter spoils a ballot, he may return it to the election officer to be marked "spoiled," whereupon he is entitled to receive another ballot. In such case, the election officer must be sure to change the ballot number recorded as the voter's in the district register and on the voter's certificate.

Time Allowed to Vote

An elector may not remain in the voting compartment an unreasonable length of time, and, in NO EVENT, FOR MORE THAN THREE (3) MINUTES. If a voter refuses to leave the booth after three minutes, he shall be removed by the election officers. However, an elector may be granted a longer time to vote if other electors are not waiting to do so.

Closing the Polls

The judge of election must close the polling place promptly at 8 o'clock P. M., Eastern Standard Time.

After the polls are closed the only persons permitted in the polling place while the votes are being counted are the following: judge of election, inspectors, clerks, overseers, watchers, and peace officers. Watchers and peace officers must remain outside the enclosed space unless it is necessary to enter to preserve the peace.

(See also Voting Regulations.)

Counting the Vote—Paper Ballots

Before any ballot box is opened, the number of ballots issued to electors (at primaries, the number issued to the electors of each party), as shown, by the stubs, and the number of ballots (at primaries, the number of ballots of each party) spoiled and returned by voters and cancelled, must be announced to all present in the voting room, and entered on the general return sheets. The election officers must then compare the number of electors voting, as shown by the ballot stubs, with the number of names marked as voting in the district register, the voters' certificates, and the numbered lists of voters, and must announce the result and enter on the return sheets the number of electors who have voted. If any differences exist, they shall be reconciled, if possible, otherwise they shall be noted on the return sheets. Then the district register, the voters' certificates, the numbered lists of voters and the stubs of all used ballots, together with all unused ballots, and all spoiled and cancelled ballots, and all rejected voters' certificates, shall be placed in separate containers which are provided, which shall be sealed.

(Note to Election Officers:—The supply box will contain all the necessary envelopes and containers for returning the different papers. Read the instructions on the envelopes and be sure that each item is placed in the proper envelope or container.)

The ballot boxes shall then be opened and all ballots taken out (and at primaries separated according to political parties). The ballots shall then be counted one by one, and a record made of the total number cast (and at primaries of the total number cast for each party). Then the judge, under the scrutiny of the minority inspector (or the minority inspector under the scrutiny of the judge), in the presence of the other officer, clerks and overseers, and within the hearing and sight of the watchers, shall read aloud the names of the candidates marked or inserted on each ballot (at primaries the ballots of each party being read in sequence), together with the office for which the person named is a candidate, and the answers to any questions submitted. The majority inspector and clerks shall carefully enter each vote as read, and keep account of the same in ink on triplicate tally papers (triplicate tally papers for each party at primaries), all three of which shall be made at the same time. Ballots, after being removed from the box, shall be kept within the unobstructed view of all persons in the voting room until replaced in the box.

No person while handling the ballots shall have in his hand any pencil, pen, stamp, or other means of marking or spoiling any ballot. The election officers shall proceed to canvass and compute the votes cast, and shall not adjourn or postpone the computation until it has been fully completed.

When the vote cast for the different candidates has been fully recorded in the tally papers and counted, the election officers must certify to the number of votes cast for each person (upon the respective party tickets at primaries) and must prepare in ink five (5) general returns. The number of votes received by each candidate shall be given after his or her name, first in words and then in figures. All of the return sheets must be signed in the proper spaces by all of the election officers and the overseers, if any. If not so certified or signed, the overseer or any election officer refusing to sign shall write upon each of the returns his reason for not doing so.

In returning votes cast for persons whose names are not printed on the ballot, the election officers shall record such names EXACTLY as they were written, stamped or applied to the ballot by sticker.

One of these return sheets shall be immediately posted outside the polling place for the information of the public and the others delivered as provided by law.

Manner of Counting Ballots

A ballot which is so marked as to be capable of identification shall not be counted. Any ballot that is marked in blue, black or blue-black ink in fountain pen or ball point pen, in black lead pencil or indelible pencil shall be valid and counted, provided that all markings on the ballot are made by the same pen or pencil and that all markings on the ballot are the same type of marking, either a cross (X) or check (/). Any ballot marked by any other mark than a cross (X) or check (/) in the spaces provided for that purpose shall be void and not counted: Provided, however, That no vote recorded thereon shall be declared void because a cross (X) or check (/) is irregular in form. Any erasure, mutilation or defective marking of the straight party columns at November elections shall render the entire ballot void, unless the voter has properly indicated his choice for candidates in any office block, in which case the vote or votes for such candidates only shall be counted. Any erasure or mutilation in the vote of any office block shall render void the vote for any candidates in such block, but shall not invalidate the votes cast on the remainder of the ballot, if otherwise properly marked. A ballot indicating a vote for any person whose name is not printed on the ballot, whether by writing, stamping or sticker, shall be counted as a vote for such person, if placed in the proper space or spaces provided for that purpose, whether or not a cross (X) or check (✓) is placed after the name of such person: Provided, however, That if such writing, stamping or sticker is placed over the name of a candidate printed on the ballot, it shall render the entire vote in that office block void. If an elector shall mark his ballot for more persons for any office than there are candidates to be voted for such office, or if for any reason it is impossible to determine his choice for any office, his ballot shall not be counted for such office, but the ballot shall be counted for all offices for which it is properly marked. Ballots not marked, or improperly or defectively marked so that the whole ballot is void, shall be set aside but shall be preserved with the other ballots.

At November elections, a cross (X) or check (✓) marked in the square opposite the name of a political party or political body in the party column shall be counted as a vote for every candidate of that party or body, including its candidates for presidential electors, except for those offices as to which the voter has indicated a choice for individual candidates of the same or another party or body in any office block, in which case the ballot for such office block shall be counted only for the candidates thus individually marked, notwithstanding the fact that the voter has made a mark in the party column, and even though in the case of an office for which more than one candidate is to be voted for, he has not individually marked for such office the full number of candidates for which he is entitled to vote.

Decisions concerning questionable marks on ballots, or defacing or mutilation of ballots, and the count to be recorded thereon, shall be made by the inspectors of election. If the inspectors shall disagree, the judge shall decide the question. If the judge is unable to decide, then the overseers, if they agree, shall decide the question.

Counting the Vote—Voting Machines

As soon as the polls are closed and the last voter has voted, the election officers shall immediately lock and seal the operating lever or mechanism on all machines.

The officers, clerk and overseers, if any, shall then sign a certificate for each machine stating that it has been locked against voting and sealed; stating also the number shown on the public counter, the number on the seal which has been attached, the number registered on the protective counter, and the number or other designation of the voting machine. They shall then compare the number shown on the public counter with the number of names written in the numbered lists of voters, the district register and the voting check list.

These certificates shall be returned by the judge of election to the county board with the other certificates and return sheets.

If the type of voting machine used requires the counters to be seen to canvass the vote, the election officers, in the presence of the watchers and all other persons lawfully within the polling place, shall then make them visible. If the voting machine is equipped to print paper proof sheets, the election officers shall then print enough copies (but not less than four in any case) to give one to each member of the election board, overseer, candidate, watcher, representative of a newspaper, and other persons lawfully present who request same.

The judge and inspectors shall then read off distinctly the designation (number and letter) on each counter for each candidate's name, the result shown by the counter numbers, the votes recorded for each write-in candidate, and the result for and against each question voted on. (The counters shall not be read along the party columns or rows, but always along the office columns or rows, completing the canvass for each office before proceeding to the next.)

The vote shall be entered on the required number of return sheets and certified and signed in the same manner in all respects as described for canvassing paper ballots.

The vote for each machine used shall be ascertained and recorded in like manner; and a statement of the results shall immediately be posted outside the polling place and the return sheets, etc., delivered as provided by law.

Returns Open to Public Inspection

The general returns from the districts which have been returned unsealed shall be open to public inspection at the offices of the county boards as soon as they are received from the judges of election. None of the sealed returns delivered by the judges to the county boards shall be opened by ANY person except by order of the county board or the court of common pleas.

Compensation of Election Officers (Counties of the First and Second Classes)

In counties of the first and second classes, the compensation of judges of election shall be twenty-five dollars ($25.00), and the compensation of inspectors, clerks and machine inspectors shall be twenty dollars ($20.00) for each primary and election.

For transmitting returns of primaries and elections and the ballot box or boxes, all judges of election shall be entitled to receive an additional sum of two dollars fifty cents ($2.50) and, except in counties of the first class, shall also be entitled to receive five cents ($.05) per mile for mileage, as full compensation for said services.

For transmitting the ballot box or boxes together with the judge of election as herein provided, the minority inspector of election shall be entitled to an additional sum of two dollars and fifty cents ($2.50) in counties of the first class, and in counties of the second class, the additional sum of three dollars fifty cents ($3.50) as full compensation for said services.

Compensation of Election Officers (Counties of Third through Eighth Classes)

In counties of the third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth classes, the compensation of judges, inspectors, clerks and machine inspectors in districts using voting machines shall be fixed by the county board of elections of the county at not less than the following: Judges of election, twelve dollars ($12.00); inspectors and clerks, ten dollars ($10.00); and machine operators, eight dollars ($8.00); and not more than the following: Judges of election, twenty-four dollars ($24.00); inspectors and clerks, twenty-two dollars ($22.00); and machine operators, twenty dollars ($20.00); for each primary and election. In districts using voting machines the county board of elections may, in its discretion, establish different per diem rates within the above-mentioned minima and maxima based on the number of votes cast for the following groups: 150 votes or less, 151 to 500 votes, 501 to 1,000 votes, over 1,000 votes. In every district using paper ballots in such counties, the compensation of judges, inspectors and clerks shall be fixed by the county board of elections of the county at not less than six dollars ($6.00) nor more than ten dollars ($10.00) for each primary and election. In any election district using paper ballots in such counties in which more than one hundred votes are cast at any primary or election all such officers and clerks shall each receive additional compensation at the rate of two dollars ($2.00) for each fifty votes, or fraction thereof, cast after the first one hundred votes.

For transmitting returns of primaries and elections and the ballot box or boxes in counties of the third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth classes, all judges of election shall be entitled to municipal or general election and shall continue from day to day until completed.

The absentee military and disabled veterans' vote and the absentee civilian vote shall be canvassed beginning at 10:00 A. M. on the second Friday following elections. The results shall then be added to the other votes cast in the election before certifying the returns.

Return Board Qualifications

If any member of a county board is a candidate for nomination or election to public office he shall not act as a member of said board for the computation of returns but the other members, if qualified, and if both are not members of the same political party, shall act.

In case there are not at least a majority of the members of said board so qualified, two or more judges of the court of common pleas shall be designated by said court to act as a return board provided that neither of them is a candidate for any nomination or election to public office. If there is only one judge of such court in such county, or if less than two judges are qualified and able to act, any judge who is qualified may act alone.

If there is no judge qualified, the following county officers in the order named, not being candidates for any nomination or election to any public office, shall act as the return board: the prothonotary, sheriff, county treasurer, clerk of the orphans' court, clerk of oyer and terminer and quarter sessions court, register of wills, and the recorder of deeds.

If none of the above officers can qualify, the president judge of the court of common pleas in such county shall make a written request to the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania for the assignment of a judge from another judicial district who shall act as the return board.

The county solicitor shall serve as counsel for the return board in each county and shall receive no additional compensation therefor in addition to his compensation as county solicitor.

A black and white photograph of a stone arch bridge spanning a river. The bridge features a single prominent arch and is flanked by dense trees and foliage. The water in the river reflects the bridge and the surrounding greenery. The scene is captured from a low angle, looking up at the bridge and the trees.

CONGRESSIONAL APPORTIONMENT ACT

ongress for the apportionment of Representatives in Congress among the several States by the equal proportions method under the Sixteenth Amendment approved November 15, 1941.

acted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in assembled, That Section 22 of the Act An Act to provide for the fifteenth and decennial censuses and to provide for the election of Representatives in Congress, June 18, 1929, as amended, is amended to read as follows:

(a) On the first day, or within one year after, of the first regular session of the second Congress and of each fifth year thereafter, the President shall transmit to Congress a statement showing the whole number of persons in each State, excluding Indians taxed, as ascertained under the seven-eighths of each subsequent decennial census of population, and the number of Representatives to which each State would be entitled under the method of the then existing number of Representatives by the method known as the equal proportions, no State to receive more than one Member.

Each State shall be entitled in the Eighty-first and in each Congress thereafter to the same effect of a reapportionment under the equal proportions statute, to the number of Representatives shown in the statement and subsection (a) of this section, no State to receive less than one Member. It shall be the duty of the Clerk of the House of Representatives, within fifteen calendar days after the receipt of the statement, to send to the executive of each State a certificate of the number of Representatives to which such State is entitled under the method of equal proportions.

In case of a vacancy in the office of the Clerk of the House of Representatives, then such duty shall devolve upon the Sergeant at Arms of the House of Representatives in case of vacancies in the offices of the Clerk and the Sergeant at Arms, or in case of inability of both to act, such duty shall devolve upon the Doorkeeper of the House of Representatives.

If a State is redistricted in the manner provided by the law thereof after any reapportionment, the Representatives to which such State is entitled under such apportionment shall be elected in the following manner: (1) If there is no change in the number of Representatives, they shall be elected from the districts then prescribed by the law of such State, and if any of them are elected from the State at large they shall continue to be so elected; (2) If there is an increase in the number of Representatives, such additional Representative or Representatives shall be elected from the State at large and the other Representatives from the districts then prescribed by the law of such State; (3) If there is a decrease in the number of Representatives but the number of districts in such State is equal to such decreased number of Representatives, they shall be elected from the districts then prescribed by the law of such State; (4) If there is a decrease in the number of Representatives but the number of districts in such State is less than such number of Representatives, the number of Representatives by which such number of districts is exceeded shall be elected from the State at large and the other Representatives from the districts then prescribed by the law of such State; or (5) If there is a decrease in the number of Representatives and the number of districts in such State exceeds such decreased number of Representatives, they shall be elected from the State at large."

Sec. 2. (a) Each State shall be entitled, in the Seventy-eighth and in each Congress thereafter until the taking effect of a reapportionment under a subsequent statute or such section 22, as amended by this Act, to the number of Representatives shown in the statement transmitted to the Congress on January 8, 1941, based upon the method known as the method of equal proportions; no State to receive less than one Member.

(b) If before the enactment of this Act a certificate has been sent to the executive of any State under the provisions of such section 22, as in force before the enactment of this Act, the Clerk of the House of Representatives shall, within fifteen calendar days after the date of enactment of this Act, send a new certificate to such executive stating the number of Representatives to which such State is entitled under this section.

GENERAL INFORMATION

(Prepared by Sylvester K. Stevens, State Historian)

PHYSICAL PROPERTIES

Pennsylvania is one of the Middle Atlantic group of states. It is bounded on the north by the International Boundary in the middle of Lake Erie and by New York; on the east by the Delaware River, separating Pennsylvania from New York and New Jersey; on the south by Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia; and on the west by Ohio and West Virginia.

The topography is varied. The northern and western parts of Pennsylvania are a dissected plateau, over 2,000 feet above sea level in the northern tier of counties and decreasing to about 1,200 feet south of Pittsburgh. From the south-central boundary a broad belt of alternating wide valleys and narrow mountains extends across the center of the state toward the northeast corner. East of this belt is the broad Cumberland-Lebanon-Lehigh Valley, bounded on the east by discontinuous mountains and by lowlands of irregular form, and by a deeply dissected plateau of moderate height that decreases in elevation to Delaware River. Another lowland follows the south shore of Lake Erie. The rivers are important in industry—the Delaware, the Lehigh, the Schuylkill, the Susquehanna, the Allegheny, the Youghiogheny, the Monongahela, and the Ohio. The lower Delaware, and the Ohio and its larger tributaries are navigable. The area is 45,302.33 square miles, ranking 32nd in size among the several states. To this area may be added 891 square miles of the area of Lake Erie included within the state boundary. The highest peak is Mt. Davis on Negro Mountain in Somerset County, with an elevation of 3,213 feet above sea level.

"COMMONWEALTH"

Pennsylvania shares with Virginia, Kentucky and Massachusetts the designation "Commonwealth." The term is of English derivation and implies an especial devotion of the government to the "commonwealth" or welfare of its citizens. Peculiarly enough, the State Seal of Pennsylvania does not use the term, but as a matter of accepted tradition it is the legal designation to be used in referring to the state, and legal processes are in the name of the Commonwealth. The colony of Penn was known as "the Quaker Commonwealth" and while it has proved impossible to trace any direct reason for the use of the term, it became accepted during the provincial period. Records of the Pennsylvania conventions show that those who framed the successive constitutions of from 1776 to 1873 continued this terminology without any apparent thought as to its origin. Thus Pennsylvania has continued to enjoy the distinctive appellation "Commonwealth."

KEYSTONE STATE

The use of the term "Keystone State" as applied to Pennsylvania cannot be traced to any single source. Apparently, it came into use shortly after the Revolution and was commonly accepted soon after 1800. The early common use of the term may be attributed to the strategic geographical location of Pennsylvania in the original union dominated by the states of the Atlantic seaboard. The modern persistence of this designation for Pennsylvania is justified in view of the key position of Pennsylvania in the economic, social and political development of the United States.

STATE SEALS*

The State seal is an impressed device attached to a paper for purposes of authentication in the name of the Commonwealth and the instrument by which it is made is a seal-press or stamp.

There were three kinds of provincial seals used in the early days of the Province which later became the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The Great Seal appeared upon treaties, proclamations and other important documents and had also a counter seal or posterior face. The Lesser Seal is found upon the laws, decisions of the Supreme Court and less important executive and judicial papers. The Seal of Arms may be seen upon summons to the General Assembly and orders addressed to provincial officials.

The Great and Lesser Seals of Pennsylvania differed only in size; the chief device was the Penn Coat of Arms, the inscriptions changing with the Proprietorships. The Seal of Arms varied with the different Governors who introduced their own arms or modifications of them.

The Constitutional Convention of 1776 provided that all commissions should be marked with the State Seal, but it was not until 1778 that a seal appeared bearing the inscription "Seal of the State of Pennsylvania." It has been modified several times.

In 1791 the General Assembly designated the seals in use by the Supreme Executive Council as the State Seals. The Great Seal is described in the Act of March 2, 1809. This seal persisted for forty years. In 1854, during the administration of Governor William Bigler, a modification of the seal was used. In 1858 a correction was made in the inscription. Another modification was made in 1868 by the introduction of the scroll-work design in the lower segment of the circumferential band. The seal now in use was adopted in 1893, although use was made of the older design for a year or two after that date. The new design omitted the festoon about the upper part of the shield and the ship and plough were faced from right to left.

* Based on study of seals and coats of arms made by General James E. Pilcher—born in Adrian, Michigan, March 18, 1857. Educated as a doctor and surgeon and in 1883 entered Army medical service. Served with distinction in Spanish-American War. Retired in 1900 and lived in Carlisle, Pennsylvania, until his death. Author of numerous surgical works and editor of publications of similar nature. Supervised the indexing of the State Library and edited the Fourth Series of the Pennsylvania Archives. Monograph on the State Seal of Pennsylvania prepared in 1902. General Pilcher was a member of the faculty of Dickinson College for many years following his retirement. He died in 1911.

The present form of the seal bears heraldic colors. These colors are represented by conventional signs: The transverse lines indicate blue, the dots or points mark gold and the oblique lines represent green.

The seals of Pennsylvania have from time to time varied in actual color. The Great Seal of William Penn was the color of red wax of which it was composed. Then followed one of white which persisted in 1852, when other tints were used. Governor Bigler used a yellow and sometimes a green one. Governor Curtin's seals were red or blue. The use of the gilt seals began with Governor Geary and is still employed.

The seal is impressed directly on the document, but prior to 1780 it was from time to time stamped upon ribbons, wax and other devices, some of which are still used to give body to the seal and permit of a double impression—obverse and reverse.

STATE FLAG

No trace can be found of a strictly Provincial Flag. There were, of course, the flags adopted by the different military companies. Provision for a State flag bearing the arms of the Commonwealth was made by Act of April 9, 1799. A Joint Resolution of May 26, 1861, required the Governor to procure regimental standards with the arms of the Commonwealth. Many regimental flags of that period were made by using the National flag, with the arms of Pennsylvania substituted for the field of stars.

The State Flag of Pennsylvania is described in the Act approved June 13, 1907, P. L. 560. This act states that the official flag of the Commonwealth "shall be of blue, same color as the blue field in the flag of the United States, and of the following dimensions and design: The length, or height, of the staff to be nine feet, including brass spearhead and ferrule; the fly of the said flag to be six feet two inches, and to be four feet six inches on the staff; in the center of the flag there shall be embroidered in silk, the same on both sides of the flag, the coat of arms of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in proportionate size; the edges to be trimmed with knotted fringe of yellow silk, two and one-half inches wide; a cord, with tassel, to be attached to the staff at the spearhead, to be eight feet six inches long, and composed of white and blue silk strands."

Desecration of the flags of the United States and of this State is a misdemeanor punishable under the Act of June 24, 1939, P. L. 872, by a fine not exceeding $200 or imprisonment for not more than six months, or both. By exception in the Act, certain uses are permitted, and by the Act of June 5, 1913, P. L. 419, section 1, use of the State Flag for display on any public building in the Commonwealth is authorized.

The Secretary of the Commonwealth is the custodian of the official State Flag which stands unfurled in the Secretary's office.

COAT OF ARMS

The State Coat of Arms of the Commonwealth seldom appears on colonial documents, but after the Declaration of Independence, a coat of arms was shown on the State paper money issued early in 1777. It closely resembled the State seal except it had no encircling inscription. In 1778, a new engraving elaborated the original design adding the eagle, the horses, two cornstalks, a cornstalk and an olive branch crossed and the motto: "Virtue, Liberty and Independence." The shield was changed in 1790 to the shape now in vogue. A long series of variations followed, but in 1805 a modification of the form omitted the cornstalks back of the horses and the latter had no harness. The trappings of the horses did not appear until 1875.

In 1809 the color of one of the horses was changed to white and in 1820 the color of both was changed. Both animals, in 1832, were represented in white and were shown as facing in the same direction, to the right, one was reclining while the other was standing. In 1870 they were pictured as in previous coats of arms, the white horse being on the left. The rising sun of prosperity, hidden behind the shield sent up numerous rays of light, while the cornucopia cast forth its contents in the foreground.

In 1873, the steeds had again changed sides, the white being on the right, the black on the left; the shield slanted at a sharper angle, the cornucopia was omitted. The white charger was pronounced an interloper in 1875 and was supplanted by one in black. Each horse was fitted with harness.

Until 1874 the Coat of Arms had never received the sanction of law and, attention having been called to this anomalous condition, the General Assembly approved a joint resolution the 30th day of April, 1874, authorizing and appointing a Commission to "correct the Coat of Arms of the Commonwealth" and purge it of all errors which had arisen in connection with it.

The Commission reported to the next General Assembly, March 17, 1875, the following:

"That they had adopted the Arms as represented by Caleb Lownes in 1778, which represented the veritable Arms of the State, describing the same so as to be on record in the State Department for future reference."

The adoption of the Coat of Arms thus recommended placed it on a permanent footing and relieved it from a continuation of the vicissitudes to which the mutations of the preceding century had subjected it.*

The Heraldic description follows:

ESCUTCHEON Party per fess, azure and vert. On a chief of the first, a ship under sail. On a fess or, a plough, proper; on a base of the second, three garbs, or.

CREST An eagle, rousant, proper, on a wreath of its colors.

SUPPORTERS Two horses sable, caparisoned for draught, rearing respectant.

MOTTO Virtue, Liberty and Independence.

Translation:

SHIELD Divided in two, gold band across the center; upper part sky blue and lower green; upper part ship full sail, facing left. Gold band with plough in natural color; lower portion of shield green on which are three gold sheaves.

CREST An eagle with wings spread in attitude of rising; natural colors. Wreath at base in natural color.

SUPPORTERS Two caparisoned black horses, rearing, facing each other.

STATE FLOWER

By the Act of Assembly No. 107, approved May 5, 1933, Pennsylvania adopted the Mountain Laurel (Kalmia latifolia) as the State flower.

STATE TREE

By Act No. 233, approved June 22, 1931, the General Assembly selected the Hemlock (Tsuga canadensis Linnaeus) as the State tree.

STATE BIRD

By Act No. 234 of the General Assembly, approved June 22, 1931, Pennsylvania adopted "the king of the game birds," the ruffed grouse (Bonasa umbellus) as the official game bird of Pennsylvania.

PENNSYLVANIA'S CAPITALS AND BUILDINGS

The first capital of the Colony was established at Tinicum Island in the Delaware in 1643. William Penn first arrived in America late in 1682 and, as Philadelphia was then just in the process of being laid out into lots, he stopped in Chester. The first General Assembly of the Province was held there and there the "Great Law" was passed. The following year the provincial government was established in Philadelphia, which remained the capital until 1799, when Lancaster became the capital on the first Monday of November. By an act approved February 21, 1810, Harrisburg was declared to be the capital after 1812. From that date on Harrisburg has been the capital of Pennsylvania.

By an Act passed in 1816 the erection of a capitol building was authorized and the two wings of the building were built. In 1819 the completion of the building was authorized. The General Assembly occupied the building on January 2, 1821. An extension was authorized in 1864.

The main building of the Capitol was destroyed by fire at noon on February 2, 1897.

PRESENT MAIN CAPITOL BUILDING DEDICATED

The Act of April 14, 1897, P. L. 19, supplemented by the Act of July 18, 1901, P. L. 713, authorized the erection of the present building, which was rapidly constructed and was dedicated by President Theodore Roosevelt on October 4, 1906.

The architect (commissioned in 1902) was Joseph M. Houston of Philadelphia. Designed in the classic style adapted from the architecture of the Italian Renaissance, the Capitol is 520 feet long and 254 feet wide. It covers two acres of ground and within its one-half mile circumference are 475 rooms. The exterior is of Vermont granite and rises five floors above the main floor. Above the center wing is a magnificent dome of fine proportion, towering to a height of 272 feet. Surmounting this dome, a figure, symbolic of the Commonwealth, upholds a garlanded mace.

Throughout the interior, the Capitol is sumptuously finished in marble, mahogany, bronze and tiling and adorned with appropriate decorations and by mural paintings by artists of great reputation.

State records give the amount of $10,073,174 as the total cost of the Capitol Building, exclusive of furnishings.

The Barnard Groups of Statuary Flanking the sides of the central entrance, facing west, are two heroic groups of statuary by the Pennsylvania born sculptor, George Grey Barnard. To the right as one faces this entrance, is a group of men and women in attitudes representing the spiritual burdens carried by man. The group to the left represents humanity advancing through the inspiration of work and brotherhood.

The Bronze Doors At the central entrance are huge bronze doors, enriched with sculptured relief.

These doors were designed by the architect and modeled by Otto Jahnsen. On the sides of the doors, a succession of sculptured heads portrays the men immediately responsible for the building of the Capitol.

The Vestibule Just inside the doors is a vestibule, flanked by decorated doorways, which lead into rooms maintained for the convenience of groups visiting the Capitol.

The Rotunda The size and immense space within the great rotunda below the dome, the sweep of the grand staircase, the rich ornamentation of the walls and ceiling, all add to the monumental and inspiring effect of this, the focal point of the government of the Commonwealth.

Appropriately placed around this great rotunda, just under the main cornice, are the famous words of William Penn which outline his hopes for the new experiment in democratic government he was founding.

"THERE MAY BE ROOM THERE FOR SUCH A HOLY EXPERIMENT. FOR THE NATIONS WANT A PRECEDENT. AND MY GOD WILL MAKE IT THE SEED OF A NATION. THAT AN EXAMPLE MAY BE SET UP TO THE NATIONS. THAT WE MAY DO THE THING THAT IS TRULY WISE AND JUST."

In the recessed arches and circular panels are paintings by the Pennsylvania artist, Edwin Austin Abbey, which commemorate the spiritual, intellectual and economic advances of the Commonwealth.

War Record Around the rotunda are six glass cases containing flags carried by Pennsylvania soldiers in the Civil and Spanish-American wars and an Honor Roll listing State employees in World War II.

The Main Corridors Extending to the north and to the south, are wide corridors. In the south corridor, to the right, as one faces the staircase, are mural paintings by W. B. Van Ingen, a noted Pennsylvania artist, which represent various phases of the religious influences that are a part of Pennsylvania's history. Carved on the gilded capitals along these corridors are heads which represent outstanding individuals of the many nationalities that have contributed to the making of the population of Pennsylvania.

The Tile Pavement Throughout the rotunda and both corridors is a richly colored pavement interspersed with more than four hundred tile mosaics. These mosaics, designed and executed by Henry C. Mercer, of Doylestown, suggest animals and birds as well as industries, occupations and modes of travel, common throughout Pennsylvania.

The Senate Chamber North of the rotunda, off the second floor balcony, is the Senate Chamber, which is richly furnished and conveys a feeling of quiet dignity. In this room are paintings by Violet Oakley, one of Pennsylvania's most outstanding women artists. The paintings in front and to the left of the central niche represent "The Creation of the Union," and portray Washington and his troops marching through Philadelphia on their way to the Brandywine in 1777, and Washington presiding over the Constitutional Convention, Independence Hall, Philadelphia, 1787.

To the right are paintings representing "The Preservation of the Union," which depict General Meade and his troops in camp before Gettysburg, 1863, and President Lincoln at the dedication of the National Cemetery at Gettysburg, 1863. In the panel above is represented William Penn's vision of "International Understanding."

At the rear of the room are two other paintings by Violet Oakley, representing two old Quaker legends: one, the Open Latch String, and the other, the Friend who purchased and set free a boatload of slaves. Just below the ceiling are circular stained glass windows, by W. B. Van Ingen, symbolizing subjects such as: Weaving, Temperance, Glass Blowing, Peace, Railroads, Militia, Legislature, History, Foundries, and Architecture.

The House of Representatives Chamber South of the rotunda, off the second floor balcony, is the richly decorated Chamber of the House of Representatives. This room is ornamented with a wealth of architectural detail and with stained glass windows and paintings.

The windows, by W. B. Van Ingen, depict outstanding Pennsylvania activities. The paintings in this room are by Edwin Austin Abbey. The largest of these paintings is the "Apotheosis," directly above the Speaker's platform, which portrays men prominent in the Commonwealth's early history. To the left is a picture of "Penn's Treaty With the Indians," while to the right is shown the "Reading of the Declaration of Independence" at Independence Hall, Philadelphia. To the rear of the Chamber, between the two entrances, is Abbey's picture of "Valley Forge," showing Baron Von Steuben instructing recruits. In the circular panel in the ceiling of the House is "The Passage of the Hours," another striking example of Abbey's symbolic art.

The Appellate Court Room This room on the fourth floor is dedicated to the use of the Supreme Court and the Superior Court. It is approached by a corridor extending east from the rotunda. In this room of quiet dignity are displayed 16 superb panels by Violet Oakley, portraying the evolution of law through the ages.

The Governor's Suite This suite of richly furnished rooms is on the second floor of the south wing. The public reception room, paneled in English crotch oak, is enhanced by a series of mural paintings by Violet Oakley. These paintings portray events in the history of religious liberty in England and in the rise of the Society of Friends. In addition, they show dramatic moments in the life of William Penn, culminating with his arrival in America on the ship Welcome.

The Lieutenant Governor's Rooms In the front of the building and off the second floor balcony, over the main entrance, are the Lieutenant Governor's rooms. The public reception room is of considerable interest because of its wainscoting of mahogany, and the decorative leather surfacing the walls.

CAPITOL GROUP PLANNED

Long ago it became apparent that ground was needed for a proper setting of the Capitol as well as additional buildings. The original park, a four-acre grant from John Harris, was increased to fifteen acres by 1873 at a cost of $36,430. Between the years 1912-1919, the park area was enlarged to forty-five acres through the purchase of the area included between the Capitol and the railroad and between Walnut Street and North Street. This area included 537 properties and with the removal of the buildings was acquired at a cost of $2,300,000.

In 1916, Arnold W. Brunner, architect, and Warren H. Manning, landscape architect, were commissioned to prepare comprehensive plans for the future development of this area.

In 1941, surveys and studies were made for the acquisition of more property to the north, to provide space and a setting for additional buildings which are necessary for the enlarging sphere of State services and to help solve the growing traffic and parking problems.

In 1943 the General Assembly established a Capitol Park Extension Commission to examine and approve all acquisition proceedings involved in purchasing the area north of the Capitol to Forster Street between Third Street and the railroad. The Department of Property and Supplies was directed to acquire this property and the sum of $3,000,000 was appropriated for this purpose. William Gehron, Architect, is preparing plans for development of the area under direction of the General State Authority.

In 1945 the General Assembly appropriated the sum of $6,000,000 to the Department of Property and Supplies for further land acquisition, preparation of a comprehensive plan for the Capitol Park Extension, the construction of new buildings including a State Archives and Museum Building as a memorial to William Penn and for the repair, demolition and improvement of existing buildings. Work under consideration involves redesign of the central wing of the eastern facade of the Capitol and the development of "The Peoples Court" as envisioned in the Brunner and Manning Plan. This development not only will provide much needed space in an appropriate setting for large public gatherings but underneath it will provide for additional office space and automobile parking. Subsequent legislative action reduced the appropriation drastically so the work is now held in abeyance.

In 1956 the General Assembly appropriated $500,000 additional for the purpose of further land acquisition. The 1957 Legislature appropriated an additional $370,000 for Capitol Park land acquisition and $200,000 for extension of Commonwealth Avenue.

OTHER STATE BUILDINGS

MUSEUM Adjacent to the south side of the main Capitol building is the State Museum, designed by the architect, James H. Windrim. This building, erected in 1893-94 to house Executive and other offices of the Commonwealth and the State Library, now contains the State Museum. In this Museum are found exhibits pertinent to the history of Pennsylvania, such as mounted specimens of bird, animal and fish life of the Commonwealth, Indian relics and examples of equipment, furnishings, and crafts of the early settlers. Occupying almost the entire second floor rear wall of the main Museum room is Rothermel's famous painting, "The Battle of Gettysburg." Plans under consideration call for housing the museum in a new building to be named "William Penn Memorial."

THE SOUTH OFFICE BUILDING (Number 1) authorized in 1919, was the first step toward the fulfillment of the Brunner Plan. It has seven stories and basement and is 292 feet by 87 feet, a well-planned and simply designed building, well but not extravagantly finished, costing $3,250,000.

On the main floor, in the north vestibule, are colorful murals by Edward Trumbull, depicting on the west wall, his interpretation of "Penn's Treaty With the Indians," and on the east wall "The Industries of Pittsburgh." In the spaces above the doors to the main lobby are portrayed men engaged in various labors.

THE NORTH OFFICE BUILDING exactly balances the South Office Building (Number 1), being the same area and height and almost the same design. It was completed and occupied in 1929 at a cost of $3,000,000.

This building, following the original design by Arnold W. Brunner, continued the development of the proposed Capital Park plan.

The large bronze entrance doors by Carl P. Jennewein are of considerable interest. On the panels of these doors are symbolized the construction of state highways, and various forms of travel. In the main lobby floor, at the terrace level, is a map of Pennsylvania, showing highways of the State and seals of the cities of the Commonwealth.

THE EDUCATION BUILDING, or South Office Building (Number 2), was authorized in 1929. It is the third building to follow the Brunner Plan and was occupied in November, 1931, at a cost of $5,500,000. It is five stories high, with two basements, 472 feet long and 82 feet wide, with a semicircular auditorium wing the same height, 150 feet long and 110 feet wide.

Designed by the architects William Gehron and Sidney F. Ross, this building is notable for its beauty and utility. In addition to office space provided, it contains the Forum, an auditorium seating 1,833 persons. In this Forum and in the public corridors are paintings and sculpture of great historical and scientific interest.

The Frieze Just below the outside cornice of the building are carved the names of thirty-five educators, philanthropists, and statesmen who have rendered outstanding service to education in Pennsylvania.

The Main Entrance Flanking the main entrance are the Coat of Arms of the Commonwealth and insignia symbolic of the Department of Public Instruction, which were sculptured by Carl P. Jennewein and Harry Kreis. The three grilled doors of sculptured bronze by Lee Lawrie, contain 120 panels depicting man's ways of labor, his work in industry and in the arts.

In the sides of the portals leading from the vestibule to the lobby are carvings by Jennewein and Kreis, which suggest the various subjects taught in the schools of the Commonwealth.

The Main Lobby The richly decorated ceiling by Vincent Maragliotti continues the symbolism of education. The vast medley of forms and symbols, between the beams, and the pictorial strips on the beams, all depict the countless phases of learning.

The General Library Off the main lobby, at the western end, is the General Library which contains approximately 200,000 volumes. Its miles of shelves are open to the public.

The Law Library At the east end of the main lobby is another library, the Law Library, containing a vast collection of books on law and legal matters. This library is one of the most complete in the country.

The Forum The Forum, a semicircular auditorium, is decorated both on the walls and ceiling. Around the walls are maps and tables showing the growth and development of civilization—the path of man's progress through time, both in the western and in the oriental worlds.

On the ceiling, are represented the celestial bodies which comprise the universe around us. The constellations in this unique indoor sky are lighted in accordance with the magnitude of the stars depicted. In the center of this great expanse of ceiling are representations of three theories of the solar system, the Ptolemaic Theory, the Copernican Theory, and the Keplerian System upon which the calculations of modern astronomy are based.

THE FINANCE BUILDING, or North Office Building Number 2, is located at the northeast section of Capitol Park and completes the present group of buildings according to the Brunner Plan of Capitol Park.

This building was built at a cost of $4,825,000 by The General State Authority and was designed by Gehron and Ross Architects, of New York City. It was completed in 1939 and is occupied by the Fiscal Department of the Treasurer, Auditor General and Revenue.

The building is U-shaped in plan, seven stories in height. The exterior walls are of gray Indiana limestone with bronze windows and copper roof. The massive exterior bronze doors are finished with a special treatment to give an appearance of age. The interior has marble walls in the corridors and marble and terrazzo floors. Special rooms have wood paneling on the walls, with decorative ceilings and lighting fixtures and green carpet with a keystone design.

Typical offices have painted plaster walls, acoustical treatment on the ceilings, and linoleum floors. Some partitions are constructed of glass brick. The building is air-conditioned.

The Frieze A frieze, by the sculptor C. J. Jennewein, encircles the building. In this frieze are a series of medallions which present a symbolic record of economic achievements in the Commonwealth. In addition there is carved a series of moral precepts as well as the names of Pennsylvania cities, each with a medallion suggesting an outstanding activity of that city.

Granite Sculpture (North facade). This granite sculpture by Lee Lawrie has in its central portion an adaptation of the State Seal. On the left are symbolized the natural products of the Commonwealth, and on the right, products used in the daily life of its citizens.

Entrance Doors The bronze doors, designed by the sculptor, Carl Milles, suggest various phases of agriculture, mining and manufacturing.

Elevator Doors The decorative brass elevator doors by the sculptor, Ulysses Ritchie, are decorated with enlarged replicas of ancient and modern coins.

Mural Paintings On the north and south vestibule ceilings are mural paintings by Eugene Savage. The mural on the ceiling of the south vestibule illustrates allegorically "The Collection of Taxes."

The mural on the ceiling of the north vestibule suggests the disbursement of public funds. Abutting each side of the ceiling are depicted the many facilities for sports and recreation which are supervised by the State.

In the vestibule leading to the elevator corridor is represented the administration of the fish and game laws maintained by the Commonwealth.

Main Elevator Lobby In this lobby are ceiling murals by Vincent Maragliotti. These murals depict various industries and activities in Pennsylvania.

This building completes the group indicated in the Brunner Plan. Only the forecourt remains to be completed at some future date. This will occupy the area from which the five temporary buildings have been removed. The terraces of the North Office Building and South Office Building (Number 1) will be extended across the East front of the Capitol. An East entrance will then be constructed on the main floor level of the Capitol Building and with this forecourt paved and suitably adorned the Capitol Group of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania will be one of the principal show places in America.

The connecting of the buildings in the Brunner group with underground tunnels is also contemplated.

THE NORTHWEST OFFICE BUILDING as designed by Verus T. Ritter, R.A., of Philadelphia, at Capitol and Forster Streets, rises seven stories above ground with the lower floors of granite and limestone and those above of light-color brick in conjunction with the limestone. Constructed of steel frame, concrete floors and fireproof throughout, it is so arranged that any partition can be readily removed, thus affording an all-purpose office building. It is partially air-conditioned.

The total cost for the building was $1,217,289. A grant of $541,620 was provided by the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works and the balance of $675,669 required for the cost of the site and construction was paid by the Commonwealth from profits of the Liquor Control Board. The building is used by this Board and was first occupied in 1940.

It is anticipated that future development will make this building a part of the Capitol group. Of interest, at the front entrance, are the two sculptured eagles by Louis Milione.

THE LABOR AND INDUSTRY BUILDING, the Department of Supplies Annex and the Health and Welfare building are the three latest building additions to Capitol Hill. The new Labor and Industry Building at Seventh and Forster Streets is one of the most impressive as well as one of the most modern structures in the Capital City. Visible from most approaches to the city, the narrow main shaft of the 18-story building reaches, like a monument to modernism, high above its surroundings. The soft gray color of the limestone exterior, accented by the glow of pink Georgia marble, presents an eye-arresting sight. From the base of the building to the roof, vertical bands of pink marble separate tiers of aluminum-framed windows, accentuating the slenderness and height of the structure. The main shaft of the building is 293 feet long, 70 feet wide at the ends and 78 feet wide at the center, thus producing an elliptical convex facade, remarkably resembling a long narrow boat with midship width eight feet greater than that of either end. The total square foot area of the structure, 506,000, is the equivalent of a field of more than 11 acres.

The building was constructed at a cost of approximately $10,000,000 and required 26 months to erect. Governor George M. Leader officiated at the dedication on May 7, 1956.

THE HEALTH AND WELFARE BUILDING, a modern, 10-story building is faced with Indiana limestone to match other Capitol Hill buildings with the exception of the Capitol. It is situated at Seventh and Forster Streets and is a neighbor to the Labor and Industry building. An underground tunnel connects the two buildings. Construction costs were more than $6,400,000. It is occupied by offices of the Health and Public Welfare Departments. Cornerstone ceremonies took place on August 25, 1955 and state offices moved into the building during the summer months of 1957.

THE DEPARTMENT OF PROPERTY AND SUPPLIES ANNEX that serves as both an office building and garage is the first departure from the long standing policy of constructing state office buildings on Capitol Hill.

The split-level concrete and steel building is situated on a 19-acre site at 22nd and Forster Streets, Harrisburg. It is landscaped to blend with its suburban residential surroundings.

The building is 480 feet long by 250 feet wide and includes 120,000 square feet of floor space. Five bureaus of the Department of Property and Supplies are housed in the building: Surplus Food; Surplus Property; Automotive; Engineering and Construction; and Standards. The building also serves as a maintenance and repair garage for State vehicles.

Construction began October 27, 1953 and was completed November 2, 1955 at a total cost of $2,330,416.

THE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS MEMORIAL BRIDGE, on State Street to the east of the Capitol group, was designed by Gehron and Ross, and was authorized as a memorial to the citizens of Pennsylvania who served in World War I. Crowning the pylons at the entrance of the bridge are monumental eagles, sculptured by Lee Lawrie.

UNDERGROUND PARKING GARAGE Ground was broken on January 13, 1958 for the state's combination underground and surface parking garage, located on North Street, opposite the Finance Building and alongside the new Health and Welfare Building. Secretary of Property and Supplies

Andrew M. Bradley officiated at the ceremonies. The building is of reinforced concrete and steel. Two underground parking levels each hold 280 automobiles and surface parking 140 cars for a total of 700 cars. The project, under direction of the General State Authority, will cost more than $3,000,000 for the garage and street relocation when completed. Lacy Atherton & Davis are the architects and Ritter Brothers are the contractors.

COMMONWEALTH OFFICE BUILDING, PITTSBURGH Pennsylvania is a big state, 310 miles long and 180 miles wide. To better serve its citizens, the Commonwealth has constructed a Commonwealth Office Building in Pittsburgh and another in Philadelphia.

The Pittsburgh building is 16 stories high, covered with Vermont marble and 1,500 royal-blue aluminum panels. It is one of the first buildings in the nation to have colored aluminum panels. It is set on a four-foot thick concrete slab foundation and is situated at Liberty Avenue and Boulevard of the Allies, within the redeveloped Golden Triangle section of the city. It houses more than 30 different state departments and agencies and was constructed at a cost of more than $7,600,000.

Ground breaking ceremonies took place on January 12, 1955 with Governor John S. Fine officiating. Dedication ceremonies took place on April 26, 1957 with Governor George M. Leader and Mayor David L. Lawrence of Pittsburgh officiating.

Co-designers were Altenhof & Bown, architects, and Power Levinson & Long, engineers. Navarro Corporation was contractor.

COMMONWEALTH OFFICE BUILDING, PHILADELPHIA Construction was started on August 28, 1956, on this building. It is a 17-story office building with underground parking facilities for 200 automobiles. It is located at Broad and Spring Garden Streets. Total cost was more than $11,400,000.

The building is set on pier columns or stilts and pedestrians may walk under the building since there is no street floor. The exterior is of white marble and stainless steel and it provides 320,000 square feet of floor space. It houses 20 state departments and agencies.

Collaborating architects were the firms of Carroll Grisdale & Van Allen; Harbeson, Hough, Livingston & Larson; and Nolan & Swinburn. John McShain, Inc. was contractor.

EXECUTIVE MANSION The building which served as official home of twenty-three Governors and their families was sold at public auction February 4, 1960 in the bid room of the Capitol by the Department of Property and Supplies.

The mansion at 311 North Front Street, overlooking the Susquehanna River, was acquired by the Commonwealth in 1864 from Mrs. Mary A. Coverly, widow of the Harrisburg hotel proprietor who built the edifice, beginning in 1861, for his own home. The purchase price was $30,000. Mrs. Coverly accepted $20,000 in cash plus the deed to the Commonwealth's first executive mansion located on South Second Street, Harrisburg, on the present site of Gable's furniture store.

Highest bidder at the auction was the Insurance Company of North America, whose bid of $85,500 was officially accepted by the Commonwealth. Arrangements and negotiations for the auction and transfer of deed were completed under the direction of Secretary of Property and Supplies Andrew M. Bradley. The auctioneer was Glenn A. Arnold of Waynesburg who started the bidding at $25,000. The new owner maintains an office building adjacent to the mansion site.

Governor Lawrence, who decreed the sale of the mansion, described the sale as "a sad sentimental loss, but one dictated by reasons of economy and obsolescence." He will make his official residence the mansion at Indiantown Gap Military Reservation which has been used as a summer home by Governors since Edward Martin acquired the building in 1943.

PENNSYLVANIA LEGAL HOLIDAYS

Following is a copy of the Act of May 31, 1893, P. L. 188, designating certain days as legal holidays, as last amended by the Act of June 28, 1951.

Section 1. Be it enacted, Gc., That the following days and half days, namely: the first day of January, commonly called New Year's Day, the twelfth day of February, known as Lincoln's Birthday, the twenty-second day of February, known as Washington's Birthday, Good Friday, the thirtieth day of May, known as Memorial Day, the fourteenth day of June, known as Flag Day, the fourth of July, called Independence Day, the first Monday of September, known as Labor Day, the twelfth day of October, known as Columbus Day, the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November, Election Day, the eleventh day of November, known as Armistice Day, the twenty-fifth day of December, known as Christmas Day; and every Saturday, after twelve o'clock noon until twelve o'clock midnight, each of which Saturdays is hereby designated a half holiday; and any day appointed or recommended by the Governor of this State or the President of the United States as a day of thanksgiving or fastings and prayer, or other religious observance; and in the event of a financial crisis in the State or Nation, any day or days appointed by the Governor of this State or the President of the United States as a bank holiday; and in the event of public calamity in any part of the State through fire, flood, famine, violence, riot, insurrection, or enemy action, any day or days appointed by the Governor of this State as a bank holiday for banking institutions affected by such public calamity shall, for all purposes whatever as regards the presenting for payment or acceptance, and as regards the protesting and giving notice of the dishonor of bills of exchange, checks, drafts, and promissory notes, made after the passage of this act, be treated and considered as the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, and as public holidays and half holidays; and all such bills, checks, drafts, and notes otherwise presentable for acceptance or payment on any of the said days, shall be deemed to be payable and be presentable for acceptance or payment on the secular or business day next succeeding such holiday or half holiday; except checks, drafts, bills of exchange, and promissory notes, payable at sight or on demand, which would otherwise be payable on any half holiday Saturday, shall be deemed to be payable at or before twelve o'clock noon of such half holiday: Provided, however, That for the purpose of protesting or otherwise holding liable any party to any bill of exchange, check, draft, or promissory note, and which shall not have been paid before twelve o'clock noon of any Saturday designated a half holiday as aforesaid, a demand for acceptance or payment thereof shall not be made, and notice of protest or dishonor thereof shall not be given, until the next succeeding secular or business day: And provided further, That when any person, firm, corporation or company shall, on any Saturday designated a half holiday, receive for collection any check, bill of exchange, draft, or promissory note, such person, firm, corporation, or company shall not be deemed guilty of any neglect or omission of duty, nor incur any liability, in not presenting for payment or acceptance or collection such check, bill of exchange, draft or promissory note, on that day: And provided further, That, in construing this section, every Saturday designated a half holiday shall, until twelve o'clock noon be deemed a secular or business day; and the days and half days aforesaid, so designated as holidays and half holidays, shall be considered as public holidays and half holidays for all purposes whatsoever as regards the transaction of business, except that any day or days appointed as a bank holiday shall be regarded as secular or business days for all other purposes than those mentioned in this act: And provided further, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent or invalidate the entry, issuance, service, or execution of any writ, summons, confession of judgment, or other legal process whatever, on any of the holidays or half holidays herein designated as holidays; nor to prevent any banking institution from keeping its doors open or transacting its business, on any Saturday afternoon, if by a vote of its directors it shall elect to do so, unless such Saturday is appointed as bank holiday under the provisions of this act: And provided further, That any banking institution may, by a vote of its directors, or in the case of a private bank by action of the private banker or bankers, notice of which shall have been posted in its banking house for not less than fifteen days before the taking effect thereof, observe any Saturday throughout the year as full holiday with like effect hereunder as though such day had been designated as a full holiday by the provisions of this act.

Section 2. (a) Whenever the first day of January, the twelfth day of February, the twenty-second day of February, the thirtieth day of May, the fourteenth day of June, the fourth day of July, the twelfth day of October, the eleventh day of November, or the twenty-fifth day of December, shall any of them occur on Sunday, the following day (Monday) shall be deemed and declared a public holiday. All bills of exchange, checks, drafts, or promissory notes, falling due on any of the Mondays so observed as holidays, shall be due and payable on the next succeeding secular or business day; and all Mondays so observed as holidays shall, for all purposes whatever as regards the presenting for payment or acceptance, and as regards the protesting and giving notice of the dishonor of bills of exchange, checks, drafts, and promissory notes, made after the passage of this act, be treated and considered as if the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday.

(b) Nothing in any law of this Commonwealth shall in any manner whatsoever affect the validity of, or render void or voidable, the payment, certification, or acceptance of a check or other negotiable instrument or any other transaction by a banking institution in this State because done or performed or transacted on any Saturday between twelve o'clock noon and midnight, provided such payment, certification, acceptance or other transaction would be valid if done or performed on or before twelve o'clock on Saturday.

(c) Nothing in any law of this Commonwealth shall in any manner whatsoever affect the validity of, or render void or voidable the payment, certification, or acceptance of, any bill of exchange, check, draft, promissory note, or other negotiable instrument, or any other transaction by a banking institution in this State, because done or performed or transacted on any of the following legal holidays: the twelfth day of February, the twenty-second day of February, Good Friday, the fourteenth day of June, the twelfth day of October, the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November, or the eleventh day of November, or whenever any of said days shall occur on Sunday, done or performed or transacted on the following day (Monday): Provided, Such payment, certification, acceptance or other transaction would be valid if done or performed on a secular or business day: Provided further, however, That for the purpose of protesting or otherwise holding liable any party to any bill of exchange, check, draft, promissory note, or other negotiable instrument which shall not have been paid on any of said holidays, a demand for acceptance or payment thereof shall not be made, and notice of protest or dishonor thereof shall not be given, until the next succeeding secular or business day. Nothing herein shall be construed to require any banking institution to keep open for the transaction of business on any of said holidays, or to require any banking institution which elects to be open for business on all or any part of any of said holidays, to do or perform any act or transaction on such holiday; but all acts and transactions done or performed on any such holiday shall be at the option of such banking institution.

Section 3. This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment.

PENNSYLVANIA AGRICULTURE

PENNSYLVANIA is a great agricultural Commonwealth in spite of the fact that it usually is regarded as an industrial area. Its 115,000 farms and their buildings, equipment, machinery, livestock and crops in 1959 were valued at more than 3 billion dollars, representing a larger capital investment than either mining or the manufacturing of primary metals.

Rank Although Pennsylvania ranks 32nd in total area and 32nd in acres in farms, it ranked 15th in 1959 among all the states in cash receipts from farm products. This means that value of production per acre on Pennsylvania farms is above average.

Cash receipts from marketings from Pennsylvania farms amounted to $774,433,000 in 1959 and $784,823,000 in 1958. In addition, government payments to farmers in 1959 totaled $11,900,000 and $10,400,000 in 1958. Cash income from all livestock and livestock products in 1959 amounted to $578,671,000, including poultry and eggs; income from crops totaled $195,762,000.

Climate and rainfall are favorable to "grassland" farming. The farm land of the state is so situated as to permit the cultivation of a great variety of crops, since the elevation ranges from practically sea level to 3,000 feet and the crop-growing season from 80 to 207 days. This range makes possible the general cultivation of fruits, vegetables, cereals and grasses.

"Family-size" farms are the rule in Pennsylvania, the average being 112 acres with about 50 under cultivation; the remainder is essential pasture and woodland. Out of approximately 12,900,000 acres in farms, 6,000,000 are improved or crop land.

Grain Pennsylvania farms produce on the average, more wheat per acre than Kansas, Oklahoma, or any other mid-west "wheat-belt" state. Pennsylvania grows more corn and wheat per acre than the national average for those crops.

Pennsylvania leads all other states in the production of ice cream, mushrooms, cigar leaf tobacco, sausage products, scrapple, pretzels, nursery-grown Christmas trees, apples state-graded for processing, quality eggs state-graded for retail market, and spring and fall spinach. The state leads in the number of farmers' retail markets, bakeries, carbonated beverage and still drink plants.

Other firsts In addition, Pennsylvania has the largest apple processing plant in the world, the largest grape juice plant in the world, the largest package ice cream plant in the world, the largest chocolate processing plant in the world, and the largest Farm Show building in the world under one roof. It was the first state to pass meat inspection laws and first to establish livestock sanitary service.

Pennsylvania's Lancaster County ranks first among the nation's 3,000 counties in the value of farm products grown without aid of irrigation, first in the value of farm crops by farm households, and third in the tonnage of tobacco produced.

Dairy farming is important in Pennsylvania. More than 6 billion pounds of milk are produced annually. Dairy products bring in approximately 38 per cent of all farm cash income, totaling $303,-969,000 in 1959. Pennsylvania in 1958 was the 11th state designated as a modified certified brucellosis-free by the federal government. Pennsylvania ranked 4th in number of milk cows, 5th in volume of milk produced, 4th in income from dairy products and 4th in value of milk cows in 1959. Since World War I the average production per cow has increased more than 50 per cent and is now nearly 7,300 pounds per year.

Poultry Pennsylvania is a leader among the states in poultry and eggs. In 1958 the total farm cash income from this source was $177,000,-000. The State then ranked 1st in farm cash income from chickens, except broilers, 2nd in income from eggs, 2nd in total cash income from poultry and eggs, 3rd in value of chickens on farms, 3rd in number of chickens on farms, 4th in number of farm chickens raised and in number of eggs produced, and 9th in turkeys on January 1, 1959. Nine Pennsylvania counties are among the 100 highest in poultry sales in the United States and 14 are listed among the first 100 in the number of chickens on farms.

Miscellaneous farm products Pennsylvania ranked 3rd in 1959 in the United States in the production of maple sugar and syrup, 3rd in sour cherries, 4th in peaches, 4th in grapes, 3rd in clover and timothy hay, 6th in commercial apples, 7th in all cherries and all tobacco, and 10th in potatoes.

Hay was the leading crop in Pennsylvania in 1959, valued at $91,584,000. Corn was second in value followed in order by wheat, oats, potatoes, tobacco, vegetables, commercial apples, peaches, and barley.

Cattle and calves on farms January 1, 1960 led Pennsylvania livestock values at $406,026,000, the 1,049,000 milk cows and heifers 2 years old and older being valued at $296,867,000. The state's 21,178,000 chickens were second at $29,649,000 followed by hogs, horses and mules (work stock), sheep and lambs, and turkeys, in that order.

Leading farm industry The importance of the state's livestock and poultry industry is emphasized in the fact that 77 per cent of all gross farm income is derived from the sale of livestock and poultry and their products, including milk and eggs.

THE PENNSYLVANIA FARM SHOW

An event that annually draws international attention to Pennsylvania is the state Farm Show. It is housed in a main exhibition hall, livestock barns and arena which provide nearly 14 acres of floor space under one roof. The show itself is recognized as the largest of its kind in the nation, a mid-winter event that each January attracts an estimated half million or more visitors. Another estimated half million attend various other events held in the facilities each year.

The Pennsylvania Farm Show was founded in 1917. It grew from a desire on the part of various statewide farm organizations to display farm products in competition and hold annual educational meetings for the advancement of agriculture within the Commonwealth.

Historically, agricultural shows date back to the time of William Penn who encouraged agricultural and industrial fairs. Prior to 1850 most fairs were localized and some reached out for statewide participation.

Following organization of the state Agricultural Society in January 1851 that group sponsored what really became the first State Fair. It was held in Harrisburg, October 29-31, 1851 in a 10-acre area enclosed by a board fence ten feet high. A plowing match was held in an adjacent field.

County agricultural societies then began sponsoring county fairs which grew to such extent that the State Fair was discontinued after 1899. The state Agricultural Society and the state Board of Agriculture (organized in 1876) held their annual meeting in Harrisburg during the month of January, a time when farmer members were more free to attend. Other farm organizations called meetings during the same week and began to bring in displays of farm products.

Interest developed in these annual January shows to the extent that a committee met in Lancaster in the summer of 1916 to plan a state farm show to be held the following January in Harrisburg.

For 14 years the Farm Show exhibits and meetings were housed in available but unsatisfactory quarters in downtown Harrisburg. Attendance reached 50,000 by 1928 and the following year Governor John S. Fisher approved an appropriation for erection of the present main Farm Show Building. It was dedicated by him January 19, 1931, opening day of the 15th annual show. The cost was approximately $1,440,000. The building contains 425,000 square feet of floor space. The cattle barn was added in 1932 with 15,000 square feet. The large arena, adding 75,000 square feet, was erected at a cost of approximately $1,250,000 and dedicated January 16, 1932. A horse and beef cattle barn added 55,000 square feet in 1947, giving a grand total of 570,000 square feet of space under roof. A portable basketball floor was installed in the large arena in 1959.

Farm Show facilities are used more extensively each year. In 1960 show exhibitors are expected to spend more than 200 days in the mammoth building preparing for and conducting the 30 separate events. Building facilities are used by agricultural groups as well as for shows sponsored by non-farm groups.

In addition to the Pennsylvania Farm Show, other 1959 events included a farm machinery company sales meeting, Pennsylvania Atlantic Seaboard Hardware Association Show, Harrisburg Builders Show, "Chicken-of-Tomorrow" contest, Mobile Home Show, Funeral Directors Convention, Shrine Circus, Pennsylvania Sheep and Wool Growers Stud Ram Sale, Pennsylvania Holstein Cattle Show, statewide Junior Dairy Show, Northeastern Poultry Show, Pennsylvania Holstein State Cattle Sale, Pennsylvania National Horse Show, Standardbred Horse Sale, Pennsylvania Livestock Exposition, 4-H Club Tractor Clinic and scholastic basketball games.

The Farm Show each year sets new records for the number and quality of competitive farm products exhibits, the amount of premiums offered and paid, number of commercial exhibits and rural youth participation. Each show is dedicated to a theme which applies currently to the advancement of all Pennsylvania agriculture.

STATE HARNESS RACING COMMISSION

Act No. 728, signed by Governor David L. Lawrence, December 22, 1959, provides for and regulates harness racing with pari-mutuel betting and creates a State Harness Racing Commission as a departmental administrative commission of the Department of Agriculture. The three commissioners, who are non-salaried, serve for three years upon appointment by the Governor and after Senate confirmation.

First commissioners named and confirmed were Lawrence B. Sheppard, of Hanover, York County, chairman; Edward J. Kane, of Philadelphia; and Martin J. Cusick, of Sharpsville, Mercer County.

Fourteen counties made original applications for certification of petitions to place the question of permitting harness racing with pari-mutuel betting on the ballot for the April 26 primary election. The Commission may license corporations to operate plants in only those counties where the referendum is approved. A limit of four corporations may be licensed.

REVENUE SOURCES

PENNSYLVANIA'S SEVEN OPERATING FUNDS

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has approximately 60 funds. These funds are classed as general purpose, special revenue, working capital, bond, sinking, enterprise, trust and agency. Since the single general purpose fund (general fund) and the six special revenue funds finance the work of various departments and agencies, they are frequently called "operating" funds.

Seven Operating Funds The seven operating funds are the general, motor license, fish, game, banking, farm show, and milk control funds. The general fund receives all general tax revenues and other receipts not assigned by law or by contractual agreement to another fund. The six special revenue funds receive revenues set aside by law for a particular purpose.

A summary of the revenues received since the 1949-51 biennium is presented in the table below, including the official estimates for the 1959-61 biennium.

REVENUE FOR SEVEN OPERATING FUNDS<sup>1</sup>

(Actual Receipts for Five Biennia, June 1949 through May 1959; together with Official Estimates for the Biennium, June 1959 through May 1961)

FUNDS	Biennium Ended May 31
	1951	1953	1955	1957	1959 <sup>2</sup>	1961 (Est.)
Dollar figures in millions
Total .....	$1,055.8	$1,269.0	$1,405.1	$1,829.4	$2,091.0	$2,570.7
General .....	687.2	862.0	938.5	1,274.0	1,414.0	1,833.2
Motor .....	355.1	392.8	450.0	538.1	657.5	718.5
Fish .....	3.0	3.2	4.1	4.3	4.8	5.2
Game .....	7.8	8.2	9.1	9.5	10.8	9.7
Banking .....	1.7	1.8	2.1	2.2	2.5	2.7
Farm Show .....	0.3	0.3	0.4	0.4	0.5	0.5
Milk Control .....	0.6	0.6	1.0	0.9	0.9	0.9

The preponderant roles are played by the general and motor funds, since they account for approximately 99 per cent of the total revenue of the seven operating funds during each of the six biennia. Sixty-eight percent of the money received by the seven operating funds, during the last decade, went to the general fund. Thirty-one percent went to the motor fund. Only one percent of the total revenue for the operating funds was received by the other five funds.

General Fund Revenue Sources General Fund revenue indicated here includes only receipts available for appropriation by the General Assembly. The general fund receives all tax and non-tax revenue not designated by law to be placed in a specific fund. Tax revenue is made up of corporation, consumption, and other taxes which can be grouped as follows: (A) corporation taxes: corporate net income, capital stock and franchise, and special taxes on corporations; (B) consumption taxes: selective sales, cigarette, malt beverage, liquor; (C) other taxes: realty transfer, inheritance, minor, and repealed taxes; non-tax revenue: comprises liquor store profits, institutional reimbursements, licenses and other items.

An important shift is occurring in the revenue picture. The corporate net income tax was the most important source of revenue for the general fund during the period 1949-51 through 1955-57. During these four biennia, corporate net income tax receipts comprised 25 percent of general fund revenue. However, CNI dropped to 19 percent of the 1957-59 biennium total and 17 percent of the 1959-61 official estimate. The selective sales tax became the leading revenue producer in the 1957-59 biennium when this source of receipts amounted to 30 percent of the general fund total. According to the official estimates, sales and use tax receipts will provide 41 percent of the general fund revenue in the 1959-61 biennium.

Motor Fund The motor license fund is supported by the liquid fuels tax, licenses and fees, federal aid for highway construction, fines, and miscellaneous sources. The motor fund finances highway construction and maintenance, the operation of the highway department, and the administration of motor licensing and highway safety. This special revenue fund also provides the money for State Police Highway Patrol operations.

Five Other Operating Funds The five minor operating funds are the fish, game, banking, farm show and milk funds. Their revenue is obtained from sources such as licenses, fines, rentals and permits. Revenue for these funds will amount to an estimated $19 million during the 1959-61 biennium.

<sup>1</sup> The statistics do not include restricted receipts nor do they include revenue designated as "custodial". Since the Commonwealth acts as agent for such funds, the revenue is not available for general expenses. Custodial funds, for example, include the retirement, unemployment compensation, and veterans compensation funds.

<sup>2</sup> For detailed information concerning revenue received during the 1957-59 biennium and preceding biennia, refer to Research Bulletins 8 and 9. These Bulletins will be sent without charge to interested persons. Requests should be addressed to the Research & Statistics Staff Division, Department of Revenue, Room 400, Finance Building, Harrisburg.

COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY IN PENNSYLVANIA

A summary of major factors in the commerce and industry fields of Pennsylvania as reflected in the latest U. S. Census data shows that Pennsylvania had 18,996 manufacturing plants, or 6.4 per cent of the national total. Average employment in Pennsylvania manufacturing was 1,412,000 or 8.8 per cent of the national total.

Total non-farm employment was estimated for April of 1958 at 4,054,000 as compared to 3,768,300 reported by the U. S. Census in 1950.

The annual steel capacity of Pennsylvania on January 1, 1959 totaled 38,480,550 tons as reported by the American Iron and Steel Institute. This represented an increase of over 11.6 million tons from 1946 or a gain of 43%. This tonnage gain was the largest reported for any state. Pennsylvania's steel capacity is now 26.1 per cent of the United States' total of 147,633,670.

The total personal income of Pennsylvanians as estimated by the U. S. Department of Commerce was $23,617,000,000 in 1958 compared with $19,572,000,000 in 1954.

Over 54,000 new factory jobs will result from the completion of 981 new manufacturing and other plant and plant expansion projects announced for Pennsylvania during the 1958-59 period.

The Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority in four and a half years of its existence through March, 1960 has made 115 loan commitments for new plants and expansions totaling $15,065,803, creating 22,963 new factory jobs and yearly payrolls estimated at $80,112,598. Construction cost of the plants and expansion totaled $47,128,001.

STATE COLLEGES

The fourteen state colleges confer the degree of bachelor of science in education, with certain colleges offering graduate degrees, and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania issues teaching certificates to all graduates. A diversified program of activities is offered and assistance is given in placing graduates.

The regular college year consists of two semesters, and is held from September to May, inclusive. Summer sessions, lasting twelve weeks, are designed for accelerated students (those who desire to complete graduation requirements in less than four calendar years) and teachers-in-service who may advance their professional qualifications.

A basic fee of $200 for nine months; $504 for room, board and laundry; $18 to $90, special curriculum fees; $30 to $40, activities fee comprise the costs to students for one year.

Admission requirements and further information may be obtained by writing to the presidents of the colleges, whose names appear below.

FISH CULTURAL STATIONS

Pennsylvania has eleven stations throughout the Commonwealth that are maintained and operated in conjunction with the hatching, rearing, collection and distribution of fish for planting into the State's waters.

All except the Benner Spring Research Laboratory, the Erie Station and the Torresdale site may be classified as fish hatcheries. The stations and the general activities carried on at each are as follows:

- Bellefonte (Centre County) The Bellefonte station actually is composed of three separate plants. One is at Pleasant Gap, the second is known as the Lower Spring Creek Hatchery and the third is known as the Upper Spring Creek Hatchery. Lower Spring Creek is entirely a trout rearing facility. Pleasant Gap and Upper Spring Creek are predominantly trout hatcheries, though some warm water species are reared in each.
- Benner Spring (Centre County) Officially, this station is known as the Benner Spring Research Laboratory, and is essentially a fish culture experimental plant, one of the finest of its type in the nation. It is also the headquarters for the fish management and research activities of the Commission. Since its inauguration in 1953, its two main activities have been directed toward the modernization of fish cultural methods, and research. The latter has been almost entirely devoted to developing improved strains of trout and experiments with different types of fish diets, including the newer pellet types of fish food. Future plans for Benner Spring includes warm water fishes research.
- Corry (Erie County) The Corry station is devoted almost entirely to the hatching and rearing of trout. It contains but a few rearing ponds for warm water fishes.
- Erie (Erie County) The Erie station is not basically a point of fish production, though it is equipped and may be used occasionally for limited warm water fishes culture. It is the locale of the Commission's Lake Erie Biological Laboratory. It houses the workshop where nets needed and used in the various hatcheries and field work are made. Maintained there also is a live display of the native species of fishes.
- Huntsdale (Cumberland County) The operation at Huntsdale is similar to that at Corry, in that it is mainly a trout hatchery though some warm water fish ponds are located and operated there.
- Pleasant Mount (Wayne County) If any of the Fish Commission stations can be classified as a combination hatchery, it would be the Pleasant Mount facility. Trout and the warm water species are hatched and raised there, though the emphasis is on the latter.
- Reynoldsdale (Bedford County) The Reynoldsdale station falls in the same category as Corry and Huntsdale. Though some warm water fish ponds are located and operated there, the major concentration is on trout.
- Tionesta (Forest County) The major production of fish at Tionesta is made up of muskellunge and walleye. It is primarily a warm water species rearing station.
- Union City (Erie County) The Union City facility is one devoted entirely to the rearing of warm water species, mainly muskellunge, pike and walleye. Ponds are also maintained there, however, to hold fishes taken from Lake Erie pending their transfer to inland waters.
- Linesville (Crawford County) Occasionally referred to as the Pymatuning Hatchery because it adjoins Pymatuning Lake, the Linesville station is used as a rearing and distribution point for warm water fishes exclusively.
- Torresdale (Philadelphia County) Though formerly a hatchery and holding station for warm water fishes, on property leased from the City of Philadelphia, the Torresdale site early in 1956 was reduced to a "point of access" to the Delaware River, for purposes of netting catfish from the river for immediate transfer to inland waters approved by the Commission to receive this species of fish.

FISHERMAN'S PARADISE

No other single installation operated by the Pennsylvania Fish Commission attracts as much attention and as many visitors in the several weeks it is open as the Spring Creek Project, better known as Fisherman's Paradise, in Centre County, just 2½ miles from Bellefonte.

Originally conceived in 1934 as a stream improvement demonstration project, with fishing instituted as a secondary consideration to attract sportsmen the fishing soon became the major point of interest. Though a one-fish creel limit prevails, only barbless artificial flies and streamers are allowed, wading the stream is prohibited, and the fishing season limited to nine weeks, May 11 to July 14, Sundays excluded, a record total of 46,637 angler days were enjoyed there in 1956. During that time a total of 71,119 brook, brown and rainbow trout were caught, of which 9,828 were kept by the fishermen. By contrast, in 1934 only 2,952 angler days were registered.

Big trout are the rules at the Paradise. Few of those retained by the fishermen measured less than 18" and ranged up to the 30½" brown trout, weighing 17 pounds, the record fish creeled there, in 1946.

Among the increasing numbers who each year visit the project are anglers—men, women and children—from every county in the state, from as many as 30 other states, the nation's capital and Canada.

A more recent but welcome adjunct to the Paradise, which spans an approximate one-mile stretch of Spring Creek proper, is a separate stream of shorter and narrower dimensions paralleling the project and maintained exclusively for the ladies and junior misses. It, too, is well stocked with good-sized trout. Except for being spared the competition of more numerous men and boys of the family, no quarter is given nor asked. The girls fish by the same set of rules.

It is noteworthy that no fee beyond a fishing license is required to enjoy the sport afforded by this unique facility. The stream improvement devices installed there make any one square foot of the streams area as likely a spot as any other for the hopefuls who wet lines each season. With the ever shrinking amount of suitable trout water as a result of pollution and diversion, in Pennsylvania as elsewhere, coupled with the ever increasing numbers of fishermen seeking to participate in the sport, it becomes more and more imperative that every remaining foot of it be made a likely spot.

Stream improvement, therefore, is high on the agenda of the fisheries program evolved for the fishermen of Pennsylvania by the Fish Commission. As funds become available, the work will be undertaken. Meanwhile, with the pattern laid down on the Paradise as a guide, the ambitious sportsman can create his own Paradise back home.

STATE FORESTS

Over half of Pennsylvania is forested. About 1,879,917 acres of this timber is State Forest located chiefly in the mountainous sections of 40 counties where, in addition to offering great recreational benefits, it provides vital protection for the state's watersheds.

The purpose of the State Forests, according to law, is: "to provide a continuous supply of timber, lumber, wood, and other products to protect the watersheds, conserve the water, and regulate the flow of rivers and streams of the state and to furnish opportunities for healthful recreation for the public."

The State Forests under a scientific management plan implemented in 1955 now yield well over one-half million dollars in timber for commercial and industrial use per year. The State Forests are divided among 20 Forest Districts, each supervised by a District Forester and a staff of professional foresters, all of whom are graduates of accredited forestry schools. In addition, there are several hundred temporary employees used chiefly for fire protection, tree planting, and building and maintenance.

The forest fire organization of the Department of Forests and Waters is built around a permanent force of professional foresters. In addition, there are 3,800 forest fire wardens and 30,000 organized forest fire fighters located in all parts of the state to assist in the prevention and extinction of forest fires. Observers watch for forest fires from a system of 150 observation towers connected by telephone and short-wave radios.

The State Forests are managed on a sustained yield basis. Harvesting plans have been completed for all the forest areas and timber is cut so that the yield and reproduction rate are balanced. Such a plan not only makes possible a greater contribution of timber, but also assists in managing the state's great watersheds and in providing food and protection for wildlife.

A special section of the Department studies the best measures for combatting injurious forest insects and diseases. A widespread forest research program is carried out in cooperation with universities and other agencies of the state and Federal Governments.

During the past 60 years, 475,000,000 forest tree seedlings have been raised and distributed from State Forest Nurseries. Of this number, 80,000,000 were planted on State Forest areas, 250,000,000 were distributed to private land-owners, and 27,000,000 were distributed to other state departments and the Federal Government for planting in Pennsylvania. Pennsylvania now leads in the program of reforestation its idle acres. Reforestation is enforced by law on strip-mined areas. Seedlings are provided at low cost to land-owners who want to plant trees for reforestation or watershed protection.

In addition to watershed protection and timber production, the multiple purpose management of our State Forests provides approximately $1,000,000 a year in revenues from the development of oil and gas. One-tenth of Pennsylvania-produced natural gas comes from our State Forest lands and the money thus earned is used to build new State Parks and flood control projects.

The recreational use of our State Forests is also encouraged under multiple use management. Nearly 4,500 camp sites are leased to individuals and state organizations on State Forest lands. Pennsylvania has more forest recreation areas than any state except Oregon. There are 48 forest picnic areas. Eleven State Forest Monuments protect areas within the State Forest of great natural interest. To make the State Forests accessible, nearly 4,000 miles of forest roads and 3,000 miles of forest trails have been built.

A total of 36 cities and towns depend upon the State Forests for all or part of their water supply. Eleven of these towns have reservoirs on state-owned land. The population of these communities is more than a quarter of a million people.

STATE WATERS

The Waters Division of the Department of Forests and Waters includes the following divisions: the Division of Dams and Encroachments, the Division of Flood Control, the Division of Hydrography (in cooperation with the U. S. Geological Survey), and Federal-State Flood Forecasting Service (in cooperation with the U. S. Weather Bureau and the U. S. Geological Survey). Overseeing the operation of these divisions is the Water and Power Resources Board which also has direct jurisdiction over the Schuylkill River desilting project, the Delaware Canal, the Pymatuning Reservoir, and development at the Port of Erie. In addition, the Delaware River Navigation Commission, under the department, oversees navigation and pilotage on the Delaware River outside the jurisdiction of the City of Philadelphia. The Commonwealth, through the Department of Forests and Waters, has been contributing heavily toward improvements at the Port of Philadelphia.

State Control Under the general supervision of the Water and Power Resources Board, the water divisions are responsible for the administration of legislative acts providing for supervision, regulation, and control of all streams and other bodies of water in the Commonwealth. Legislation enacted with respect to the waters of the Commonwealth has been primarily for the purpose of protecting stream channels to minimize danger and damage to life and property, the supervision of the planning and construction of dams and other encroachments to eliminate or prevent the creation of flood hazards.

Major Drainage Basins Pennsylvania is divided hydrographically into five major drainage basins: the St. Lawrence, Delaware, Susquehanna, Potomac, and Ohio. The waters of the first four flow into the Atlantic Ocean. The waters of the Ohio drain into the Mississippi River and ultimately into the Gulf of Mexico. Approximately 4,400 streams of various sizes are located in these major drainage basins.

Natural Lakes The natural lakes and ponds located principally in the northeastern section of Pennsylvania are considerable in number but small in size. They are used principally for recreation. Very few natural lakes or ponds exist in other portions of the Commonwealth. There are only 19 natural lakes having areas greater than 200 acres. The largest is Conneaut Lake in Crawford County, having an area of 928 acres.

Dams There are approximately 6,300 dams in Pennsylvania, of which 700 are structures of importance. The largest artificial body of water created by a dam is the Pymatuning Reservoir in Crawford County which covers 16,400 acres. This reservoir was built to regulate the flow of the Shenango and Beaver Rivers. Of the number of dams constructed by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the past few years, George B. Stevenson flood control dam and reservoir on the First Fork Sinnemahoning Creek, near Sinnemahoning, Cameron and Potter Counties, is the most prominent.

Daily Consumption It is estimated that about 14 billion gallons of water are withdrawn on an average day to satisfy the water demands of Pennsylvania. Over 60 per cent of all the water withdrawn was used in the highly industrial areas in the five (5) counties of Allegheny, Philadelphia, Delaware, Westmoreland, and Beaver. Industry accounts for the consumption of approximately 90 per cent of the water. Nearly all of the water utilized, about 95 per cent, is obtained from streams, lakes, and ponds. Water required for water power to generate electricity averages about 46 billion gallons daily, more than four times the combined requirements for all other uses. Of the total, an average of about 43 billion gallons is used daily at hydroelectric plants along the lower Susquehanna River.

Future Needs In recent years, the trend toward urbanization, and the increased competition and demand for water for all uses, coupled with drought conditions experienced in certain sections of the Commonwealth, have emphasized the need for comprehensive planning and development of Pennsylvania's water resources. Increased departmental interest and activity in Water Resources Development is evidenced by a comprehensive plan for present and future development of the water resources of the Brandywine Valley offered to Chester County in 1959. It will provide for flood control, water supply, and recreation needs of the area until the year 2010.

The Division of Dams and Encroachments consists of three (3) sections: Dams, Encroachments, and Water Allocations. In 1959, the following number of applications processed by the Division of Dams and Encroachments were approved by the Water and Power Resources Board:

Encroachments, 683; Dams, 41; Water Allocations by Public Water Supply Agencies, 32.

Stream-gaging The Division of Hydrography cooperates with the U. S. Geological Survey in the operation of a network of approximately 170 stream-gaging stations throughout the Commonwealth. This operation includes collection of continuous records of stream stage and discharge plus analyses and interpretations necessary to convert the base data into forms needed by the operating divisions of the Department. Special hydrologic studies are undertaken when needed in order to assist the department in meeting its commitments; one major study recently completed is a report, in the form of a manual of instruction, concerning the use of hydrologic data in flood-plain zoning.

Flood Control Pennsylvania has the second most extensive state flood control program in the nation. It also has the most acute flood problem per capita in the nation. Since 1950, more than $26,000,000 has been expended by the state for flood control projects. These included a wide range of projects from dams like George B. Stevenson to levees like those at Weissport, to stream clearance projects which may cost less than $1,000.

The largest state flood control dam is the George B. Stevenson Dam. The largest Federal flood control dam is on Bear Creek in Carbon County. The largest state flood control project other than a dam is that at Stroudsburg which will cost in excess of $3,000,000 when completed. Similar large projects have been built in Scranton, Plymouth, Galeton, Weissport, and many other areas. In addition, the Commonwealth cooperates with the Federal Government in building flood projects by paying half the local costs. These include projects completed or under construction on the North Branch of the Susquehanna River near Wilkes-Barre, on the West Branch of the Susquehanna at Williamsport, on the Susquehanna at Sunbury and at Bradford, Allentown, Bethlehem, and Brookville.

Once a flood control project is completed by the Department of Forests and Waters, it is turned over to the local people for maintenance and operation.

Other Services Another vital service provided through the cooperation of the Department of Forests and Waters, the U. S. Weather Bureau, and the U. S. Geological Survey is the Federal-State Forecasting Service. This service saved an estimated $11,884,000 during 1959. There are 187 flood forecasting stations in Pennsylvania.

The Department is engaged in a beach erosion control program at Presque Isle near Erie.

STATE PARKS

Pennsylvania has the second most heavily used State Park system in the United States. In 1959, more than 22,000,000 people used the 70 State Parks.

Of the 70 Parks, 5 are operated by Commissions or Boards and the remainder are under the jurisdiction of the Division of State Parks. In addition, there are 48 State Forest picnic areas.

The nature of State Parks and the recreational facilities they offer have altered with time. Originally, they were simply areas within the State Forests along side a stream or a pond where picnic tables were set up and people willing to drive some distance could spend a quiet Sunday there. Today, our park philosophy is different. The purpose of State Parks according to law is "to promote healthful outdoor recreation and education and make available for such use natural areas of unusual scenic beauty, especially such as impressive views, water falls, gorges, creeks, caves, or other unique and interesting features."

People require areas more accessible than the State Forests. They also want a great variety of recreational outlets. Today, the Department of Forests and Waters has a program to build a State Park within 25 miles of every Pennsylvanian. Money for this purpose is derived from three sources: first, general appropriations of the General Assembly; second, the General State Authority; and third, revenues from the oil and gas program on State Forest lands.

Using this money, the Department has created 7 new State Parks since 1955, has carried out major capital improvements at 13 others, and now has a dozen sites under construction or development. Facilities provided in the Parks include outlets for picnicking, swimming, boating, fishing, camping, hiking, hunting, and winter sports.

Several State Parks are primarily of historic interest, such as Valley Forge, Washington Crossing, Bushy Run Battlefield, or Fort Necessity.

Two historic State Parks are at the heart of urban renewal programs in our great cities—Independence Mall State Park in Philadelphia and Point State Park in Pittsburgh.

Other parks like Big Pocono, Colton Point, Leonard Harrison, Cook Forest, McConnells Mill, Ricketts Glen and the Delaware Canal are high in scenic value.

Presque Isle State Park is one of the outstanding recreation areas in the Great Lakes.

On its 17-mile long expanse, Pymatuning Reservoir offers superb opportunities to boaters, fishermen, and observers interested in waterfowl.

Wherever they may be, the State Parks offer superb opportunities for enjoyment and relaxation.

COMMUNITY REDEVELOPMENT

Public responsibility for the creation of decent housing conditions and elimination of slums and blight was recognized in Pennsylvania as long ago as 1945 when the General Assembly enacted the Urban Redevelopment Law. This law recognizes the interdependency of local governing units, interested citizen groups and the state, and provides for the creation of bodies, corporate and politic, called Redevelopment Authorities, by any city or county in Pennsylvania. The authorities are empowered to (1) promote the elimination of blight (2) replan and redevelop such areas as are certified to it by the local planning commission (3) acquire properties in blighted areas by purchase, gift or power of eminent domain (4) contract with private, corporate or governmental redevelopers to redevelop blighted areas (5) rehouse displaced families in decent, safe and sanitary houses (6) provide that there is no discrimination in any redevelopment project because of race, color, religion or national origin (7) co-operate with state and federal governments to effectuate any of the foregoing purposes. The law further states that copies of the rules and regulations, by-laws, redevelopment proposals and contracts, as well as a yearly report, be filed with the Department of Commerce.

Assistance to plan and execute redevelopment proposals is given to the authorities by the Department through its Bureau of Community Development. State funds are allocated to the individual authorities on a ratio basis, with the community and the Federal government also participating in financing the costs of the undertaking.

Communities desiring to improve themselves through the redevelopment processes are required to prepare a master plan to provide guidance for their development and to delineate the use of areas redeveloped. Preparation of the master plans is also assisted by the Department's Bureau of Community Development and the federal government, and federal funds appropriated for local and regional planning is administered or supervised by the Bureau.

After the enactment of the Urban Redevelopment Act in 1945, subsequent legislation authorized State grants to assist local redevelopment authorities with grants for redevelopment purposes. The first appropriation was enacted in 1949, and later appropriations were made in 1955, 1957 and 1959.

The appropriations made in 1949, 1955 and 1957 have been completely expended, providing redevelopment grants totaling $11,964,202 to assist in the financing of 53 redevelopment projects located in 34 communities.

Payments are now being processed by the Department of Commerce from the 1959 appropriation of $5 million dollars. The first year a group of projects, eleven redevelopment areas in eight communities, are receiving grants totaling $2,743,386. The planning on all of these projects has been completed and the redevelopment authorities, which carry out the redevelopment of the areas, are ready to start on land acquisition. Other requests for assistance on file total over $7.7 million dollars. Most of these projects will be ready for assistance at least several months before the end of 1960. State grants for redevelopment have enabled smaller communities in Pennsylvania to participate in redevelopment to a greater extent than in any other State in the country. Twenty-eight of the thirty-four communities participating had a population in 1950 of less than 100,000.

By February 1960, Federal redevelopment (or renewal) funds reserved or allocated for Pennsylvania communities from appropriations of Congress under Title I of the National Housing Act of 1949 and subsequent amendments, have amounted to $172,904,991, of which $24,137,321 had been paid. The gross acres being developed amounted to 12,176 acres.

The money from local, state and federal sources being expended by the local redevelopment authorities is only part of the huge amount of capital that will be poured into local economy during the process of urban redevelopment.

As the redeveloped areas, many of which are in choice locations, are cleared of worn out buildings and marketed for their logical and most economic uses, millions of dollars in private capital are being expended to take advantage of these new sites.

An outstanding example of the benefits to a community resulting from urban redevelopment is the Golden Triangle in Pittsburgh. From a jungle of dark, ill assorted and commercially blighted structures that crowded the city area at the point, where the Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers meet to form the Ohio, there emerged a park like setting for major office buildings. Six multi-story office buildings and a new hotel have been completed and additional buildings are under consideration. The historic Fort Pitt Block-House has been given an appropriate setting. In connection with this restoration of values, an underground parking garage has been completed. A second redevelopment project adjacent to the downtown commercial district is being carried out now and a third one is in the planning stage. Additional redevelopment undertakings are in various stages of completion in other parts of the city. The concrete advantage to the local government to be gained from redevelopment are illustrated by the Golden Triangle. This area, which had a tax assessment of $6,684,390 in 1947, had an assessment of $21,487,615 ten years later.

Philadelphia also has made enormous strides in reclamation, particularly in its downtown area. Historic sites once obscured by deteriorating commercial properties are being restored to dignified proportions in keeping with their significance. The area from Independence Hall and Washington Square down to the Delaware River is included in a sweeping program which comprises all of Philadelphia east of Broad Street. This redevelopment is being carried out in a number of projects. Another tremendous project, Eastwick, is also in the process of accomplishment.

Philadelphia has the distinction of having completed the first redevelopment project in the country under title I of the United States Housing Act. This project, Penn Towne, is located in the vicinity of Eighth Street and Fairmount Avenue in North Philadelphia. It contains both new and rehabilitated garden-type apartments and homes for rental.

Renewal of a blighted area comprises three well-defined programs; reclamation, clearance and rebuilding. Financing may be through a private source or with the State, federal and local funds, the former two in ratio to the amount of local contribution, cash or non-cash, that is available. Both the federal and state governments have certain requirements necessary to qualify for public money. Through its Department of Commerce, the state makes available trained personnel to give such guidance as the local authorities may request.

A fourth action is involved in renewal, not necessarily on the site itself, but essential to a happy solution of the whole problem. This is the resettlement of people living in blighted areas, who must leave their homes before redevelopment can, in fact, begin. The relocation of displaced families creates an immediate need for responsible action on the part of the local governing units. To meet this need, both state and federal governments have enacted legislation to provide for housing authorities that work in cooperation with redevelopment authorities, local realtors and builders and the displaced tenants.

The total number of redevelopment authorities within the Commonwealth as of March 1, 1960 was 47. Of these, 32 are in cities and 15 in counties; 44 housing authorities work along with them.

<sup>(a)</sup> Includes four authorities which are in active operation.<sup>(b)</sup> Includes rental payments received from borough and townships, operating revenue from school project, interest or investments, and state aid grants.<sup>(c)</sup> Includes the number of municipalities served wholly or partially by school authorities and not just the number of incorporating municipalities. More than one authority may be incorporated by the same municipality and school authorities often serve more than just the incorporating municipality or municipalities.

ACT AMENDING THE CLASSIFICATION OF COUNTIES

AN ACT

To further amend sections thirty-one and thirty-two of the act, approved the second day of May, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (Pamphlet Laws 1278), entitled "An act relating to counties of the second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth classes; and revising, amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto," by reclassifying counties of the fifth, sixth and seventh classes, and providing for elections pursuant to changes of classification by counties.

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows:

Section 1. Section 31 of the act, approved the second day of May, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (Pamphlet Laws 1278), entitled "An act relating to counties of the second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth classes; and revising, amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto," as amended by the act, approved the sixth day of April, one thousand nine hundred forty-nine (Pamphlet Laws 401), is hereby further amended to read as follows:

Section 31. Counties Divided into Eight Classes.—For the purposes of legislation and the regulation of their affairs, counties of this Commonwealth, now in existence and those hereafter erected, shall be divided into eight classes as follows:

Those having a population of one million eight hundred thousand inhabitants and over shall constitute the first class.

Those having a population of eight hundred thousand and more, but less than one million eight hundred thousand inhabitants, shall constitute the second class.

Those having a population of two hundred and fifty thousand and more, but less than eight hundred thousand inhabitants, shall constitute the third class.

Those having a population of one hundred fifty thousand and more, but less than two hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants, shall constitute the fourth class.

Those having a population of [one hundred] ninety-five thousand and more, but less than one hundred fifty thousand inhabitants, shall constitute the fifth class.

Those having a population of [fifty] forty-five thousand and more, but less than [one hundred] ninety-five thousand inhabitants, shall constitute the sixth class.

Those having a population of twenty thousand and more, but less than [fifty] forty-five thousand inhabitants, shall constitute the seventh class.

Those having a population of less than twenty thousand inhabitants shall constitute the eighth class.

Section 2. Section 32 of the act, as amended by the act, approved the twenty-fifth day of June, one thousand nine hundred forty-one (Pamphlet Laws 211), is hereby further amended to read as follows:

Section 32. Ascertainment, Certification and Effect of Change of Class.—The classification of counties shall be ascertained and fixed according to their population by reference, from time to time, to the last preceding decennial United States census, deducting therefrom the number of persons residing on any lands that have been ceded to the United States. Whenever it shall appear by any such census that any county has attained a population entitling it to an advance in classification, or that a county has heretofore or hereafter decreased in population so as to recede in classification, as herein prescribed, it shall be the duty of the Governor, under the great seal of this Commonwealth, to certify that fact accordingly, to the board of county commissioners on or before the first day of October of the year succeeding that in which the census was taken, or as soon thereafter as may be practicable, having in mind the county offices which will be affected by such a certification, which certificate shall be forwarded by the Commissioners to the recorder of deeds [of the proper county] and be recorded in his office.

Changes of class, ascertained and certified as aforesaid, shall become effective on the first day of January next following the year in which the [census] change was [taken] so certified by the Governor to the county commissioners, except that salaries of county officers shall not thereby be increased or decreased during the terms for which they shall have been elected; and, Provided, That in the municipal election following such certification of change of class and preceding the effective date of such change, the proper number of persons shall be elected to fill any elective office or offices which will exist in the county by the change of classification certified, and that no election shall be held for any office which will be abolished as a result of such change of classification.

Section 3. This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment.

Approved—The 29th day of June, A. D. 1951.

ACT AMENDING THE CLASSIFICATION OF CITIES

AN ACT

To further amend section 2 of the act, approved the twenty-fifth day of June, one thousand eight hundred ninety-five (Pamphlet Laws 275), entitled "An act dividing the cities of this State into three classes with respect to their population, and designating the mode of ascertaining and changing the classification thereof in accordance therewith," by providing for the regression in classification of cities upon their decrease in population.

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows:

Section 1. Section 2 of the act, approved the twenty-fifth day of June, one thousand eight hundred twenty-five (Pamphlet Laws 275), entitled "An act dividing the cities of this State into three classes with respect to their population, and designating the mode of ascertaining and changing the classification thereof in accordance therewith," as amended by the act, approved the ninth day of March, one thousand nine hundred twenty-seven (Pamphlet Laws 18), is hereby further amended to read as follows:

Section 2. The classification of said cities respectively, to determine whether they shall advance in classification, shall be ascertained and fixed by reference to their population according to the last preceding United States census, and whenever it shall appear by any such census that any city of the second, second A or third class has attained a population entitling it to an advance in classification as herein prescribed, it shall be the duty of the Governor, under the great seal of this Commonwealth, to certify the fact accordingly, which certificate shall be entered at large upon the minutes of the councils of such city and recorded in the office for recording the deeds of the proper county.

The classification of said cities respectively, to determine whether they shall regress in classification, shall be ascertained and fixed by reference to the last two preceding United States decennial censuses, and whenever it shall appear by both of such censuses that any city of the first, second or second A class has decreased in population below the minimum population figures prescribed for its current classification, it shall be the duty of the Governor, under the great seal of the Commonwealth, to certify the fact accordingly, which certificate shall be entered at large upon the minutes of the councils of such city and recorded in the office for recording the deeds of the proper county.

It is the intent of the preceding paragraph that the classification of any city of the first, second and second class A shall not be changed because its population was below the minimum figure for its class at the time of one United States decennial census, because it is recognized that a change in the form of a municipal government is attended by certain expense and hardship and such change should not be occasioned by a temporary fluctuation in population but rather only after it is demonstrated by two censuses that the population of a city has remained below the minimum figure of its class for at least a decade.

At the municipal election occurring not less than one month after the date of such certificate the proper officers shall be elected to which the said city will become entitled under the change in classification, and upon the first Monday of April next ensuing the terms of all officers of said city then in office whose offices are superseded by reason thereof shall cease and determine, and the city government shall be duly organized and shall thereafter be controlled and regulated by the laws of this Commonwealth applicable to the same under the classification hereby fixed and appointed.

Until otherwise provided by law, cities of the second class A shall continue to be governed and shall have all the powers, privileges and prerogatives now provided by the laws of the Commonwealth relating to cities of the second class.

Section 2. The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment.

Approved—The 16th day of August, A. D. 1951.

ARMSTRONG COUNTY

* Parker City was incorporated in 1873 by special act as "The City of Parker" with provision for the biennial election of mayor and of four councilmen from each of the two wards. The act of incorporation provides that "all the powers, duties, authorities and privileges now by law vested in and belonging in the Burgers and Town Council of the Borough of Lawrence being, in the county of Armstrong shall continue and belong to the Mayor and City Council of the City of Parker." Parker City does not operate under the Third-class City Code, but all other laws applying to third-class cities do apply to it.

PENNSYLVANIA'S HISTORY IN REVIEW

Prepared by Sylvester K. Stevens, State Historian

Following early explorations on the Delaware by the Dutch, the Swedes established the first permanent settlements within the present limits of Pennsylvania and in 1643 fixed their capital at Tinicum, now a state park in which are located the foundations of the Swedish government building. Pennsylvania history began on a more substantial basis March 4, 1681, when King Charles granted a charter to William Penn to found a colony. The great proprietor arrived at the province in October the following year and shortly convened a general assembly of freeholders which enacted a fundamental code of laws and began the processes of a free government in Pennsylvania. Penn's "Holy Experiment" was rooted deeply in principles of religious freedom, free government by free men and just relationships with the aboriginal people. At Pennsbury Manor on the Delaware the Quaker founder had built a combined memorial home and center for conduct of the government. The site of Pennsbury is now a state park where a re-creation of the buildings and gardens is maintained by the Commonwealth as a memorial to its founder.

Pennsylvania a Leading Colony

Due to the policy of civil and religious freedom and the abundant opportunity for individual advancement, Pennsylvania's growth in colonial times was rapid. While the English Quakers remained the dominant strain, thousands of sturdy and freedom loving Germans and Scotch-Irish, as well as Welsh and other racial strains, came to the province. The colony became distinguished for its agriculture and commerce. Philadelphia became the principal city of the New World and has often been termed the Athens of colonial America. Benjamin Franklin did much to give the cultural and intellectual life of the Quaker providence world wide distinction. Pennsylvania played an important part in the colonial wars and indeed the first engagements with the French, which provoked the great French and Indian War, were the result of French efforts to claim the upper Allegheny valley region and establish forts at present Erie, Waterford, Franklin and Pittsburgh. Washington was sent to warn the French to vacate their forts but they refused and war followed the historic encounter at Fort Necessity. The Forbes expedition, organized at Carlisle, forced the enemy to abandon Fort Duquesne and the English replaced it with Fort Pitt, the beginning of Pittsburgh.

Pennsylvania Becomes a State

On the eve of the Revolution Pennsylvania was the third largest colony, though next to the last to be founded. Its unusual spirit of freedom and tolerance made its citizens natural leaders in the cause of independence, and this was especially true of the Scotch-Irish on the frontier. Its population was about 300,000 and settlement had reached into southwestern Pennsylvania and beyond the Alleghenies. The key importance of the province is well indicated by the fact that it was at Philadelphia that colonial leaders gathered, first at Carpenter's Hall and then at the State House (Independence Hall) to formulate their protests and ultimately their Declaration of Independence. Lancaster briefly and York for a longer period served as capitals during the Revolution. Pennsylvania was not only a governmental center but its iron industry, its gunsmiths and other artisans were indispensable to waging the Revolutionary War. Robert Morris and Haym Solomon were financiers of the Revolution. Contrary to popular impressions, more of the decisive battles and campaigns of the Revolution were waged in Pennsylvania than in New England. Southeastern Pennsylvania is dotted with imperishable Revolutionary monuments including Valley Forge and Brandywine. While the war was going on the citizens took time to frame an independent government for themselves, thereby creating the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania based upon the very democratic and forward looking Constitution of 1776.

From Revolution to Civil War

Pennsylvania's importance as a center of things was further demonstrated when the national government was in process of early development. Following a brief sojourn at New York the government under Washington moved in December, 1790, to Philadelphia where it remained until 1800. The Constitution itself had been framed at the Quaker city in 1787 and Independence Hall became fixed as the birthplace of the American nation and one of the world's greatest shrines of liberty. Pennsylvania's first Governor was Thomas Mifflin, Revolutionary patriot. In 1790 a new state constitution was framed, and again in 1838. The trend was toward greater popular democracy and more freedom. The state continued to develop as an important center for agriculture, but it also took the lead in new developments in transportation, industry and other fields of economic life. The first turnpike was built from Philadelphia to Lancaster in 1792; the railroads of the anthracite area were among the pioneer railway developments of the time. The beginnings of the use of coal, the drilling of the first oil well at Titusville in 1859, the rise of the charcoal iron industry and its continued expansion marked significant milestones in national economic progress. William Kelly, a native of Pittsburgh, is regarded by many as inventor of the blast furnace. John Fitch and Robert Fulton pioneered the development of the steamboat. Alexander Cassat, Thomas Scott and John A. Roebling were leaders in starting the nation on the path of railroad development.

The westward movement found Pennsylvania providing a pathway to the West through Pittsburgh, early known as "Gateway to the West." The old route of Forbes became the land route to the West for many thousands after the Revolution and the Allegheny River provided a water route from the northwest. The Cumberland Road passed through the southwestern corner of Pennsylvania. Both the Conestoga Wagon and the Pennsylvania Rifle were Pennsylvania contributions without which the westward march of land hungry, freedom loving American pioneers could never have taken place.

Leadership in social and cultural matters was not lacking in the same period. Pennsylvania's inventors and scientists were abundant and ever busy perfecting new devices for advancing the welfare of the country. Under the famed Free School Act of 1834 the state began a genuinely public system of education with equal educational opportunity within the reach of all. Numerous colleges and universities were founded and such institutions as were available in the form of the academy and private school multiplied. Charles Brockden Brown became the first American novelist. Philadelphia became a center for development of the literary magazine, for art and the stage.

Activity in national affairs was pronounced. In the War of 1812 one of the most significant engagements of the war was fought on Lake Erie in September, 1813. Youthful Captain Oliver Hazard Perry put into action a fleet which had been literally hewed from the forests at Erie by Daniel Dobbins, another native Pennsylvanian. After a bloody engagement the intrepid commander was able to dispatch the historic message, "We have met the enemy and they are ours; two ships, two brigs, one schooner and one sloop." Perry's flagship, the Niagara, has been restored as a state historic shrine. Once more Pennsylvania furnished the financiers for wartime in the persons of Albert Gallatin, secretary of the treasury, and Stephen Girard. James Buchanan heads a list of important national figures from the state in the world of politics and government. George Mifflin Dallas and Albert Gallatin were able secretaries of the treasury and Buchanan served not only as president but as a minister to England and secretary of state.

In the Civil War Pennsylvania played a decisive role in preserving the Union. Its leadership in the armed services was marked by the presence of men such as Meade, McClellan and Hancock in the army while Admiral David Porter carried forward in the navy the tradition of Barry and Decatur of earlier days. Thaddeus Stevens ranks perhaps second to Lincoln as a national war leader and an uncompromising foe of slavery. Governor Andrew Gregg Curtin was a tower of strength to the Union cause and through the famous War Governor's Conference at Altoona in September, 1862, did much to unify the northern states. Jay Cooke came to rescue of the Union cause and was instrumental in floating the loans which were necessary. The soil of Pennsylvania provided the setting for the decisive battle of the war—Gettysburg.

In More Recent Times

Following the Civil War Pennsylvania rapidly became a great industrial state and continued to rank as a keystone in the development of the nation. The State Constitution was again revised in 1873. In the Spanish-American War and again in World War I its sons were in the forefront defending the national honor. General Peyton March and Tasker H. Bliss were key military leaders in the last mentioned war. Admiral Sims, a Pennsylvania graduate of the Naval Academy, was one of the leaders on the sea. Pennsylvania furnished about a half million men in World War I and expended well over four billion dollars in contributions to war loans and in other ways.

The great development of the steel industry centering in western Pennsylvania, the great expansion in the use of bituminous and anthracite coal, cement, petroleum and other mineral riches of the state featured the continued economic progress of the period. Today Pennsylvania has over 17,000 manufacturing establishments, representing a capital investment in excess of $3,000,000,000 and employing over a million workers producing over $6,000,000,000 in manufactures. It has over 12,000 miles of railroads and has prepared for the air age with hundreds of improved airports. Its highway system ranks as one of the finest in the nation. Pittsburgh was the scene of the birth of both the motion picture theatre and commercial broadcasting. Charles and Frank Duryea, one-time Reading residents, helped pioneer the automobile. Pennsylvania still has the second largest farm population of any state and its prosperous farms produce a variety of agricultural products.

PENNSYLVANIA LIBERTY SHRINES

Prepared by Sylvester K. Stevens, State Historian

Perhaps no state is richer in historic shrines which are monuments to the development of the American democratic way of life with its ideals of human freedom and opportunity. It is possible to journey from one end of the Commonwealth to the other and find in every locality some bit of ground which has associated with it memories of the past; some event or personality connected with the history of our country. In recent years several of these have become public property and either under local, state or federal administration have been preserved and developed as historical parks. Patriotic and historical societies, as well as the Pennsylvania Historical Commission, have erected several hundred markers which also serve to call attention to points of outstanding significance.

In Philadelphia, Rich Historical Associations

The world's most outstanding shrine of liberty is today Independence Hall in Philadelphia. Province Hall, later called the State House and still later known throughout the civilized world as Independence Hall, was begun about 1732 and was originally planned by the well-known Philadelphia lawyer and amateur architect, Andrew Hamilton. In 1735 it became the meeting place for the colonial assembly; in 1752 the famed Liberty Bell was brought from London and hung in the tower. The Pennsylvania Assembly, the Governor's Council, the Library Company of Philadelphia, the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, all centered at the State House. In the spacious court yard were held various public forums and meetings. When the Continental Congress gathered at Philadelphia in September, 1774, to present a united protest against British policy it hoped to convene at the now well known Pennsylvania State House on lower Chestnut Street. The Assembly was still in session, however, and the Congress utilized the facilities of Carpenter's Hall, two blocks away. This building recently constructed by one of the first trade organizations in the world, the Carpenter's Company or Guild, was made available for the Congress. Still occupied by the Carpenter's Company it shares with the State House the distinction of being one of the birthplaces of independence. When the patriots returned to Philadelphia in 1775 the State House was at their disposal and it was here that the imperishable Declaration of Independence was proclaimed to the world and the Liberty Bell rung in jubilation at the tidings. It was here also that George Washington was made commander-in-chief of the Continental armies on June 15, 1775. In the summer of 1776 Pennsylvania held there its own first constitutional convention and adopted on September 28 the Constitution of 1776, the first constitution to be adopted by an independent American state. The Articles of Confederation, in reality the first constitutional government for the United States, were signed while the Congress sat in Independence Hall, having been framed while the Congress was at York.

It was to this hallowed spot that the delegates of the respective states returned in 1787 to formulate the present Constitution and fashion with it the framework upon which our national development has rested. Adjoining Independence Hall is Congress Hall where the Congress under the Constitution held its sessions during the sojourn in Philadelphia as national capital. Here George Washington was inaugurated the second time and the Farewell Address delivered. On Independence Square is also located the Hall of the American Philosophical Society founded by Benjamin Franklin to promote useful knowledge and the oldest learned society in America. This entire area is rich in its associations with the very foundations of liberty and self-government. On this ground once trod the truly great forbears of our country—Franklin, Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Hancock, Adams, and a host of others. The Independence Hall area was designated in April, 1943, as a national historic site by the Department of the Interior. Private, city, state and federal agencies are cooperating in its maintenance and development as a liberty shrine. Here Americans may continue to come year after year and wander through the stately halls in which once echoed the debates of the founders of the Republic or pause in silent thought on the heritage that has come down to us from those days of revolution and constitution making.

Philadelphia has many other buildings associated with the foundations of our democracy. At 239 Arch Street is the Betsy Ross House where legend has it that the first flag of the United States was designed. Several famous old churches with their hallowed traditions and old churchyards in which are buried many of the patriots of early days are scattered about lower Philadelphia. Old Swedes Church (Gloria Dei) at Swanson below Christian is a national historic site and the oldest church in the region, dating to before 1700. Christ Church on Second Street between Market and Arch was widely attended by those who took part in the Continental Congress and Federal Convention. In its graveyard are buried Robert Morris, Dr. Benjamin Rush and many other notables.

In Fairmount Park are the Letitia Street House built early in the eighteenth century and restored in 1932; Strawberry Mansion and many other fine old homes of prominent Pennsylvanians resident in Philadelphia in the early days of the Republic. Elfreth's Alley between Second and Front off Cherry Street, is a bit of old Philadelphia retaining much of the flavor of a century and more ago. The Philadelphia Society for the Preservation of Landmarks has done much to preserve the old Philadelphia of early days. On lower Chestnut Street the Old Custom House has been restored and is maintained by the Carl Schurz Foundation. There is perhaps no city in America where so much remains of buildings and places associated with the foundations of independence and nationhood. A tour of old Philadelphia is a lesson in American history.

Scenes of the Revolution

Southeastern Pennsylvania in general is a section rich in its association with Revolutionary times. The popular theory abetted by New England historians, that the Revolution was fought mainly in those states is without foundation. Actually Pennsylvania was a key point in this long struggle and particularly so because of the fact that Philadelphia was a capital of commerce and culture as well as the center of colonial efforts at unity. Valley Forge is inseparably associated with the struggle for independence. Its unforgettable lesson which comes down to us today is that of the necessity for unity in one cause and one purpose—liberty. Today as then our cause is freedom—the freedom of mankind from all those forces which tempt to destroy liberty. Washington's ragged and hungry little army of brave Continentals judged over rocky roads covered with snow and slush to establish their camp on the hills of Montgomery County in December, 1777. After spending the bitter winter in crude and hastily constructed log huts they marched forth the following spring to win the wars of independence. Out of suffering and travail had come a new army infused with a determination to win and strengthened by news of the alliance with France. It is a glorious story—one of the richest in the annals of any nation—and it is fortunate indeed that Americans are able to take courage and inspiration from it today. The site of the camp ground is owned by the Commonwealth and administered by the Valley Forge Park Commission as a permanent memorial. The development of the Park has followed the original plan laid out by the French engineer, General Duportail, upon Washington's orders. There are many points of interest in the Park, including the Washington Memorial Chapel, the Bake House, now Washington Inn, the Defender's Gate, the Cloister of the Colonies, the National Arch and the Pennsylvania Columns. It is truly one of America's outstanding shrines.

Not far distant Washington's Crossing Park memorializes Washington's most famous strategic maneuver, the surprise crossing of the Delaware and the successful attack upon the Hessians in New Jersey. Near Valley Forge and Philadelphia are the scenes connected with the struggle between Brandywine and Germantown. Some of the most important of Washington's campaigns are within this portion of Pennsylvania as he maneuvered to protect the furnaces and forges of the interior, vital defense industries of that day, from the hands of the enemy and at the same time recover control of Philadelphia.

Early Settlements on the Delaware

There are shrines of even earlier importance in this area. At Tinicum in Delaware County is located Governor Printz Park, a state property administered by the Pennsylvania Historical Commission, and the site of the first government of the state under the Swedes. Nearby is the John Morton homestead at Prospect Park, where the great grand-father of the patriot of Swedish descent built the original Morton home. Along the same Delaware on the opposite side of Philadelphia is the site of Pennsbury Manor, also a Commission-administered state shrine, memorializing William Penn, Quaker Founder and first Governor of Pennsylvania and one of the world's greatest men; a figure noted for his contribution to the spirit of religious tolerance and free government. At Chester, William Penn first set foot within the present limits of Pennsylvania, and it was here that the first Pennsylvania General Assembly was convened, a landmark in the story of democratic government in America. The Chester County region is also rich in its Revolutionary associations and markers have been erected at many points which serve as reminders of the struggle for independence waged on our soil. At Pottstown is located "Pottsgrove," home of John Potts, patriot and ironmaster and visited by Washington and other notables. The state recently acquired this property.

The Central Area

As one passes from the southeastern portion of the state toward central Pennsylvania, many interesting monuments to the rule of the Commonwealth in the development of our American liberty are observable. Allentown, then known as Northampton, was an important center for the manufacture of arms and other war materials in Revolutionary days, and it was here the Liberty Bell was hidden for safekeeping in the cellar of Zion Reformed Church during the British occupation of Philadelphia. Bethlehem, city of peace, was the center for a hospital established at Moravian Colonial Hall in 1776 to care for the American wounded in the campaigns about Philadelphia. The famous old Sun Inn, still in use, was visited by Washington, Franklin, Lafayette and many other notables in our history.

At nearby Easton occurred many events of significance. During colonial times Easton was a principal point for the defense of the Pennsylvania frontier and scene of vital Indian councils. It was here that the important expedition of General Sullivan against the Iroquois of New York was organized. The home of George Taylor, signer of the Declaration, is maintained as a shrine by the local chapter of the D. A. R. The house was built in 1757 by William Parsons, noted pioneer surveyor.

At Ephrata in the central part of the state is located another outstanding state shrine recently acquired for preservation and restoration. Here a group of mystics under the leadership of Conrad Beissel established early in the 18th century a communal religious colony devoted to the highest religious ideals. Noted throughout the world for its printing and music, Ephrata also had an intimate connection with the Revolution. Here were nursed many of the wounded from the battlefield at Brandywine and Peter Miller, Beissel's successor to leadership at Ephrata, is said to have translated the Declaration of Independence into several languages and to have been an unofficial secretary of state for the revolting colonies.

EPHRATA CLOISTERS

Few Pennsylvanians appreciate the fact that Daniel Boone was a native of their Commonwealth, but he was born of Quaker parentage in Oley Township (now Exeter Township), Berks County, November 2, 1734, where he spent the first sixteen years of his life on what was then Pennsylvania frontier. It is not too much to say that Boone received his early training in scouting and woodcraft on the soil of our own Pennsylvania, and that it was the background and training which prepared him for his mission as America's great frontiersman and pioneer in the development of the Ohio valley region following the Revolution. The Homestead which was the property of his father, Squire Boone, and on which Boone was born in a log cabin, is another state park and is in process of development by the Pennsylvania Historical Commission as a great youth shrine. Here the youth of modern America will be constantly reminded of the heroic career and the sterling qualities of leadership in the face of hardship and danger which are so well typified in the life of Pennsylvania-born Daniel Boone.

COUNTY STORE at LANDIS VALLEY FARM MUSEUM

Pennsylvanians may well be reminded also of the fact that it was on their soil that the long rifles of the typical pioneer were manufactured. Often known as the "Kentucky rifle" actually a majority of these weapons which did so much to win the wilderness were "Pennsylvania rifles" and manufactured in our own state, especially in Lancaster County which was long a center for the making of this particular type of gun. Another Pennsylvania contribution to the winning of the west was the Conestoga wagon, invented by Pennsylvania Germans and developed in the Conestoga region of Pennsylvania from which this "ship of the west" took its name. The Pennsylvania Farm Museum of Landis Valley, near Lancaster, is rich in material on this phase of our history.

Towards the West

York, Carlisle and Harrisburg are all names which call to mind interesting episodes in the story of our democracy and contain many points of interest to those interested in our nation's history. It was at York that the Continental Congress sat during the period in 1777 and 1778 when forced to abandon Philadelphia and it was in York that the final drafting of the Articles of Confederation was done and news of the French Alliance received. The Colonial Courthouse in which the Congress met is no longer standing but its site has been marked on Continental Square. The graves of Philip Livingston and James Smith, signers of the Declaration, are located in York. Carlisle was a frontier outpost of great strategic importance in French and Indian War days and the center for the organization of the Forbes expedition in 1758 and the later Bouquet expedition for the relief of Fort Pitt in 1763. These campaigns established Anglo-Saxon supremacy in eastern North America and made possible the pre-revolutionary development of the West. Carlisle is almost two centuries old and its central section retains much of the flavor of an earlier America. It is rich in its connection with outstanding Pennsylvanians. James Wilson, regarded by many as sharing the honor of "Father of the Constitution" with Madison, lived in Carlisle as did George Ross and Thomas Smith, signers. Molly Pitcher, heroine of Monmouth, was a resident of Carlisle and Dickinson College, located there, has had among its graduates men of outstanding note in the history of the state and nation. Historical markers locate many of the sites mentioned.

Harrisburg Becomes a Capital City

At nearby Harrisburg is located a city which had an interesting history prior to its designation as the state capital. Harrisburg was founded as a frontier trading post by John Harris, the elder, early in the 18th century and became a trading center and ferry point of the greatest importance at the head of the Cumberland and Lebanon valleys and a way station on the road to the West. John Harris, Jr., was also an outstanding figure and the home which he built is now the headquarters of the Dauphin County Historical Society on lower Front Street. It was later the home of Simon Cameron. The settlement was known through its early history as Harris' Ferry. William Maclay, with Robert Morris, Pennsylvania's first United States Senator, was native of Harrisburg and his home is still standing as a landmark of early days. The city was one of the largest northern troop centers during the Civil War with its Camp Curtin. The location of the Capital at Harrisburg in 1812 has made it a center for the development of Pennsylvania democratic life and institutions since that time.

The Civil War Reaches Into Pennsylvania

At nearby Gettysburg is located what must be regarded as one of the most outstanding shrines in American history, for it was here that the fate of the independent union which Washington had made possible by overcoming adversity at Valley Forge hung in the balance threatened by disunion and disaster. No other historical places are better known the world over than Gettysburg, Valley Forge and Independence Hall. Gettysburg was one of the truly decisive battles of history. Here the Confederate Army at its peak of power under the brilliant military and spiritual leader Robert E. Lee, engaged in a supreme effort to make secession and division of the Union an accomplished fact. Facing it was the greatest army the world had ever seen up to that time, the well-trained and equipped veterans of the Army of the Potomac, now led by a Pennsylvanian, General George Gordon Meade. Important victories at Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville by Lee gave him confidence to undertake the supreme challenge of an invasion of the North. The vital importance of Pennsylvania as a keystone in the Federal arch is indicated by the intent of Lee to strike through the Shenandoah Valley at Harrisburg and Philadelphia to cripple Union lines of communication as well as vital war industries.

Plans of Lee were doomed to encounter difficulty from the beginning when Union leaders learned of his troop movements and took steps to move the Army of the Potomac northward in a directly parallel line but east of the mountains. Thus two great armies marched slowly into Pennsylvania separated by but a few miles and finally met on a field of battle which neither had selected. On June 28 Meade was placed in command of the Army of the Potomac by Lincoln. Two days later scouting forces of both armies met accidentally at Gettysburg and by the following day concentration of forces had been begun which made a desperate battle inevitable. Thus the quiet little college town of Gettysburg was made by fate the scene of one of the greatest battles in history up to that time and one which was to have much to do with shaping the future destiny of the United States.

The story of the battle is well known. From July 1st to 3rd the Union Army stood the full shock of the attack having the advantage of operating on the inner portion of a semi-circle which the Confederates were forced to attack from an exterior semi-circle nearly five miles in length. The supreme effort of the Confederates came on July 3 with the immortal Pickett's charge, one of the classics in the history of modern warfare. With the failure of this desperate attack the Confederates were exhausted and the Army of the Potomac in a scarcely better condition. On July 4 the two armies lay facing each other torn and exhausted. The Union forces were in no position to counterattack and Lee was able successfully to withdraw his beaten army. The high tide of the Confederacy had been reached and the security of the Federal Union made possible.

Three months and sixteen days after the two great armies had withdrawn from the scene of conflict, a tall, gaunt man in sombre dress came to Gettysburg to dedicate the battlefield as a national cemetery. The immortal words of Lincoln spoken at that time summarized the significance of this titanic struggle on Pennsylvania's soil for all time. These men had not died in vain but that "this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom—and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

It is interesting to note that it was Pennsylvania's great Civil War Governor, Andrew Gregg Curtin, who took the lead in seeking to establish Gettysburg as a military shrine.

In 1895, the area was set aside by act of Congress as a national park. The Gettysburg Battlefield Memorial Association, founded after the battle, turned over 600 acres of land, 17 miles of roads and 320 monuments to the Federal Government. Until 1933 it was administered by the War Department when it was placed under the National Park Service. The present superintendent, Dr. Walter Coleman, is a Pennsylvanian. The development of the Park has been extensive in recent years. Historical research has established the location of troop units and charted the progress of the battle in minute detail. The Museum, the Eternal Light Peace Memorial and the many State Monuments add to the interest of the Park. It is visited annually by thousands and serves as a reminder to millions of Americans from generation to generation of the critical days of Civil War and the national unity which it forged from the bitter struggle at Gettysburg.

The British and the French Fight for Western Pennsylvania

Western Pennsylvania is rich in historical associations which go back into the critical years of the colonial era. It was in this region that the fate of Anglo-Saxon civilization in North America was finally determined. For two hundred years after the voyages of Cartier, France laid claim to the area drained by the Ohio and its tributaries. Expeditions in 1739 and again in 1749 sought to further establish the validity of the French claim. In 1753, actual military occupation was begun and substantial forces of French arrived at Presque Isle, now Erie, and proceeded to erect a fort with which to enforce their interest in the upper Allegheny valley. From Erie they proceeded to present Waterford where on the bluff overlooking the stream they constructed Fort Le Boeuf. Fort Venango at present day Franklin and Fort Duquesne at Pittsburgh were other later links in the French system of fortifications.

The French encroachment was not unchallenged and news of their progress in fortifying this strategic region moved Governor Dinwiddie of Virginia to action. Young George Washington was dispatched late in 1753 on a perilous journey to Fort Le Boeuf to warn the French from the Ohio valley. Enduring hazards and dangers which would daunt the stoutest heart, the youthful Virginian carried the message to the French commander, received his polite refusal and returned to Virginia. It was evident that a contest for supremacy was inevitable and action was not long delayed.

An English fort was hastily constructed at the forks of the Ohio, but the French easily captured this outpost on April 15, 1754, and proceeded to complete their own chain by building Fort Duquesne. Washington was once more called upon and led a force to counter the French, but at Fort Necessity he was forced to capitulate to a superior detachment under Sieur le Jumonville. The site of this historic engagement is now Fort Necessity Park administered by the National Park Service in cooperation with Pennsylvania.

A year later General Braddock undertook his ill-fated expedition and on ground which is now covered with homes and factories which are a part of suburban Pittsburgh, his British regulars were disastrously defeated. Refusing to heed the advice of Washington and provincial leaders, the British attempted to maintain regular military formations in the face of a typical frontier attack by French and Indians. Braddock was carried from the field mortally wounded. The site of his grave, sad reminder of the expedition, is located along U. S. Route 40 near Uniontown. France and England were at war for the mastery of the continent.

Raiding parties of French and Indians ravaged the Pennsylvania frontier. One successful counterthrust was the expedition of Colonel John Armstrong and the destruction of the Indian town of Kittanning on the site of the present town of that name.

Frontier Outposts

As a part of its effort to check the French and protect the frontier, England and its colonies built a vast chain of frontier outposts at strategic points throughout the central and south-central part of the province. Pennsylvania was a key battleground. Of these, probably the most important was Fort Augusta at the junction of the north and west branches of the Susquehanna at the old Indian town of Shamokin, now Sunbury. This fort proved a tower of strength in guarding the province. Its site is now state property and administered by the Pennsylvania Historical Commission. A scale model of the original Fort Augusta has been constructed on a part of the original site and is a point of great interest.

In 1758 the British and colonials determined upon a major thrust against the French. Once more Pennsylvania was a keystone and at Carlisle was assembled an army under General John Forbes, and his youthful assistant, Colonel Henry Bouquet. Under the utmost difficulty, the expedition cut the historic Forbes Road to Pittsburgh, forced the French to abandon Fort Duquesne and ultimately the forts to the northwest. Thus was ended the French threat to the security of the colonies and in 1763 the Treaty of Paris established the foundations of the British Empire. At the same time it freed the colonies of the French menace, opened the frontier to settlement and laid the basis for a spirit of independence which was to provoke the Revolution. The sites of forts and major engagements in this epic struggle have been adequately marked by various historical agencies. Only recently a project to unearth the foundations of historic Fort Pitt has been completed. Point Park and the Fort Pitt Blockhouse are monuments of this era located in present day Pittsburgh.

The Pittsburgh Area

Pittsburgh and the surrounding areas in southwestern and northwestern Pennsylvania are rich in historical associations. Through the southwestern corner of the state passed the famous old National or Cumberland Road, now U. S. Route 40. Old inns, a few of the old toll houses and other mementoes exist along the route. At Brownsville, the birthplace of John A. Brashear, scientist and humanitarian, and the statesmen and diplomats, James G. Blaine and Philander C. Knox, have been marked. The region has preserved much of the flavor of the westward march of the freedom loving pioneers.

To the north of Pittsburgh at Ambridge is the location of one of the most interesting and significant experiments in developing a communal society ever undertaken in America—Old Economy, home of the Harmony Society. The original buildings constructed in the mid-nineteenth century are still standing and have been restored and developed as a museum by the state under administration of the Historical Commission. Not far from Uniontown at New Geneva is located Friendship Hill, home of Albert Gallatin, and now maintained by the Friendship Hill Association.

Erie and the Fleet

It was at Erie that the youthful naval commander Oliver Hazard Perry came to take command. The flagship of the fleet, the famous Niagara, is owned by the state and was recently reconstructed and designed as a memorial. It is one of the truly famous naval vessels in American history for the Battle of Lake Erie in September, 1813, marked a turning point in the War of 1812. In the same city is located the Wayne Blockhouse, a replica of an original American Fort commanded by Wayne and the site of his original grave. At nearby Waterford remains of English and American forts may be observed together with the site of Fort Le Boeuf built by the French in 1753. At Titusville is the State Park located on the site of the first oil well drilled by Colonel Drake in 1859, a memorial to industrial progress.

Historical Sites Along the Northern Tier

Northeastern Pennsylvania is not without its historic sites. Near Wilkes-Barre at Wyoming is the famous Wyoming Battle Monument which commemorates the day of infamy when on July 3, 1776, a band of Tories and Indians struck in cold-blooded savagery at a small force of frontier defenders made up mainly of older men and youth incapable of serving in the Continental armies. The monument is maintained and an annual commemoration sponsored by the Wyoming Commemorative Association is held. To the north along the Susquehanna near Wyalusing is the site of Asylum (Azilum) where a band of French refugees from the storm of revolution established a settlement which was designed to provide a haven for Marie Antoinette and other leaders of the old monarchy. At Athens is the site of Athens Academy attended by Stephen Foster, troubador of the western movement, and the home of his brother at which he once spent some time in nearby Towanda. At Bethany is the home of David Wilmot of Wilmot Proviso fame. He is buried at Towanda. In Potter County are located the ruins of Ole Bull's Castle, another monument to an effort to found in Pennsylvania a settlement where freedom from intolerance and repression might be enjoyed.

These are by no means all of the shrines in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania which exist as reminders of the great heritage that is ours. Few states have played a more significant role in our national development. The state is dotted with the sites of frontier outposts and such historic expeditions as those of General John Forbes and General John Sullivan. Equally important are the remaining monuments to great leaders and events in the peacetime history of our country. From one end of the state to the other are located the birthplaces of men and women who have figured prominently in the building of America. Some are still standing but a majority have disappeared. Increased attention is being paid to searching them out and erecting adequate markers.

<sup>1</sup> Prior to the Act of February 28, 1816, there were three distinct libraries—that of the Executive Department, the Senate, and the House. By this Act the three libraries were consolidated, making a single library, and the appointment of a librarian by the joint library committee of the General Assembly was authorized. The Act of May 23, 1919, reorganizing the State Library, changed the title of the office of State Librarian to State Librarian and Director of the Museum. The Code of 1923 continued this title. In the 1929 Code the title of State Librarian was restored.

MEMBERS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY 1900-1959

(For list of members prior to 1900 see 1947-1948 edition of the PENNSYLVANIA MANUAL)

By Section 2, Article II, of the Constitution of 1873, the term of service of members of the General Assembly begins on the first day of December after their election. The term of service, as given in this table, is from the date of taking the oath of office, which is usually on the first Tuesday of January succeeding their election.

The county following each name is that of residence.

EXTRA SESSIONS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY AND SPECIAL SESSIONS OF THE SENATE, 1791-1944

1791—Thomas Mifflin convoked the General Assembly in special session on August 23, 1791, and in his address gave as the purpose: To plan internal improvements and provide for a loan to the Commonwealth; also, to make appropriations for repelling invaders committing depredations on the western frontiers of the State, and to take action on claims of Pennsylvania against the United States. The General Assembly met in Philadelphia and adjourned September 30, 1791.

1793—Thomas Mifflin, in his address to the Legislature, met in special session, beginning August 27, 1793, outlined the purpose of the session. The message was read August 30. He urged providing for defraying the expense of "defending the port and river Delaware," as well as an appropriation to pay deficiencies. The General Assembly adjourned September 5, 1793.

1794—The General Assembly was convened in extraordinary session, September 1, 1794, by Governor Thomas Mifflin in a call issued August 7, for the purpose of deriving means to maintain peace and dignity in the Commonwealth and providing more effectually for organizing, arming and equipping the militia in order to ensure a prompt and faithful compliance with government orders and such requisitions as the President might make. This was the proclamation convoking the General Assembly to take action in connection with the Whiskey Insurrection. The session was held at the State House, in the City of Philadelphia, and was adjourned September 23, 1794.

1797—The General Assembly was convened in extraordinary session on August 28, 1797. Governor Mifflin, in a message to the General Assembly, read on August 29, 1797, gave the purpose of the session: To enable surer compliance with requisition of United States for 10,000 militia from Pennsylvania and to effect regulations reforming the military system, for regulating bankruptcy, to obtain better prison management and to make appropriations for the Land Office and also for the Health Office to further its fight against a malignant fever. The session was adjourned August 29, 1797, having consumed but two legislative days.

1800—Governor Thomas McKean issued a proclamation, October 18, 1800, calling the General Assembly into special session, to lay before that body certain Federal obligations, viz.: Providing for the choice of electors for President and Vice-President. The session was convened at the borough of Lancaster, November 5, 1800, and ran into the regular session which began in December.

1829—The General Assembly was convoked in extra session for the consideration of matters pertaining to the Pennsylvania Canal and Railroad, by Governor John Andrew Shulze, on October 15, 1829, at the State Capitol. It adjourned December 1, 1829.

1840—From a message convening the General Assembly in extra session, it is found that the purpose was for consideration of certain financial matters of the Commonwealth. The General Assembly was called to meet on April 17, 1840, the day after the regular session had adjourned. Governor David Rittenhouse Porter issued the call on April 16, 1840. The session adjourned June 12, 1840.

1857—Governor James Pollock issued a proclamation on September 28, 1857, convening the General Assembly in special session to adopt measures of financial relief under circumstances threatening the credit of the Commonwealth. The session held at the State Capitol, was adjourned on October 13, 1857.

1861—Governor Andrew G. Curtin called a special session of the General Assembly to meet at the Capitol on April 30, 1861, "to adopt such measures as seem best with the appearance of the rebellion." The General Assembly adjourned May 16, 1861.

1864—Governor Curtin also issued a proclamation on August 1, 1864, for a special session of the General Assembly in the Capitol, August 9, 1864, to make greater military power of the Commonwealth immediately available for State and National defense. The session was called fourteen days before the date fixed for reconvening on August 23, in adjourned session by reason of war conditions. It was adjourned on August 25, 1864.

1883—As set forth in the executive's message, Governor Robert Emory Pattison convened the General Assembly in extra session June 7, 1883, to apportion the State into Senatorial and Representative districts in accordance to the provisions of the Constitution. The General Assembly adjourned on December 6, 1883.

1891—Governor Pattison also called an extra session of the Senate to begin on October 13, 1891, to investigate charges involving the Auditor General and State Treasurer and reflecting upon the manner in which their official duties had been performed and also to ascertain whether "reasonable cause" existed for their removal. A supplementary proclamation included in this extra session the charges concerning the conduct of several magistrates and constables in Philadelphia. The latter was issued October 12, 1891. The Senate adjourned on November 11, 1891.

1906—The General Assembly was called in extraordinary session, January 15, 1906, at 2 o'clock by Governor Samuel W. Pennypacker to consider legislation upon the following subjects: To adopt such measures as may be necessary for the handling of the public moneys; to reapportion the State into Senatorial and Representative districts; to provide for the personal registration of voters and for the government of cities of the first class; to designate the amount to be expended each year in the erection of county bridges; to abolish fees in the offices of the Secretary of the Commonwealth and the Insurance Commissioner. The General Assembly adjourned on February 15, 1906.

1926—Governor Gifford Pinchot, in a proclamation issued December 14, 1925, convening the General Assembly to meet in extraordinary session on January 13, 1926, gave as the purpose the following: To revise the election and registration laws; to regulate, through an appropriate State agency, the Anthracite coal industry for domestic use in Philadelphia; to revise laws concerning banks, trust companies and building and loan associations; to provide additional means for enforcing the Eighteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution; to adjust differences between New Jersey and Pennsylvania delaying the completion of the Philadelphia-Camden bridge; to provide for and define the powers and duties of a Giant Power Board; to enter into a compact with the States of New York and New Jersey for the regulation of the flow of the Delaware River. The extra session adjourned on February 18, 1926.

1931—The General Assembly was convened in extraordinary session, November 9, 1931, by Governor Pinchot in his proclamation of October 31, 1931, for the purpose of considering measures for unemployment relief. A supplementary proclamation, issued November 9, 1931, included additional appropriations to the Department of Welfare for non-sectarian, medical and surgical hospitals and to the Department of Military Affairs for the State Veterans' Commission. It also provided for new appropriations to any department, board or commission of the State Government to enable additional projects to be undertaken for unemployment relief. The extra session adjourned December 30, 1931.

1932—The General Assembly was convened in extraordinary session, June 27, 1932, by Governor Pinchot in his proclamation of June 22, 1932, for the purpose of reducing appropriations previously made to balance the deficiency; unemployment relief, to authorize political subdivisions; to negotiate emergency loans, increase their taxing powers and revise the method of collecting delinquent taxes; to expand the powers of the Secretary of Banking; to authorize building and loan associations; to borrow from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, to regulate payment of compensation of county employes in cities of the first class and proposing certain constitutional amendments. The extra session adjourned August 19, 1932.

1933—Governor Pinchot, in a proclamation dated November 9, 1933, convened the General Assembly in extraordinary session, November 13, 1933, to consider the following subjects: Taxation and control of alcoholic beverages, old age pensions, unemployment relief, cooperation with Federal agencies, permanent registration in cities, relief for financially distressed property owners and taxpayers, modification of the banking laws, milk control, and legislation necessary to give effect to any constitutional amendments adopted by the people on November 7, 1933. The session adjourned December 21, 1933.

1934—Governor Pinchot, in a proclamation dated September 8, 1934, convened the General Assembly in extraordinary session, September 12, 1934, to consider the following subject: Relief for the unemployed and indigent aged, financing necessary to provide therefor, and payment of expenses of the extraordinary session. The session adjourned September 20, 1934.

1936—Governor Earle, in a proclamation dated April 27, 1936, and a supplemental proclamation dated April 30, 1936, convened the General Assembly in extraordinary session, May 4, 1936, to consider the following subjects: Flood relief and control; unemployment relief; relief of overcrowding and correction of fire and safety hazards in State hospitals, asylums, sanatoria and other institutions; legislation to enable Pennsylvania to participate in the benefits of the Federal Social Security Acts; abatement of the penalties on real estate taxes; legislation to permit refunding of certain existing bonded indebtedness at lower rates of interest; appropriations for financially distressed school districts; an amendment to the State Constitution permitting amendments to be submitted to the electors more frequently than is now permitted; legislation to provide revenue for the above enumerated subjects. The session adjourned August 6, 1936.

1936—Governor Earle, in a proclamation dated November 25, 1936, convened the General Assembly in extraordinary session December 1, 1936, to consider the following subjects: Unemployment insurance and appropriations incident thereto, and appropriations for the expenses of the special session. The session adjourned December 5, 1936.

1938—Governor Earle, in a proclamation dated July 22, 1938, convened the General Assembly in extraordinary session July 25, 1938, to consider the following subjects: Investigation of criminal charges against persons holding office under the Commonwealth; regulation of investigations of charges involving misdemeanor in office by the General Assembly and the courts; defining and regulating powers and duties of Attorney General and district attorney; appropriation for public assistance and revision of laws relating to social security and public projects in order to obtain additional Federal grants; enlarging the scope of the General State Authority and municipal subdivisions in relation thereto; powers of school districts in the levy and collection of taxes; abatement of certain tax penalties; sale and exposure of fireworks; widening of approaches to the Delaware River Bridge; change of venue in criminal cases; regulating the use of devices for transmission of information in furtherance of gambling; amendment of the Public Utility Law; creation of commission to investigate the oil industry; invalidating certain commissions; action on report of the Anthracite Coal Industry Commission; appropriations for flood purposes; revision of laws relating to exits from buildings; acquisition of real estate from housing authorities; additional care for the mentally ill and feeble-minded; and appropriations for the special session. The session adjourned November 30, 1938.

1940—Governor James, in a proclamation dated April 29, 1940, convened the General Assembly in extraordinary session May 6, 1940, to consider the following subjects: Appropriations for payment of public assistance and for payment of administrative, auditing and disbursement expenses, relating thereto; appropriations to provide aid to financially handicapped school districts; appropriations to pay expenses of extraordinary session; appropriation to the Joint State Government Commission for the continuance of its work; to make funds available in General Fund for foregoing appropriations; to transfer moneys from various special funds in State Treasury and subsequent reimbursement of such special funds out of the General Fund and reductions in such appropriations made by the General Assembly in its 1939 session; legislation necessary to conform to the provisions of the Unemployment Compensation Law to the new definition of "wages," contained in the provisions of the Federal Internal Revenue Code, as amended, which now relate to, and impose, the Federal Unemployment Tax; legislation necessary to conform the provisions of the Public Assistance Law to the new definition of the term "dependent" children contained in Title IV of the Federal Social Security Act, as amended; legislation necessary to permit the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission to construct a turnpike from a point at or near Middlesex in Cumberland County, to the Delaware River, at or near Philadelphia, and to issue turnpike revenue bonds, payable solely from tolls to pay the cost of such construction; legislation providing for the transfer of such moneys from the Veterans' Compensation Fund to the Sinking Fund as may be available to meet the interest and Sinking Fund requirements of the Veterans' Compensation Bonds issued under authority of the act, approved January 5, 1934; legislation necessary to permit the Department of Property and Supplies to supervise and operate the Northwest Office Building; an amendment to the Pennsylvania Election Code to provide for the filling of vacancies occurring in the membership of either branch of the General Assembly when it is not in session or has not been called into extraordinary session. The session adjourned May 16, 1940.

1942—Governor James, in a proclamation dated February 10, 1942, and a supplemental proclamation dated February 17, 1942, convened the General Assembly in extraordinary session February 17, 1942, to consider the following subjects: Congressional reapportionment; postponement of the operation of the new parole law; suspension or modification of existing laws that interfere with the prosecution of any war in which this nation engages; authorizing political subdivisions to make appropriations to local district Councils of Defense; confirming and validating appropriations heretofore made for defense purposes; permitting political subdivisions to acquire funds for these purposes by borrowing or by taxation; prevention of sabotage; mobilization and use of fire-fighting forces and equipment for National defense purposes; air-raid precautions and blackouts; liberalization of Unemployment Compensation Law; appointment of substitute fiduciaries where existing fiduciaries are in military service, or allowing remaining fiduciaries to act where co-fiduciaries are in military service; cession by the Commonwealth to the United States of America of jurisdiction of certain lands in Eddystone for the establishment of a plant to produce steel forgings and other articles necessary for the National defense; revision of benefits payable to dependents under the provisions of the Act of June 7, 1917, P. L. 600, as amended; authorizing the Department of Highways to construct, replace or repair bridges in cities of the third class which form connecting links on State highways necessary for national defense in cases where Federal funds and city funds are available for such purposes; authorizing building and loan associations to act as fiscal agents of the United States Government for the sale of United States Defense Bonds and Stamps; extending the time within which writs of election may issue for holding special elections to fill vacancies occurring in either House of the General Assembly, and the time within which nominations thereof may be filed; appropriation to the Department of Justice for the conduct of parole work of the Board of Pardons; appropriation for the expenses of the Legislative Committee on Congressional Reapportionment; and appropriation for the expenses of the extraordinary session. ## CONGRESSIONAL APPORTIONMENT OF PENNSYLVANIA SINCE 1790

The House of Representatives of the United States is composed of members elected for the term of two years, by districts. The number apportioned to Pennsylvania has varied at each decennial census, as shown by the following table:

Census	By Whom Apportioned	When Apportioned	No. from Pa.	Whole num- ber	Ratio in Pa. one to
1790	Pa. General Assembly	March 12, 1791	8	65	30,000

<sup>1</sup> Under the census of 1880, and by the Act of the General Assembly of 1887 the Commonwealth was divided into twenty-eight districts. The ratio of representation fixed by Congress after the census of 1890 gave two additional representatives to Pennsylvania, making the total of thirty. No apportionment having been made by the General Assembly, the two not representing fixed districts were elected by the voters of the entire Commonwealth.

<sup>2</sup> Under the census of 1910, and by Act of Congress approved August 8, 1911, the Commonwealth was entitled to thirty-six representatives of Congress. On account of the General Assembly not having passed a reapportionment act, four representatives in Congress were elected by all the electors in Pennsylvania.

<sup>3</sup> Thirty-two representatives elected by districts, one at-large. Ratio figured on basis of thirty-three representatives.

<sup>1</sup> After taking seventy-nine ballots, the General Assembly of 1899 failed to elect a successor to M. S. Quay whose term of office expired March 4, 1899. On April 21, 1899, he was appointed by the Governor until the next meeting of the General Assembly or until his successor was duly elected and qualified. The United States Senate on April 24, 1900, by a vote of 33 to 32 refused to accept the commission given him by the Governor. On January 15, 1901, he was elected by the General Assembly for the balance of the term which commenced March 4, 1899.

POPULAR VOTE OF PENNSYLVANIA FOR PRESIDENT 1789-1956

(The majority of the returns given below were compiled from official records on file in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth. Some were obtained from old newspapers, files and other publications issued at the time of the elections. The data obtainable from the early records was so meager that it was found impossible, in giving the vote for President, to follow any rule, but simply to give the vote as obtained. In several cases the vote given is for the elector receiving the highest vote on each ticket, in one or two cases it is the average vote for each set of electors, but since 1868 the vote for the first elector on the respective tickets is given.)

<sup>1</sup> The first election for Presidential electors was held on the first Wednesday of January, 1789, under authority of an act passed by the General Assembly on October 4, 1788. The total of 5,930 given above is the vote cast in all the counties of the State except Allegheny, Bedford, Cumberland, Dauphin, Fayette, Huntingdon and Westmoreland for Edward Hand, the elector receiving the highest vote; the vote of the said counties not found.

<sup>2</sup> The vote of 1792 was taken from the official return on file in the Secretary of the Commonwealth's office, and is complete except for the counties of Washington, Franklin, Huntingdon and Mifflin, which are missing. George Washington had no opposition for President, though in a majority of the counties two sets of electors were voted for, the set of fifteen which was elected and another of twelve, whilst in many counties local candidates received the entire vote, there being nearly one hundred such persons who received from 1 to 100 votes in Pennsylvania. William Henry, the first elector on the ticket elected, received a total of 3,479 in Pennsylvania, four counties missing. William Todd, the first of the set of twelve electors, received a total in Pennsylvania of 1,097, four counties missing.

<sup>3</sup> This is the only presidential election at which the electors of Pennsylvania did not have an opportunity of expressing by popular vote their choice for President. The General Assembly having failed at the regular session of 1790-1800 to provide for the choosing of presidential electors in 1800, the Governor (Thomas McKean), on October 18, 1800, issued a proclamation for the assembling of the General Assembly in special session on November 5, 1800, at the court house in the borough of Lancaster, for the purpose of providing for the selection of presidential electors on behalf of Pennsylvania. The General Assembly, after a contest between the two houses as to the method of electing the electors, passed an act, which was approved by the Governor on December 1, 1800, providing for the naming of eight candidates for presidential electors by each House, and the selection of fifteen therefrom at a joint session of the two Houses. On December 2, 1800, the joint session of both Houses was held and the eight nominated by the House and seven of the eight nominated by the Senate, making in all fifteen (the number to which Pennsylvania was then entitled), were elected as presidential electors to represent Pennsylvania, in the choosing of a President and Vice-President in 1800. At the meeting of the electoral college eight of the electors voted for Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr, the Republican candidates, and seven for John Adams and C. C. Pinckney, the Federalist candidates.

<sup>4</sup> Four of the Monroe electors received over 41,000 votes, the highest being 42,495. The vote given is for the first elector on each ticket.

<sup>5</sup> The vote given of 1840 is for the first elector on each of the tickets, and is about the average vote cast for each set of electors. Jacob M. Gemmill, a Van Buren elector, received 143,784 votes, whilst Joseph Ritner, a Harrison elector, received 143,990, making the difference between the highest Van Buren elector and the lowest Harrison elector but 206.

*In 1856 Pennsylvania was entitled to twenty-seven presidential electors. The three principal sets of electors voted for were: 1st, the Democratic, in the interest of James Buchanan, 2d, the Union ticket in the interest of John C. Fremont, Republican, and Millard Fillmore, American. There were twenty-six electors on this ticket, the twenty-seventh name voted for being either that of John C. Fremont or Millard Fillmore. The total vote cast for the twenty-six Union electors was 203,534. Of the vote for the twenty-seventh elector, John C. Fremont received 147,286, and Millard Fillmore, 55,852. The 3d set of electors was a straight ticket in the interest of Millard Fillmore, American, 26,337 votes being cast for said set of electors.

†In the case of the Republican and McKinley-Citizen parties in 1896, the electors were the same and were voted for in the interest of McKinley for President and Hobart for Vice-President. In the case of the Democratic and Free Silver parties the electors were the same and were voted for in the interest of Bryan for President, and Sewell for Vice-President. The People's party electors were in the interest of Bryan for President, but of Watson for Vice-President, and were not the same as the Democratic electors.

<sup>1</sup> Previous to the election of 1804, each elector voted for two candidates for President; the one receiving the highest number of votes, if a majority, was declared elected President, and the next highest, Vice-President.

<sup>2</sup> There having been a tie vote, the choice devolved upon the House of Representatives. A choice was made on the 36th ballot, which was as follows: Jefferson—Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Vermont and Virginia—10 states; Burr—Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Rhode Island—4 states; Blank—Delaware and South Carolina—2 states.

<sup>3</sup> No choice having been made by the electoral college, the choice devolved upon the House of Representatives. A choice was made on the first ballot, which was as follows: Adams—Connecticut, Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Missouri, New Hampshire, New York, Ohio, Rhode Island and Vermont—13 states; Jackson—Alabama, Indiana, Mississippi, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, South Carolina and Tennessee—7 states; Crawford—Delaware, Georgia, North Carolina and Virginia—4 states.

* The Individual Index lists the names of persons related to federal, state, county and local government within Pennsylvania. No references to historical lists are given because of the volume, nor are out-of-state officials listed. All names appearing through Section Eight of the book are here, except communications publishers, editors and directors, burgesses, and airport owners and operators.
